PREFACE

Ferguson's Ceylon Directory, which will be in its 100th year of publication in 1958, is the most complete and reliable guide to everything connected with Ceylon. Nothing worth knowing about the Island is excluded, and the Directory is accepted all over the world in business, professional and educational circles as the most comprehensive publication of its kind.

As in previous issues, all information published has been revised and brought up-to-date, and is presented in an easily accessible and eminently readable form.

The compiler is indebted once again to all those who have made his task lighter by sending in prompt return of facts and figures. Without this ready and regular co-operation the issue of a publication such as Ferguson's Ceylon Directory can never be accomplished.
FOR YOUR NEXT HOLIDAY

CEYLON

The Land of Palms (specially Coconut), "Tea, Rubber, Cocoa, Spices (Cinnamon, Cardamoms, Camphor, Pepper &c.) Cinchona; Land of Pearls, Rubies, Sapphires, Alexandrite, Cat's-Eyes, Moonstones, Plumbago, &c.; of Ancient Ruined Cities Tropical Vegetation and Scenery (Highland and Lowland) the finest in the world; of a great variety of Fauna, from the Elephant to the Cobra-de-capello.

Ceylon is a pear-shaped island lying at the southern extremity of India, between 5°55' and 9°51' of North Latitude and 79°41' and 8°53' East Longitude. It is separated from India by the narrow Palk's Strait, which is crossed by Adam's Bridge, a row of islands and sandbanks, with very shallow water between.

The island extends 270 miles north and is 140 miles broad, its total area being 25,332 square miles.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

The mountains of Ceylon, which originally formed part of the great massif of Peninsular India consists of a central mass of crystalline Rock of Pre-Cambrian Age, which culminates in the Pidurutalagala (8,282 ft.) overlooking Nuwara Eliya.

The central mass of mountains is surrounded by broad coastal plains, which are broadest towards the northern slope of the island. The rivers radiate round the central mountain core and are short and swift and flow into the sea.

CLIMATE

Ceylon has a variety of climate, largely dependent on the monsoons and the elevation above sea-level. There are no well-marked seasons. The average mean temperature ranges from 79° to 82° in the low-country and from 58° to 75° in the hill country. The rainfall is low in the south-western and north-eastern coastal regions and averages under 50 inches a year; while in the wet zones, the average varies from too to zoo inches or more. Full temperature and rainfall figures are given on pages 67 to 69.

FLORA AND FAUNA

Ceylon has a wide variety of vegetation. Paddyfields are found in the wet low-country up to an elevation of about 2,000 feet above sea level. The coconut palm is characteristic of the coastal belt of the Southern, Western and North-western provinces, while plantations of Tea, and Rubber are confined to the mid and up-country. The total area cultivated is about 2 million acres. Full particulars will be found in the Agriculture and Estates Section.

Large tracts of forest chiefly supply timber for building, fuel and furniture trades.

The elephant is mostly associated with Ceylon, while leopards, bead, deer monkeys and buffaloes are some of the commoner animals.

POPULATION

A full Census taken on March 20, '53, showed a total population Of 8,098,637. The actual population on March 19, 5946 4as 6,657,339 which was 25.4 per cent, more thu in 1931. The 1953 Census figures reveal an increase of 21.6 per cent, when compared with the population in 1946. The 1953 Census figures are subject to further revision and should be regarded as Provisional only. The figures are found on pages 60 to 65.

O New Moon, W First Quarts., 0 Full Moon. (Last Quarter.
The times of sunrise and sunset are those of the appearance and disappearance of the Upper limb of the Sun on the horizon at Colombo, assuming the observer to be at sea-level. For every degree eastward from Colombo, the Sun will rise and set 4 minutes earlier. Observers 1,000, 2,000, 4,000, and 6,000 feet above sea-level would see the Sun rise 1, 3, 4, and 5 minutes earlier, respectively, and set the same amount later, than the corresponding times at sea-level. For places north and south of the latitude of Colombo there will be another correction to the times of sunrise and sunset, which varies with the time of year, but is never more than 5 minutes anywhere in Ceylon, and is usually much less.

The Sun will be directly overhead at Colombo on April 7-8 and September 5. At Colombo, the longest day, June 21, is 49 minutes longer than the shortest, December 22. At Jaffna the range increases to 68 minutes and at Galle reduces to 42 minutes.

Eclipses—There will be two eclipses of the Sun, one annular on April 30, the other total on October 23 both not visible in Ceylon. There will be two total eclipses of the Moon on May 13-14 (night) and November 7 both being visible in Ceylon.

Planets—Venus is a morning star till April and an evening star thereafter. Mars sets at midnight in January. It sets progressively earlier and is in the western sky till September, when it appear as a morning star rest of the year.

Jupiter rises before midnight at the begining of the year, and is in the sky all Oght during March. Setting earlier each day it is in the Western sky from June to September, and in the Eastern sky thereafter.

SatukO rises before dawn in January and rising gradually earlier is seen all night in late May and early June. In August it sets at midnight and is in the evening sky till November. It is a morning star in December.

Magnetism—The estimated mean value of the compass decnation (or variation) at Colombo in 1957 may be taken as approximately 3.1'W, the compass zero 4s West of true North by this aroun9

Eziganation: Look for the year in the first part to the table, and opposite it will be found the Dominical letter. When there are two letters together the first is for January and February, the second for the rest of the year. If a line with the month, in the second part of the table, find the dominical letter of the year and down the same plumb, with the letter find the day of the week, and the figures on the left give the day of the month. Thus for the Sundays in September 1980: Opposite 1980 in the third column are C FE under “Dominica! Letters.” In a line with September descend the column to “Sun.”—On the left are 7. / 21 ando8, the required dates.

The Currency of Ceylon

The Monetary Law Act No. 58 of 1949, replaced the Currency Ordinance No. 21 of 1941 with effect from 28th August 1950.

2. The Act provides for a Ceylon Rupee, having a par value equal to 2.8.8 grains of fine gold, as the unit of Currency. The Central Bank was established on 28th August 1950 as the authority responsible for the administration and regulation of the monetary and banking system of Ceylon. It is the sole authority for the issue of all currency and is the banker of the Government. It also manages the Public Debt and administers the Exchange Control Act. It holds the reserves of Commercial Banks and acts as a banker to banks and supervisor of banks.

3. Currency Notes are issued in the denominations of Re. 1, Rs. 2, Rs. 5, Rs. 10, Rs. 50 and Rs. 100 and coins in the decimal sub-divisions of the rupee i.e.,:

- 50 cent—nickel brass.
- 25 cent—nickel brass.
- 10 cent—nickel brass.
- 5 cent—cupro-nickel and since 1942 nickel brass.
- 1 cent—nickel brass.
- 1/2 cent—brass.

4. Subsidiary notes for 50 cents, 25 cents and to cents were issued until a few years ago. These subsidiary notes and all currency notes of the denominations of Re. 1/-, Rs. 2/-, Rs. 5/- and Rs. to/- bearing dates prior to 31st December 1950 i.e., notes issued by the Board of Commissioners of Currency and carrying the facsimile signatures of two Commissioners of Currency have been called in and will cease to be legal tender after 31st August, 1956.

5. Coins are legal tender for the payment of any amount.

6. The value of currency notes in circulation on 31st December 1956 was Rs. 417,839,256.50 and the value of subsidiary notes (demonetized) and coins in circulation on the same date was Rs. 1,396,866,95 and Rs. 24,133,524.56 respectively.

Historical

The decimal system of coinage came into operation on January 21, 1874 from which date accounts of the Island were kept in rupees and cents. Since 1825 they had been kept in pounds, shillings and pence and prior to that in rix-dollars, fanams and pice.

MONEY IN REPUBLIC OF INDIA.

The decimal coinage system was introduced in Indri with effect from April 1, 1957. There are seven coins beginning from Naya Paisa to the Rupee as follows:

- Naya Paisa
- 2 Naya Paisa
- 5 Naya Paisa
- to
to 50
too or One Rupee

The rupee remain the same both in nomenclature and value but all the other coins are expressed in terms of the Naya Paisa.

Only coins of the denomination of one Naya Paisa, 2, 5 and to Naya Paisa are in circulation. Coins of the higher denominations, namely 25 and 50 Naya Paisa and the new Rupee is to be introduced at a subsequent date. Till then, the existing guar* rupee, half rupee and rupee coins will be used in currency as they will undergo change in the value.

• One amunam is equivalent to five bushels, if thirty-two serus be reckoned to the bushel; but if each ecru, or measure as it is sometimes called, be "pressed down" and running over, only twenty-eight bushels be reckoned to the bushel. One neli, laha, pela, anda, and fauna are also used to denote measurement of surface upon a most anomalous principle. One neli, for instance, with reference to rice, denotes that extent of rice or kurakkan growing land which can be sown with that quantity of seed. Similarly one sanuna is taken to mean that surface of land which is generally sown by five bushels of seed. But different lands and localities naturally possess different degrees of fertility, and consequently, one amunam, as applied to surface, may signify two acres, as is usually assumed in Nuwara Eliya District or two-and-a-half, to which it is considered to be equivalent in the Eastern Province. The kuruniya and the Lahe are of varying size and extent, the former being sometimes equal to the taha and at other date only equal to the adj.

1 amunam is equal to 4 pelas, 40 'atmas or kurunis; 8 parrahs, 5 bushels, 20 pecks, 160 Oasts, or seen or neli.

2 pela is equal to 10 lahas or kurunis, 14 bushels, 5 pecks, 40 quarts or Seers or neli.
1 Lithe is equal to 4 quarts or Seers or 'tell.
1 pirrah is equal to 5 labia or kurunis, 20 quarts or Seers or neli.

SINHALA VILLAGE MEASURES

the extent of land is defined by the quantity of seed required to sow it, computed at the Amunami Measure and its subdivisions. In fertile lands the seed is not sown half so thickly as in poor soil; an Anmil= of good ground therefore will sometimes measure twice as many square feet as Amunam of poor soil.

CEYLON'S CONSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT

ON the 10th of February, '796, Colombo surrendered to the British forces. After the Capitulation, Ceylon was placed under the Government of Madras and its administration entrusted to a Major-General Commanding the Forces, assisted by three civil officers, who were stationed at Colombo, Galle and Jaffnapatam.

The employment, however, of dubashes imported from Madras for the purpose of collecting the revenue and the harsh methods they adopted in the performance of their duties led to an insurrection in several of the Korles in '797. That resulted in the withdrawal of Ceylon from the control of the Madras Government, the transfer of the Island to the Crown, its conversion into a King's Colony, and the appointment of the Hon. Frederick North as its first Governor on 12th October, '798.

The Governor was authorised to nominate a Council of Advice and form a civil establishment for the Island. This Council, which was then described as His Majesty's Council and was composed entirely of the higher members of the Civil Service, presided over by the Governor, formed the legislature of the Island. In '823 the following officers formed the Council:—The Lieut-Governor (who was also the Commander of the Forces), the Chief Justice, the Chief Secretary to the Government, the Commissioner of Revenue, the Hon. Mr. John. William Carrington and the Hon. Sir John D'Oyly, Bart., the last named gentleman having been appointed apparently to represent the interests of the Kandyan Provinces which had then been recently acquired.

THE COLEBROOKE COMMISSION

While this Council of Advice was still in existence, there arrived in Ceylon in '829, Lieut-Colonel Colebrooke and Mr. Charles H. Cameron who had been commissioned by the Home Government to inquire into and report, the former upon the Administration of the Government of Ceylon, the latter on the Judicial Establishments and Procedure in Ceylon.

According to William Digby, the immediate occasion of the appointment of this Commission was the financially disastrous position of the Colony at the time. Colebrooke in his Report of the 24th December, '31, while dealing exhaustively with the various matters that formed the subject of his inquiry, made certain important recommendations, effecting changes in the method of legislation and in the administration of the revenues of the Colony.

THE FIRST LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

Judging from the sequence of events the creation of a Legislative Council was perhaps immediately due to the suggestions thrown out by Lieut-Col. Colebrooke in his report, though Sir Alexander Johnston had previously in the year '809 submitted, without success, to the Home authorities a draft scheme for the formation of a Legislative Assembly and is therefore entitled to a fair share of the credit for the effected reforms.

During the administration of Sir Robert Wilmot Horton in 5833, the year which saw the proclamation of a new charter of Justice and the opening of a new Supreme Court, the old Council which was known as His Majesty's Council was dissolved and the power of enacting laws and of appropriating the public revenues was conferred on a Legislative Council, created by letters patent, composed of the members of the Executive Council, six in number, of four additional official members, and of six unofficial members, nominated by the Governor to represent the Sinhalese, Tamil, Burgher, General European Planting and Mercantile communities.

This Council of sixteen members who were appointed for life had for its president the Governor who, as such, was armed also with a casting vote in all discussions, as well as with the power of veto.

On taking their seats, every member was sworn not only to allegiance to the Throne, but to discharge his duties as Councillor according to his conscience. The Legislative Council, thus constituted, had power to discuss only such measures as might be submitted to it by the Governor and Executive Council, the privileges of unofficial members being restricted to submitting to Government the projected measure. As there was no certainty that such a project would ever be brought before the Council the privilege was never exercised.
From the inception of the Council the unofficial members showed signs of impatience at the restrictions imposed on their powers of legislation and at the lack of all control over the finances of the Colony.

Matters came to a head in 1863 when, acting on the instructions of the Secretary of State, Sir Hercules Robinson, then Governor, in spite of opposition of the unofficial members, appropriated for military contribution to the Mother Country, a sum of Rs.30,000, which had been specially voted for works and buildings. The struggle was continued in the session of 1864 and culminated in the resignation of the unofficial members from the Council in a body.

This step was followed by the formation of the Ceylon League to carry on the fight that had been fought unsuccessfully around the Council-board. It was composed not only of the Ex-members of Council but of the leading citizens of the island as well. A committee was formed, meetings held, and a vigorous campaign conducted both here and in England, Mr. George Wall, the Planting Member, having been specially commissioned by the League to interview the Home authorities and secure the sympathy of the British public.

The League declared its aim to be the securing of full control of the financial affairs of the Colony by a modification of the Constitution and procedure of the Council and disclaimed all desire for any violent change or enlargement of the Council, "however desirable on other grounds".

In furtherance of the objects of the League a petition was addressed to Queen Victoria signed by over 2500 of the inhabitants, European and Ceylonese.

This petition was forwarded by the Governor, Sir Hercules Robinson, with a covering despatch dated 23rd April 1866. In this famous State document the Governor adroitly obscured the main issue by discoursing on the applicability to a Colony like Ceylon of British Constitutional principles, the unfitness of the people for self-government and the unrepresentative character of the unofficial members who were merely nominees of Government.

The despatch put an end to all hope of securing redress. The petitioners were informed by the Earl of Carnavon, Colonial Secretary, that he felt himself unable to advise Her Majesty to accede to their prayer, alleging as a reason for the refusal to transfer to the Council the control over the revenues and legislation of the Colony, the inability to establish in Ceylon any legislature which would really represent the population of the country.

Mr. George Wall continued the struggle, but after some time returned to the island in 1869, and in a letter to Mr. R. V. Dunlop gave an account of his labours in England and the causes which contributed to the failure of his mission.

The bureaucracy had won and a more submissive council settled down to pursue the even tenour of its way, with all its old defects and imperfections.

Very minor changes were effected in its constitution when two additional unofficial members were appointed to represent the Kandyan Sinhalese and Mohammedan communities, and in 1889 the term of office of all unofficial members, who originally held their seats for life, was limited to five years. This period was extended to five years, with the right to renomination for another term of five years.

In 1903 an attempt was made during the administration of Sir West Ridgeway to have the Executive Council enlarged by the addition of two unofficial members to represent popular interests. With this object a motion was brought forward by M. J. N. Campbell, the General European member and carried through Council. The proposal was recommended by the Governor "as tending to satisfy the public opinion which is in favour of more effective representation in the Government of the Colony", but was vetoed by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, then Secretary of State, on the ground that such a step could be justified only if the members of the Legislative Council were the nominees not of the Governor but of the people,
CEYLON'S CONSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT

THE REFORMED COUNCIL

The demand for an effective participation in the Government of the Colony and the introduction of the elective principle in filling the seats of the Legislative Assembly became more insistent.

Chief among the causes that contributed to a desire for a reform in the existing Council were the spread of education, the increasing wealth of the people with the consequent formation of a leisured class, the growth of public opinion aided by a powerful press, the democratisation of the Indian institutions, and remotely, the general awakening of the people of the East. The new campaign for popular rights opened with a question asked in the House of Commons on the subject of Reform, and a Memorandum submitted by Mr. James Peiris on the 17th of December 1908 at the request of the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies who also had granted Mr. Peiris an interview. This was followed by memorials to the Secretary of State from the leading inhabitants of the Island, which was forwarded by Mr. H. J. C. Pereira, and from the Jaffna, Chilaw, National and Low Country Products Associations.

These were all agreed on the main points. They complained of the antiquated character of the constitution of the Legislative Council, of the over-representation of the European communities and prayed for the election of members to Council instead of nomination by the Crown and for the appointment of one or more unofficial members to seats in the Executive Council.

Mr. Peiris' memorandum and the five petitions formed the subject of a despatch (dated 6th Nov. 1909) to Governor McCallum which has not been printed. In his reply of the 26th May 1909 the Governor dealt in detail with the points raised in the memorials. At the outset he belittled the importance and denied the representative character claimed by the various associations which had memorialised. He strongly opposed the abolition of racial representation and the introduction of the elective principles in any form whatsoever.

The Governor, however, admitted that the educated class had to be reckoned with "having greatly increased in importance during the last 70 years", and proposed that a new member be nominated by the Governor in future to represent them in the Council.

"In view of the preponderance in numbers of the Low Country Sinhalese over all other nationalities" and apparently as a set-off to the retention of the three European members, a course which he advocated, he suggested the appointment of a second nominated Low Country Sinhalese member, and in order to maintain the official majority which would be affected if his recommendations were carried out, he advised the granting of seats in Council to the Government Agent of the Southern Province and the Principal Civil Medical Officer. He further opposed the addition of an unofficial member to the Executive Council for the reasons he detailed in paragraph 45 of his despatch.

In the meantime several Ceylonese gentlemen led by Mr. H. J. C. Pereira took advantage of their presence in England to obtain an interview with Colonel Seeley, then Under Secretary of State for the Colonies. The delegation was introduced by Lord Courtney. Their views, as stated by Earl Crewe in his despatch, were in general accordance with those expressed in the memorials.

Earl Creave, Secretary of State for the Colonies, replied on 24th December 1909. He adopted the view of the Governor with regard to the retention of the Executive Council in its present form, the necessity for maintenance of the principle of racial representation, and the existence of an educated class whose aspirations had to be satisfied. But disagreeing with the Governor, he decided on the granting of the franchise to the European, Burgher and the "educated Ceylonese" communities, abolishing at the same time the Seat of the General European member.

He also acquiesced in the creation of an additional seat for Low Country Sinhalese and the appointment of the Principal Civil Medical Officer as the new official member. The Governor was further directed to appoint a Commission to consider in what manner provision was to be made for the election of the new members.
It was only after the receipt of this despatch, when it became certain that the old order of things was passing away, that Sir Henry McCallum and his masterful lieutenant Sir Hugh Clifford recognised "that in these days of progress and reform the new departure was bound to come sooner or later."

The Reform Commission sent in their report on 7th April rem and at instance of the Governor recommended the granting of the franchise to Burgher and Ceylonese Government Servants, which had been denied them by the Secretary of State, and the appointment by the Governor of a locum tenens during the absence of an Elected Member. Both these proposals were adopted but subject to the modification that the franchise was restricted to Government servants born in Ceylon.

Later, the Tamil Community successfully pressed for the appointment of an additional member to represent them.

A section of the Burgher Community memorialized that the franchise for the election of the Burgher member be confined to themselves, but without success; while the efforts of the European community to induce the authorities to reconsider their decision to reduce the European representation proved equally futile. In passing it may be noted that the European and Burgher memorials lay emphasis on the fact that they never asked for nor desired the introduction of the elective principle.

A Draft Ordinance was framed on instructions from the Secretary of States and with a few amendments, the Franchise Bill was passed on 24th September 1910; and the new Council was proclaimed on the 16th of January 1912.

BEGINNINGS OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT

The reforms of 1912 had not in any appreciable measure satisfied the political aspirations of the Sinhalese and Tamil middle classes who formed the backbone of the reform movement. The agitation for reform therefore continued unabated and with the passage of years, along with the increasing hegemony of this Ceylonese middle class in the social and economic structure of the country which was signified by its widespread expansion in the professions, the ranks of the Government Service and the sphere of business, it came to its demands a vigour which by the end of the war made the further ignoring of its demands by the British Government impossible.

The immediate impetus of the clamour for reform came from the hostility to the British consequent on the severity of the repressive measures adopted under the Martial Law which was imposed during the 1915 riots. The Sinhalese in particular realised that the only way the repetition of such misrule could be prevented was by their obtaining some sort of effective control over the administration.

The nationalist revival which was taking place at this time and whose principal manifestation was cultural in the rediscovery of Sinhalese and Tamil civilisations now alleged to be swamped by an inferior European culture, also added strength to the demand for reforms.

The first two factors just mentioned assisted the reform movement in another way too; they had the effect of broadening the basis of the political movement in Ceylon into whose ranks it attracted those sections of the middle classes whose cultures were exclusively Sinhalese or Tamil, and who had been outside the pale of the small set of the English educated Ceylonese who had formed the backbone of the political movement in the past.

With its increasing strength the agitation for reform began to organise itself. The political forms of organisation if they can be termed organisations at all in the past, namely active groups of politically conscious individuals inspired by similar ideals, were considered insufficient for the perspectives that now opened up before the reform movement; some sort of permanency in organisation based on a common programme was considered desirable. Thus it was that the Oltylon Reform Lague was formed in May 1917 under the leadership of Sir Ponnambalam Arznachalam. The Ceylon National Association was also formed. And in December 1919, a more permanent organisation, the Ceylon National Congress was formed.

The National Congress lost no time in formulating its chief reform demands which were succinctly stated in its telegram to the Secretary of State, which read as follow*: "Enlarge Legislative Council about fifty members, four fifths elected territorially, wide male franchise, restricted female franchise remaining one-fifth officials and unofficials representing important minorities secondly, elected speaker, Legislative Council; thirdly, continuance full control budget, no dyarchy; fourthly, Executive Council at least half Ceylonese, chosen from elected members Legislative Council; fifthly, Governor should possess English parliamentary experience; sixthly, complete popular control local self-government. " In June 1920, the Secretary of State received deputations on the matter of reforms from the Kandyan Association, the Ceylon National Congress and the European Association of Ceylon.

NEW ORDER IN COUNCIL

Soon after in August 1920, the new Order in Council appeared. It had the appearance of being a liberal measure but while erecting a facade of representative government, in actual fact it preserved the dominance of the government under pseudo-democratic forms and gave no real power to the Ceylonese.

The Council was composed of 37 members of whom 16 were to be elected mainly on a communal basis, including such European members 14 officials, and 7 nominated members. While on paper the unofficials were in a majority of 23 to 14 over the officials, in reality however the 3 European members and the seven nominated members could generally be depended on to vote for the Government on any important measure, and thereby the Government had a majority of 24 to 13 over the unofficials.

The Order in Council further gave extraordinary powers to the Governor. He could stop the discussion of any bill or resolution, limit the time of any discussion and suspend unofficial members.

The Order in Council was naturally condemned by the general body of Ceylonese. The National Congress characterised it as having " introduced invidious distinctions between communities, created special interests and denied even the beginnings of responsible government ", and decided not to participate in the new Council.

Such reactions however came as a surprise to the British Government which as far as it was concerned, had never intended the reforms to contain the " beginnings of responsible government", the Legislative Council rather was to be a sort of durbar of an Indian ruler which enabled the latter to learn how his measures were likely to affect his subjects.

Governor Manning therefore at first ignored these protests; eventually however he came to realise the strength behind them when the Low Country Products Association which had to choose a member under the constitution refused to elect one. He therefore entered into a negotiation with the Congress and offered a further instalment of reforms based on the recommendations of the new Council, provided the National Congress co-operated. This offer was accepted by a majority of the Congress in December 1920, though a few like Sir P. Arunachalam doubted the wisdom of participation in such a Council.

The New Legislative Council met in June 1921. The 23 Unofficial members comprised 11 Low Country Sinhalese, 3 Tamils, 3 Europeans, 2 Burghers, 2 Kandyans, a Muslim and 1 Indian.

It was about this time that the split in the ranks of Ceylonese first arose when the Tamils broke away from the Congress. The immediate occasion for this decision was the refusal of Congress to support the demand for a reserved seat for the Tamils of the Western Province, despite such a promise made by two prominent Sinhalese Congressmen. The real causes were however deeper and arose principally from the struggle for openings in the Government Service and for a proportionate share of whatever political power passed into the hands of the people of Ceylon. Coming from the Dry Zone where the opportunities in life were limited and faced with the closure of openings for employment outside Ceylon, as in Malaya and Burma, the Tamils had now to fall back mainly on the Government Service in Ceylon, and the struggle for openings in it formed the core of the communal conflict.

The political strategy of the Tamils naturally underwent a change. They decided to look to the other minorities and, to flirt with the British Government for support of their demands; and their tactics took the Sarah withdrawal • of the support they had so long given to the policy of territorial representation, which they felt gave the Sinhalese a definite advantage over them, and the substitution of the policy of communal representation on the basis of 2 Tamil members for every 3 Sinhalese members. In their new policy they received the encouragement of Governor Manning who realised that the situation created by this division between the Sinhalese and the Tamils could if skilfully handled be turned to the advantage of the bureaucracy.

Therefore, when Sir James Peiris in December 1921 brought forward a motion in the Legislative Council for reforms along the lines demanded by the National Congress namely for

(i) A Council of 45 members, of whom 28 were to be elected including 9 from the Northern and Eastern provinces, while the minorities were to have limited to 6.

(ii) An elected Speaker, who would preside over the proceedings of the Council.

(iii) The lowering of the franchise qualification.

The Tamils opposed it. Instead they formed a united front with the European, Burgher, Muslim and Indian members of the Council and put forward a joint scheme of their own. According to it the Council of 45 members was to be composed of re territorially elected members, it communally elected members, 3 nominated non-officials and 12 officials.

Governor Manning put forward a scheme of his own, for a council of 47 members consisting of

(i) 21 territorially elected members (14 for the Sinhalese areas and 7 for the Tamil areas).

(ii) 6 communally elected members (3 European, 32 Burghers, I Ceylon

(iii) 5 communally nominated members (3 Muslims, 2 Indians).

(iv) 3 nominated seats for special interests and

(v) 12 officials.

His object was to make it impossible for one community to dominate the rest or for the Sinhalese and Tamils to outvote the officials and minorities. He expected that in all matters of vital importance, the Government could count on the votes of the 52 officials, the 8 nominated members, the 3 European members and the 2 Burgher members, thus giving it a total of 25 votes in a house of 47.

The only proposal of the Congress Sir William Manning agreed to was his inclusion in the territorial electorates of all those qualified to vote; he was opposed to all their other demands, except that he agreed to an elected Vice-President of the Council.

The National Congress naturally opposed the Governor's proposals vehemently, but the Secretary of State refused to make any fundamental changes to them. He however made a few concessions to appease the Congress, by giving two more seats to the Low Country Sinhalese. He also acceded to the demands for the election of their members by the Indians and the Muslims. The effect of the changes made by the Secretary of State was that the territorially elected members were increased to 23, the Sinhalese and Tamil representation to 24 and the elected Ceylonese members of 31 in a Council of 49. He thereby upset the delicately balanced structure of representation proposed by Sir William Manning and instead created a constitutional structure which had inherent in it the obstacles to its proper functioning.

The Executive Council was reformed to include 2 elected members of the Legislative Council; they had however to resign their membership of the latter on appointment to the former. No portfolios were however granted to them.

The Constitution which was introduced by an Order in Council of 1923 was thus destined from its very inception to breakdown; for the Executive was expected to carry out its measures through a Council with powers of financial control where 3 Ceylonese elected unofficials were in a majority.
It did not take long for it to be generally realised that this Constitution would never work satisfactorily. Hence the Donoughmore Commission was appointed to visit Ceylon and report on the working of the existing Constitution and any difficulties of administration which may have arisen in connection with it; to consider any proposals for the revision of the Constitution that may be put forward and to report what, if any, amendments of the Order in Council now in force should be made.

The Commission found that the principal defect in the existing Constitution arose from the breach between the Legislative and the Executive which was inherent in the Constitution itself. In the past the Constitution was such that the Executive was all powerful and did not have to accede to the wishes of the Legislature. The 1924 Reforms had transferred power to a Legislature which did not have the power to take the place of the Government it opposed. The Legislature had no power to enforce its decisions, nor had the Executive Committee power to act as it could not command a majority in the Legislative Council. The Executive further had not sufficient control over finances. It alone initiated expenditure but the control of finance was in the hands of Unofficials. Hence but the finance committee which consisted mainly of unofficials began to exercise more power than the Executive Council.

Further the severance of their connection with the Legislature on the part of the two elected members who were included in the Executive Council cut off the link between the Executive and the Unofficials. The latter thus drifted, a permanent opposition and as they were never expected to take up the responsibility of governing the country, indulged in irresponsible criticism of the Executive.

The Government could have in this situation carried out its measures with the official vote alone by exercising the special powers granted to it under the Constitution. As such action would have nullified the Legislature, it tried to win the co-operation of the Unofficials by conceding, compromising and virtually surrendering its powers. Thus it reduced itself to impotence and the Governor who alone was responsible for the administration of the island could not carry out his functions satisfactorily.

From this diagnosis of the defects of the 1924 Constitution, the Donoughmore Commissioners drew the conclusion that the further constitutional development of Ceylon must be on the road to responsible government. The novel contribution they were responsible for is too well known to need description; it was designed to provide the training ground for the day when Ceylon would run her own affairs. Whereas in the past, political activity had taken the form of a struggle for the very elements of responsible government, the phase was now reached where these elements were realised and the Ceylonese were to begin to run their government, though at first in a limited way. The agitators of the pre-Donoughmore era became transformed into the Ministers of the Donoughmore Constitution. Thus a clear line was drawn dividing the Constitutional development of Ceylon into two eras—the era before the Donoughmore Report and the era after.
CEYLON'S CONSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT

DOMINION STATUS

The Dortoughmore period, that is the period after 1931 the year in which the Donoughmore Constitution came into operation and gave Ceylon internal self-government with an Elected State Council was largely characterised by attempts to introduce amendments to this Constitution, and further the advance towards full self-government.

In October rev His Majesty's Government issued a Declaration (corollarily referred to as the Declaration of 1941) recognising the "urgency and importance of constitutional reform," and suggesting that the position would be examined after the War.

By the "Declaration of 1943" it was made known that His Majesty's Government's post-war examination of the reform of the Constitution would be directed towards the grant to Ceylon by Order-in-Council of full responsible government under the Crown in all matters of internal civil administration, Subject to certain conditions.

This would have obviously imposed limitations on full self-government.

The Board of Ministers, therefore made a statement in 1943 through the Loader of the State Council; Mr. D. S. Senanayake, setting out with clarity how they understood the offer and stating that they were proceeding to frame a Constitution in accordance with their interpretation.

There followed a period of rather uncertain exchange of views between the Ceylonese leaders and the Colonial authorities culminating in the appointment of a Commission with Lord Soulbury as Chairman, and assisted by Mr. (later Sir) Frederick Rees and Mr. (later Sir) Frederick Burrows, to examine, the Ministers' proposals and "provide full opportunity for consultation to take place with various interests, including minority communities, concerned with the subject of Constitutional reform and with the proposals the Ministers had formulated."

Shortly after the Soulbury Commissioners had completed their work Ceylon received her Independence by the Independence Act of 1947 passed in the House of Commons.

The Constitution of Ceylon is contained in two sets of documents

These documents contain the legal powers for full Dominion Status, meaning that Ceylon had after nearly 130 years of subjugation to a foreign power emerged as a free nation with the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The ceremonial opening of the first Parliament of the Dominion of Ceylon on February ro, 1948, was an occasion of great historical significance.

The opening was performed by His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, who came to Ceylon fet the occasion accompanied by the Duchess of Gloucester.

The Duke delivered the speech from the Throne, while Sir Oliver Goonatilleke, Leader of the Senate, and Mr. S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike, Leader of the House of Representatives, spoke on behalf of the respective Houses of Parliament.

The Ceylon Democratic Congress—(Formerly The Ceylon Indian Congress) (1939)-213/2, Main St., (P.O. Box 134) Colombo. The Ceylon Indian Congress was brought into being on 25-7-39 by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru who succeeded in bringing together a group of leading Indians for the purpose of forming an organisation representative of all sections of the Indian Community in Ceylon. A provisional Committee of 2r members was appointed to draft and adopt a constitution.

The Constitution which was then adopted is with minor amendments in force to-day.

The name was changed into the present name at the 14th Annual Sessions held at Gampola on 2-5 1954.

The aims and objects of the organisations are:—(a) To establish a Society which secures the equitable ownership, control and distribution of Material Resources and Wealth so as to uphold the dignity of the individual—(b) To secure for all Sections and Communities in this Island equal rights in the Social, political and economic spheres,—(c) to remove the disabilities imposed on the Ceylon Indian Community and (d)—To promote world-peace and fellowship.

The Federal Party was formed about 1949 as a result of divisions within the All-Ceylon Tamil Congress, consequent on the acceptance of Ministerial office by Mr. G. G. Ponnambalam, the Tamil Congress Leader, in the Government of late Mr. D. S. Senanayake. The pioneers of the Federal Party are Mr. S. J. V. Chelvanayakam, Mr. C. Vanniasingham and Dr. E. M. V. Naganathan, who broke away from the Tamil Congress, and formed the Federal Party.

The Federal Party suffered severe reverses at the 1952 General Election to Parliament, and even its leader, Mr. S. J. V. Chelvanayakarn, was defeated. But the party continued its political propaganda, and swept through the Northern and Eastern Provinces at the 1956 General Election.

A REVIEW OF CEYLON HISTORY

INDIAN LEGEND

Two notable references to Ceylon are early Indian. The Indian epic, the Ramayana, describes an invasion of Ceylon, defeat of the demon-king, Ravana and the rescue of Sita by her husband Rama, an avatar of Vishnu. The great mural painting in the Ajanta caves called the “Sinhala-avadana” seems a representation of accepted tradition.

The Anuradhapura Era

Iii Ceylon the tradition begins with colonization from N.E. India by Vijaya and his 700 followers in 483 B.C. Panduvasadeva, Vijaya's nephew and successor, was brought to the throne from N.E. India and so was his queen, Subhadakaccana. From this Kshatriya couple was descended the Sinhalese royal dynasty. Their grandson Pandukabhaya 377 B.C., took Anuradhapagama (named after the constellation under which it was founded and also after the chief who founded it) to be the royal capital henceforth it was called Anuradhapura forever. The zonal planning of the royal city and the administrative measures for the country villages indicate a high grade of civic organization.

Advent of Buddhism

Pandukabhaya's grandson Devanampiya Tissa 247 B.C. exchanged gifts and letters with the great Indian Emperor Asoka, underwent a second consecration with requisites sent by Asoka and adopted his advice to become a Buddhist. The missionaries sent by Asoka were led by Mahinda his son by a morganatic wife. Mahinda preached to and converted royalty, the nobility and the commonality. His first ordination was of 500 of the Rajavansiya (high nobility) at Issarasamanarama (now Isurumuniya) and his second was of 500 Vaisyas at Vaisyagiri (now Vassagiri). Mahinda asked female devotees to wait for nuns to perform ordination and sent for his sister the nun Sanghamitta who was sent by Asoka with other nuns and qe desired gift, a branch of the very Bo-tree under which Gotama Buddha sitt in meditation until he attained Enlightenment; this branch, planted at Anuradhapura, is the Sacred Tree which has recently thrown out a new shoot. Buddhism from about 246 B.C. was henceforth the religion of the Court and the people, although Kataragama Deviyo and other primeval puissiant deviyos were not suppressed.

Tri-Sinhala

Two of Devanampiya Tissa's brothers established subordinate kingdoms, Maya Rata in the S. West, between the rivers, Deduru-oya and Kaluganga, and Ruhuna Rata in the South and East, the country south of the Kaluganga and the Mahaveli ganga, its central mountainous part was the Malaya district. The northern kingdom, Pihiti Rata was also called Raja Rata as the sovereign resided in it. These three kingdoms, the Tri-Sinhala, were abolished when Parakrama Bahu 1153 a.c.--1186 a.c. destroyed the autonomy of Maya Rata and Ruhuna Rata. The first thupa or dagoba in Ceylon (very different in shape from the restored structure now seen) was built by Devanampiya Tissa and enshrined the left collar-bone of Buddha; the extensive and once prosperous monastery around was called the Thuparama. Monasteries were many and monks so numerous that military weakness may be suspected.

First and Second Tamil Usurpations

Thirty years after Devanampiya Tissa's death, two Tamils irtyd,ded and ruled the country for 22 years when a Sinhalese prince gained the throne but ro years later he was replaced by a Tamil, Elara, who ruled justly and well for 44 years, wheath the young princt of Ruhuna came up from Magama, invaded Pihiti Rata winning battles all the way and finally defeated Elara near the south gate of Anuradhapura.

Great Thupas

The victorious Dutugemuip was the builder of Mirisveti dagaba in the first years of his reign n.c.-77 B. and of Ruwanveliseya in his last years. This dagaba weds called the Mahathupa on account of its bulk; another big pious erection of his was a 9 storeyed monastery called the Brazen Palace as its roof was covered with brass; its x600 stone pillars of the ground floor are the only remains of it.

Third Tamil Usurpation

Only 33 years after his death there was a third Tamil usurpation of the throne and the Sinhalese King Valagambahu's exile in the Malaya district lasted for x5 years. The restored king built the thupa now called Lankarama, the monastery Manisomarama and the great northern dagaba, the Abhayagiri in commemoration of incidents connected with his flight and exile. He is said to have ordered drip-hedges to be cut on all rock-caves because he felt the need when in hiding in Malaya.

Era of Great Builders

His dagaba was slightly bigger than the Maha Thupa. Now ensued about four and half centuries of freedom from Tamil usurpations with prosperity, building of new monasteries, embellishments and additions. building of tanks and above all continuance of trade and cultural relations with Buddhist N.E. India and China, the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea. Building of tanks and temples, Mahasena 277 A.C. built the great tanks at Minneriya and Padawiyi and his sister built Kaddulu tank. IVfahasena's dagaba, the Jetavanarama, was bigger than even the Abhayagiri.

The Mahayana heresy had a short period of royal patronage.

Coming of Tooth-Relic

When _a King_ in Kalinga was in danger of losing the Tooth-Relic of Buddha _to a_ powerful invader he instructed his daughter and his son-in-law to flee to Ceylon and entrust it "to my friend King Mahasena." It reached Ceylon in the reign of Mahasena's son Siri Meghavanna who placed it in a shrine attached to the Palace and occasionally exhibited it to the people, a custom which was continued by all the subsequent kings. Cordial relations with China and the Gupta Empire in India are mentioned in the records. King Upatissa 370 A.C. built the Topawewa at Polonnaruwa.

Visits of Renowned Scholars

In the time of King Mahanama were two notable visitors; Fa-Hien, the Chinese scholar-pilgrim, after visiting Buddhist India came to Anuradhapura and spent 3 years copying sacred texts; the Indian Brahmin Buddhist Buddhagosha spent many years studying and wrote a commentary still held in high repute.

Fourth Tamil Usurpation

About 436 A.C. the fourth Tamil usurpation of the throne occurred and lasted over 27 years until Dhatusea, a young prince from Ruhuna, restored Sinhalese sovereignty. In his reign the great Kalawewa tank was built, and the people heard read aloud to them at the King’s expense the Mahavansa compiled by the king’s scholarly uncle the monk Mahanama.

The Parricide

Dhatusea was deposed and later killed (walled alive) by his son by an inferior queen.

Disturbed Period

Whilst the rightful heir, Moggallana, fled to India, the parricide Kasyapa moved the royal residence to the rockfortress Sigiriya which he garrisoned. Moggallana 497 A.C. who conquered with the aid of an army from South India gay% the palace buildings at Sigiriya to a sect of monks whose monastery may have been the promoter of the mural paintings in the pockets and on the face of the rock facing west. Notwithstanding other civil wars and attempts at Tamil aggression, progress was great in tank-building. Aggabodhi 1st 564 A.C. built the Giant's tank and others. Aggabodhi 2nd 598 A.C. built Giritale and Kanthalai, the (country under the latter acquiring the title of "the grain country"). He fought a successful battle in S. India.

Rise of Polonnaruwa

Aggabodhi 7th preferred to reside in Pseonnuwa as Anuradhapura was becoming troublesome and in a few decades _the kings save up residence in_ Anuradhapura. In the reign of King Dappula 2nd, 802 A.C., a sandalwood image of Vishnu floated ashore at Devundara (Dondra) where a shrine was built for it; it was later removed to the Alutnuwara Dewale in Kegalla district built by King Buvanaike Bahu 1st 1271-1283, and later still to the Maha Devale in Kandy.

In the reign of Sena 1st, 846--866 A.C. a Pandyan raiding party sacked Anuradhapura and robbed shrines of gold and gems. Sena 2nd, 866—e01 was able to make a military raid into S. India and to sack Madura. His queen was able to again cover with dark blue sapphires the head of the large Stone Buddha in the Abhayagiri forest replacing the similar cover made by the queen of Sena ist and taken by the Pandyas. Sena 2nd also built the large hospital on the plain at Mihintale. The country was prosperous and the royal house consequently rich, but local conditions around Anuradhapura made Polonnaruwa favoured as a royal residence. Sena 2nd was able to invade Pandyan territory and to sack Madura, but Kassapa 5th failed in a similar military raid, and Udraya 3rd suffered a Chola invasion. His nephew married a Kalinga princess, and repelled another Chola invasion, but the Tamils settled in Raja Rata usurped power in the next reign for some years, as the king was a drunkard.

Chola Occupation

Mahinda 3rd unable to quell a revolt of the troops fled to Ruhune,... and anarchy prevailed in Raja Rata. A Chola invasion followed and Chola viceroy ruled over the country except Ruhuna, for 5 decades, renaming Polonnaruwa, Jananathapura, and building many great temples of stone and brick in the city. In 2017 A.C. the Sinhalese king was captured and deported, the Pandyan regalia which had been brought to Ceylon 70 years previously by a refugee Pandyan Prince and the Ceylon Crown jewels and treasures were removed by the Cholas.

Survey

It was the close of an epoch, the Anuradhapura period of fourteen centuries which had recovered from three Pandyan military raids and four Tamil usurpations of the throne of Pihitirata, had witnessed great building of dagobas, impressive stone architecture, extensive mural painting and exquisite stone carvings, building of great and small reservoirs for storing water for cultivation, great wealth and prosperity. For two centuries, Polonnaruwa, then called Pulastipura, had been even more frequently the royal residence but Anuradhapura was still the capital, the Maha Mtwara, and the last King was in residence there before his flight. The occasional Tamil usurpations and the Sinhalese re-conquests of the throne were not due to racial wars but to desire to possess "the glorious royal dignity" of dominion over such a rich country. Even the Sinhalese dynasty had family feuds and civil wars consequent on ambitions due to such desire.

The Polonnaruwa Period

The Chola viceroy meant Jananathapura to be the capital of a Chola province and embellished the city with great buildings in stone and brick and a strong citadel. But in the South of Ceylon the Ruhuna kings were still independent and sought to oust the Cholas from Raja Rata. But dissensions delayed success.

Sinhalese Reconquest

A young prince Kitti, when 15 years old, about A.C. 1054 overcame his rivals and in A.C. so55 became King Vijayabahu 1st. He fought the Cholas, overcame rebellions and finally gained Anuradhapura about 1069, lastly Polonnaruwa about 1072, renaming it Vijayarajapura, a name soon forgotten. He married a Kalinga princess while his sister was married to a Pandyan prince. On his death in A.C. 1111 a Kalinga faction made his brother, the sole-King, Ruler and maintained him at Polonnaruwa till his death in 1132 when he was succeeded by Gaja Bahu and A.C. 1132-5553. Meanwhile the grandyaia faction...ruled in Maya Rata and Ruhuna Rata (divided into 2 realms) the three kings being the three sons of the Pandyan Prince and Vijaya Bahu's sister Mitta, they also nominated as Overlord a half-brother of Vijayabahu, Jayabahu, who could not occupy Raja Rata and retired to Ruhuna where he died in obscurity, in 1145. The son of the ruler of Maya Rata was zjinbitious, energetic, able and determined. On succeeding to his father's kingdom Parakramabahu reorganized the civil and military acratinstation and insisted on restoratioot of the irrigeotion works he made the declarations to his hesitant nobles " not a drop of water shall reach the ocean until it has rendered service to man ", and " what is there a man of energy cannot do."

The Glory of PolonnatuWa

After some baffled attempts, in a.c. 1153, Parakramabahu, Ruler of Maya Rata is enthroned at Polonnaruwa as Sovereign Lord of Ceylon and proceeds by a protracted war to subdue rebellious Ruhruta. On subjugating Ruhruna he destroyed its autonomy ; that of Maya had already ceased and thus the " Tri-Sinhala " was abolished. His 33 years of reign were of opulent splendour at Polonnaruwa. Topawewa and its southern neighbour were submerged in a larger reservoir, the Parakrama Samudra ; other tanks and the great channels were repaired and improved, the thupas at Anuradhapura were repaired ; Polonnaruwa had great thupas, ornate steno shrines and brick shrines, gigantic stone statuary, well laid out parks, baths and gardens. A military expedition to Burma was the sole instance of interruption of the centuries old friendly relations with that country. Another military expedition to S. India was successful in the aid given to Pandyans against the Cholas and an occupation of Rameswaram for some years. Internal administration was not neglected but the system depended on his personal rule. He compelled the three sects of Buddhist monks to enter into a community, and had heresy banished. Regard for Hindu religious ideas and for his Tamil troops is evident in the architecture and stone-sculpture ; the exteriors of the great temples are Hindu in decoration ; the bull, sacred to Shaivites and Vaishnavites is omitted from every ornately carved threshold stone so that its image will not be trod upon ; moreover, the bull was carved on the side of the guardstone in place of the elephant. The next great king at Polonnaruwa was the Kalinga prince Nissanka Vxalfa A.C. 1187-1296 who emulated Parakramabahu in building, remitted taxes, travelled through his realm and adorned Dambulla rock cave temple. His son reigned only one day ; the general set up puppet kings one after another including Parakramabahu’s widow Lelavati thrice. There were to such puppet rulers, the third was an infant whose father came with a Chola army, killed the infant esop and reigned for 17 days ; another interloper who came with a Tamil army ruled only nine months.

Sixth Tamil Usurpation

In A.C. 1215 only 29 years after Parakramabahu, the military weakness of the Government was such that a Kalinga prince Magha was able to invade and overrun the country with an army of only 24,000 Keralas who destroyed temples, libraries, mansions and dagabas with ferocity ; the Tooth-Relic was hidden in Kotmale where it had been taken during the period of the puppets of the generals.

Thus the Polonnaruwa period of glory was a brief one of only 43 years. The usurpers were probably helped or at least not opposed by the Tamil settlers and the Tamil troops of the government and by disaffected Sinhalese, but military weakness was confined to Raja Rata.

Low Country Period

In Maya Rata a Sinhalese prince about A.C. 1220 increased his power and expelled the Keralas and became King of Maya Rata, he made Dambadeniya his royal capital ; his son when grown up pushed the war against the Keralas and conquered Polonnaruwa about A.C. 5244 but immediately had to repel an invasion by a Javanese pirate Chandrabhanu whose troops were armed with blowpipes and poisoned arrows. A Pandyan invasion was repelled, but in the next reign Chandrabhanu with Tamils in his army was successful to as far as Yapahu. Next, Pandyan invader: sacked Yapahu and carried off the Tooth Relic. King Parakramabahu the 3rd a.c. 1302-1310 went to the Pandyan Court and " by persuasion and entreaty" obtained the Relic. On his return he resided at Polonnaruwa. The env'ys from China peeking the Tooth-Relic and the Bowl-Relic had gone back disappointed.

Gampola Period

After Kurunegala for two reigns, the capital was Gampola in the Malaya district. The Mediaeval temples of Lankatillake and Gadala deniya were built by the first Gampola King. In the time elf the third, an able and bold minister Sounded Kotte, Friar Marignoli visiting Ceylof found Beruvala ruled by a Muslim. Ibn Batuta found Colombo ruled by an Abyssinian and Puttalam ruled by a Tamil. Clearly the royal power was weak against foreign settlers and Jaffna was lost with a large portion of the mainland in the north. Art and literature did not suffer the same decline; Poetry especially flourished - The seat of Royalty shifted to Dedigama, Rayigam and finally to Kotte

The Kotte Period

The position was not pleasant. Relations with S. India were hostile; Jaffna claimed independence and once tried to exact tribute; the old friendly relations with Kalinga Magadha and Orissa had long ceased; China was still a friend, but trouble occurred early in the fifteenth century when the Chinese visitor Ching-Ho met with suspicion and rudeness and left much offended. He came back with troops in A.C. hint, deposed and removed the Kotte King to China. The prince selected or permitted by the Chinese to rule Ceylon paid tribute even as late as 1450. The military weakness of the royal dynasty was the cause of decline in power and a dread of absorption by South Indian kingdoms but even this dread did not prevent family quarrels and acts of violence. The canal from Hendala to Negombo Lagoon was constructed by King Parakramabahu 8th who had to quell the consequent revolt of the cultivators whose fields were ruined by the salt water coming from the canal. The conquest of Jaffna by a Sinhalese Prince indicates that the Sinhalese of the Kotte period were capable of greater achievements if bold leaders were forthcoming. Ceylon had lost the commercial and cultural contacts with Asiatic countries, except for the solitary exception of an embassy in A.C. 1476 of monks from Pegu for canonical ordinances. The island was now to make contact with mercantile and vigorous colonization from Europa.

The Portuguese Period

The Portuguese Vasco Da Gama had rounded the "Cape of Storms" and reached India in A.C. 2497. The adventurous and brave nation resolved to capture the Indian trade and in three years a fleet under Admiral Pedro Alvare Cabral set out with the sanction and blessing of the Pope, rounded the cape now called "Cape of Good Hope" and reached Calicut on the 30th August 1500. Before 5 years had elapsed the Portuguese owned ports and trading stations on the west coast of India and maintained a Viceroy at Goa with civil and military jurisdiction. Late in the year 1505 the Viceroy sent an expedition to the Maldivian Islands under command of his son Laurens de Almeida; contrary winds forced it to Colombo on November 35th 1505; as the ships did not carry the usual ready made padra a boulder on the ridge of rocks bounding the Gal boka was engraved with "the Cross of Christ and the Arms of the King of Portugal" now placed in the Gordon Gardens). At the interview with the king at Kotte the Portuguese envoys were granted permission to erect a factory, and to trade in cinnamon etc., and undertook to guard the ports of Ceylon against invaders. There were factions and interested traders against the newcomers erecting of a factory and consequent demolition of the Portuguese Fort, but by A.C. 1521 the Portuguese were in an advantageous position owing to the dissensions in the Royal Family. The King interviewed in 1505 had been dethroned by his two sons; the son reigning in A.C. 1521 had his palace sacked, was dethroned and killed by the three sons of himself and a brother by a joint wife.

Sinhalese Dissension

The three Princes divided the kingdom into three parts; the youngest Rayigam Bandara, ruled over Pasdun, Rayigam and Walallawiti Korales, the next, Mayadunne, had Sabaragamuwa and some adjacent tracks of land and reigned at Sitavaka; the eldest, Bhuvanaike Balm, eyth A.C. 1521-1550) was the Overlord of all Ceylon and ruled over the kingdom okKotte from Mannar to Hambantota; other parts considered tributary to Kotte were the Wanni, Jaffna, Trincomalee, Batticaloa districts and the principalities of Uva and of "Kandy". Nayigam Bandarai lived in tranquillity and obscurity and passed out of history. Mayadunne, thei, most capable of the three, was ambitious and strove hard to displace Bhuvanaike Bahu and be Overlord of Ceylon; except for a period from 1539-1547 he was perpetually at war with Kotte and the Portuguese. It was certain that but for the Portuguese Mayadunne might have ousted the feckless king of Kotte who became increasingly dependont on the Portuguese; they came for cinnamon, pepper etc., now their chief official in the island was "Captain-Genertl of the Conquest", Portuguese Ascendancy in Maritime Area

About August 1541 a ship reached Lisbon with an effigy of the King's infant grandson and heir, Dharmapala; the body was of silver, the 110'd of gold and ivory, the accompanying crown was decked with gems. The King of Portugal complied with the request to crown the image and to proclaim Dharmapala heir to the throne of Ceylon. The embassy from Ceylon returned with six Franciscan Friars. Conversions were many and Dharmapala was baptised as a youth and was a Catholic King; Mayadunne and his valiant son Rajasinha the 1st 1554-1593 gained many adherents, in consequence the fights against the Portuguese were desperately pursued. Colombo was besieged and in danger. In 1580 Rajasinha annexed the kingdom of "Kandy" but when he renounced Buddhism and became a Hindu, there was discontent and the prince of Uva invited the regent named by the fugitive previous king of "Kandy" to take the realm; the Portuguese seized the opportunity to send a force under their protege Don Juan (Konappu Bandara) whose father had been treacherously killed by order of Rajasinha. The prince nominated regent was another Portuguese protege, the refugee Don Philip. On the army reaching the hill country at Wahakotte Don Philip was proclaimed King. A Fort was built on reaching Gannoruwa on the river Bank opposite to Peradeniya. On the death of Don Philip from an unknown cause.

The Kandyan Realm comes into Existence

Don Juan proclaimed himself King, redeemed allegiance to the Portuguese and Catholicism and maintained his position against Rajasingha in 2592 and against the Portuguese in 1594. When he repelled the latter invasion he captured Dona Catherina, the heiress to the throne, whom the Portuguese had brought up for crowning as queen, and married her.

By Rajasingha's death early in 1593 the Portuguese were able to gain his kingdom; by Don Juan Dharmapala's "Donatis Cause Mortis" of 1580 and his will, the king of Portugal was his heir and on his death in 1597 the Portuguese became rulers of all the Maritime area of Ceylon including Jaffna which they had conquered in 1591. But the central part of the island maintained its independence and its Sinhalese King, once a Portuguese trained fighter in their service, held his own against them. The new kingdom was in the mountainous area the "Kanda uda Rata" and he was to the Portuguese the "Kanda uda Raja" which became the "kanda raja", hence the king of "Kandy" a new name for the capital which was known as Senkadagala Nuwara or Malta Nuwara; the Dutch and English continued the usage of the word Kandy: one questionable result was the coming into use of the term Kaudyan to designate the Sinhalese population of the Central Kingdom.

Futile Military Raids

From 1594-1656 Portuguese rule over the maritime area of Ceylon was imperilled, the treasury depleted and the scanty army sacrificed by needless military raids into Kandyan territory, all of one pattern; a small number of Portuguese with Sinhalese auxiliaries made a triumphal march into the forest clad hills, to conquer, ravage and plunder; when ammunition and provisions were running short perhaps with fever and other illness, the march back along narrow jungle paths was perilous and to escape alive impossible with thousands of armed men overwhelming a few hundreds. The greatest tragedy was the massacre of Constantine De Sa de Noronha at Randeniwela in 1630. The Great retreat of De Azavedo was an exploit but the lost soldiers could not be replaced. Often every territory was in revolt. Rajasingha's reign of Colombo were fierce and persistent, one siege lasted one and a half years. Bravery could not make up for lack of sound policy, and lack of trained men. The Dutch invited by the King of Kandy began gaining forts and territory piecemeal in 1638 and finally completed their conquest by gaining Colombo in 1656. This capitulation of Colombo was after a grim resistance for seven months and this capitulation of Jaffna in 1658 was similarly due to lack of food and ammunition.

The Portuguese in the earliest period posed as auxiliaries of the King of Kotte, Overlord of Ceylon, fighting his battles against Mayadunne aspirant for the Overlordship, guarding his ports against foreigners and quelling rebellions. They became heirs to his territory find rights and regarded the King as holding a tributary kingdom.
Kandyan Claim

In Kandy a contrary belief arose and grew strong so that by the time of Rajasinha and A.C. 1629-1687, the King and court considered that the Sinhalese king at Kandy was Overlord of Ceylon, the maritime area subordinate and tributary to Kandy and the Port: guess mutinous rebels deserving expulsion. Cinnamon and pepper were as attractive to Dutch merchants as they had been to the Portuguese and the Dutch East India Co. had sent envoys to the king, who in return had sent envoys to witness off Goa a naval battle in which the Dutch defeated the Portuguese. The King then decided to obtain the services of the Dutch to expel the Portuguese "interlopers".

Dividing the Spoils

The first agreement was immediately after Admirals Westerwo\]d and Coster had compelled the Portuguese fort at Batticaloa to surrender in 1638; it provided that the Dutch should have the export trade; the king was to pay expenses of Dutch operations against the foe and was not to have any dealings with the Portuguese and all forts captured were to be handed to the King or demolished unless he chose to have them held for him and garrisoned by the Dutch. In 1640 when Negombo was captured and garrisoned by the Dutch, the king was very angry; by a new agreement by which when all Portuguese had been driven out the Dutch could keep only one fort; until the king paid the expenses, all forts would be retained by the Dutch, Colombo fort was to be demolished unless the King wished it garrisoned by the Dutch. The third agreement in 1649 was the same as that of 1638 but the Dutch were not to have the monopoly of cinnamon. Rajasinha was secretly breaking faith by communicating with the Portuguese.

Disagreements

The King and the Dutch were on bad terms until 1652 when war against the Portuguese was resumed. When Colombo was taken in 1656 Rajasinha's army was merely an onlooker as at Batticaloa, Negombo and Gallo. In the fights for Negombo the Portuguese, sent troops by the Hendala canal as well as by land. Rajasinha's demgnei for Colombo fort was countered by the claim for arrears of expenses unpaid. He was very angry and acted against the Dutch in many ways. In 1664 owing to a rebellion Rajasinha fled to Hanguranketa and then wrote to the Dutch for assistance; in 1665 they annexed great parts of Four Korales and Sabaragamuwa. About 1671 the King accepted overtures from the French. Theirs was constant friction till his death in 1687. There was as constant friction during the 20 years of his son's reign. In 1723 and 1736 the cinnamon peelers were in revolt until grievances were redressed in the latter year.

The closing of certain ports in 1702 against Kandyan traders was much resented. War was declared in 1736 after Kandyan annexations of territory. When Narendra Sinha died in 1739 and a Tamil was made King, Court hostility against the Dutch increased, but Batavia ordered forbearance.

Conciliation

In 1740 a yacht was provided to fetch bhikkus from Siam, Pegu, etc but it was shipwrecked; in 1741 another envoy was sent to Siam the embassy in 1746 and in 1750 resulted in the arrival in 1753 of bhikkus who established canonical ordinances and helped to strengthen the reforms of Weliwita Saranakara who was made a Sangharaja for that purpose by Kin Kirtisri A.G. 1747-1780.

Hostility

The Kandyans were frequently committing aggressions and in 170 set up a revolt of land owners in Dutch territory. Now, but too late, the Dutch had learnt that the Portuguese had held their territory as lawful heirs of the last king of KoS,te and changed their own claim to one of conquest from the Portuguese. In 1761 the Kandiyans captured Matara and Hambantote and same frontier possessions. In 0'65 an expedition under Governor Van Eck occupied Kandy but when provisions were failing and sickness setting in fought its way out without loss ; Van Eck had left earlier and died 3 weeks after reaching Colombo. His successor Falck made an advantageous peace in 1766 abolishing the annual embassy for permission to cut cinnamon in the king's territory, and confirming to the Dutch the ownership of all the territory in the maritime area, thus cutting off the Kandyans from the sea. In 1772 the Kandyan Court asked for a share in the Pearl Fishery, and in 1776 tried to get a bit of the Coast. It also wanted to revive the yearly embassy for leave to peel cinnamon which had been abrogated in the 1766 treaty; the court was communicating with the French who took Trincomalie in r 782; it was restored to the Dutch by the Peace of Paris in 1784. Governor Van de Graff took firm measures, and peace prevailed owing to the Kandyan scarcity of salt and the failure of any prospect of French aggression. In January 1794 I. G. Van Angelbeek was Governor.

British Intervention

In December 1794 the French invaded Holland and established the Batavian Republic. The Prince of Orange, Stadtholder, wed and resided in Kew near London. After correspondence with the British Government and receipt of assurance & he issued a letter to colonial governors and commanders that to prevent French annexation they should permit British ships and British troops to occupy ports and forts. The Governor of Madras invited Van Angelbeek to comply since all would be restored to the Dutch when peace was made. On the assumption that the new Republic was only an institution imposed by the French the Dutch authorities in Ceylon intended to comply but later intelligence that it was a popular movement caused opinion to be divided.

The British appeared first at Trincomalie and were refused admittance by the commandant, they landed unopposed; the Dutch at Colombo decided to stand by the Batavian Republic and to refuse admission to the British. The British on receiving this information resorted to force. The Forts at Trincomalie were bombarded and yielded, Batticaloa and Jaffna followed. Colombo was forced to capitulate to the superior forces of the British on February 1796. By the Treaty of Amiens in 1802 Holland ceded Ceylon to the British.

The Kandyan Realm except, for the military raids by the Portuguese, and the disagreement with its Dutch allies, had a fairly uneventful career from 4 c. 1590 to A.c. 1739 when the dynasty came to an end for lack of a legitimate heir and the Chiefs put on the throne a Tamil, a brother of the queen. Sections in the Court were still prevalent when the third King of the Tamil dynasty died in 1798 two years after the British occupation of the Maritime Provinces and the fourth Tamil King was placed on the throne.

British Maritime Period

The Maritime Provinces taken from the Dutch were administrated by 3 successive military commanders of the troops with Madrassi civil employees for two years but in 1798 a Governor was appointed by the King of England though the East India Company still owned the territory; Governor North instituted reforms and sent back the Madrassi oppressors. In 1802 Ceylon was allotted to England in the Treaty of Amiens and was made a Crown Colony. Governor North caused to be Treasurer and President of the Supreme Court and was given an Advisory Council of three, the Chief Justice, the General Commanding troops and the Chief Secretary.

Disaster

North was involved in secret conferences with the chief minister of the King of Kandy and in 1803 a British force occupied Kandy but met the same fate as Portuguese conquering raiders had encountered, namely sickness, overwhelming numbers of assailants and massacre.

Peril Overcome

The King's consequent invasions of British territory in 1803 were refilled with difficulty and the next Governor Maitland who came in 1805 refrained from warlike or other hostile actions and left the Kandyans alone.

Invasion of Frandyian Territy

Governor Brownrigg came in 1812 and was soon interested in the question of the independence of the large central area, the Kandyan realm. The King's severities and the barbarities practised on some British subjects gave Brownrigg reasons, the disaffection of the Chiefs gave him opportunities, and in 1815 ap unopposed British army invaded the KingdRm and occupied Kandy from which the King hart fled.
Terms made with Chiefs

After conferences and discussions a treaty was framed and approved by Governor Brownrigg, and his Chief Secretary John D'Oyly on the one side and the principal Kandyan Chiefs on the other side. On March 4 and a ceremony Convention was held, the document was read aloud and accepted unanimously. The Royal Standard of the King of England was hoisted and a Royal Salute fired by guns which had been previously dragged up the hills. The King of Kandy was captured in a jungle village, taken to Colombo in captivity with respect and thence to Vellora Fort in Madras territory where he was detained till his death. The independent Sinhalese Kingdom founded by Konappu Bandara in 1590, has defied and repelled the Portuguese for 65 years and the Dutch for 140 years but owing to the dissensions of the Chiefs was ruled by Tamils for the last four reigns for 76 years and now was yielded to the British within 16 years of their taking over the Maritime Provinces from the Dutch.

The Kandyan Chiefs were accepted by the British as envoys for the people and the Convention of 18/5 guaranteed their rights and privileges, promised liberty and justice to the people and protection to the Buddhist religion and edifices.

Rebellion

The Chiefs made the distant King of England the King of Ceylon but that king's civil and military representatives in Ceylon offended these feudal lords. A British official judged their actions, reproved capricious or unjust dealings and thus hurt their dignity; the British soldiers however well-trained to salute the King's uniform did not salute civilians however distinguished their lineage, however high their rank and however great their pomp and power. Sullen discontent prevailed among many of those who had signed the treaty. When a pretender appeared in Wellassa a trickle of Chiefs joined him and a rebellion spread. Most of the Chiefs were sympathetic and some took an active part in the rebellion which had to be quelled with great severity by jungle warfare. Later the rebellion petered out.

Feudal Powers Abolished

The Kandyan Chiefs were judged to have violated the Treaty and a Proclamation (1818) curtailed their powers which had been similar to those of feudal lords. The same Proclamation confirmed the civic and personal liberty of the common people and the undertaking to protect the Buddhist religion and edifices, adding "and processions" correcting what was an oversight in wording of the treaty of 1815.

British Rule over whole Island

There had been the abolition of slavery for the children of slaves and the institution of trial by jury, in the maritime area under British rule, orderly administration, schools, medical aid and other progressive measures; these were only slowly integrated into the Kandyan area which was still treated as a separate area till 1833 previous to Which year the making of roads, planting of new products for export, and appeasement of the country had made the Kandyan area less backward than it had been after 3 centuries of seclusion from the outside world and resistance to the European influences that had lodged' in the maritime area
Separate Kandyan Area Abolished

In 1833 separate secretariat and administration for the Kandyan area were abolished, parts were attached to adjoining provinces and thus it was reduced in size and importance; the discontent caused was very great. There was a plot or alleged plot by the Kandyan Chiefs in 1833 and 1834 which was disclosed by one of their leaders; the previous disturbances in 1820, 1823, and 1824 were trifling in comparison with the alleged designs disclosed.

Legislative reform by a halting step

The Governor’s Council was now increased by the addition of unofficial members to represent the various communities; the official majority ensured the passage of legislative enactments favoured by the Governor who presided; the political advancement urged by Europeans and Burghers, Sinhalese and Tamils, was slow and in stages of cautious concessions in vivid contrast to rapid and widespread diffusion among the people of English Literature which inspires ideas of "government of the people, by the people, for the people". Education in English opened the minds to sentiments and ideas not found in other local languages; and the Colonial Office at one stage granted the right to elect a representative. This did not satisfy those pressing for representative government. In 1910 there was a "reformed" legislative Council; 21 official members and 10 unofficial of whom only 4 were elected by communal groups, European Rural, European Urban, Burgher and Educated Ceylonese. In addition to the official majority of one there was the safeguard that the Governor nominated the other 6 unofficial members, 1 Kandyan Sinhalese, 2 Low-country Sinhalese, 2 Tamils and 1 Moorman (Muslim). In 1919 powerful pleas were put forward by a Ceylon National Congress formed by fusion of the Tamil and Low-country Sinhalese political associations. The British administration had been an honest stewardship; economic progress and cultural development had been great; except for riots in 1848 and 1915 peace and prosperity were notable features but the educated section were nurtured there was unwavering devotion to the liberal and democratic on British political ideas only, British Politics, principles and the Ceylonese in general followed the Congress leaders.

Forward

In 1924 the Colonial office in London again made a sincere attempt to fulfil British intentions and satisfy Ceylonese aspirations by introducing an unofficial majority, a decisive majority, into the Legislative Council. Four unofficial members nominated by the Governor were added to the Executive Council. The official members in the Legislative Council were only 12, the unofficials were 37 of whom only 3 were nominated by the Governor and the rest were elected, 23 by territorial electorates and 1 by communal electorates. One Conservative precaution was power given to the Governor (a) more to and to certify a bill, (b) to declare a bill if voted for by all the 12 official members to be of paramount importance to the public interest and make it law.

Throwback

A defect in principle was that, the educational and property qualifications required for registration as a voter limited the franchise to 4 1/2 of the population. Defects in practice were serious. The decisive majority of unofficials all ignorant of parliamentary practice and with no administrative experience felt frustrated when, measures they favoured were not heartily adopted by the experienced officials and grew bitter in their remarks; the officials, dependent for financial resources on a critical and often suspicious unofficial majority, were subjected to hostile cross-examinations and sometimes felt personally insulted. Strained relations prevailed and public affairs were hampered and even occasionally damaged.

Local opinion consulted

In 1927 the British Colonial Office recognised the necessity of considering opinions in Ceylon as well as in their files. A Commission of 3 with administrative and political experience was sent to Ceylon to hear, to record, and to deliberate upon facts and opinions from all sections and communities and classes in the Island. The Donoughmore Commission completed its patient labours in 1928.

The Donoughmore Constitution

The most notable features in its report were three. (1) The Tamils had left the National Congress in 1921 because of Congress insistence on the abolition of communal representation later if not immediately. The case for it rested on the belief that communal ill-feeling and communal dissension would disappear or be greatly weakened if there were recognised channels for constitutional representations. The Donoughmore Constitution rhetorically condemned communal representation and abolished the 113 communal electorates. In lieu the Governor was to nominate not exceeding 5 members for communities not represented in the elections. The number of unofficial elected members was increased to 50; the official minority was omitted from the Council; 3 officials, heads of legal, financial and administration, Government departments, were to sit in the Council but not vote though they could speak in a debate. (2) Universal adult franchise was instituted for male and female (including domiciled Tamils and European British subjects), (3) The strife between irresponsible unofficial power and responsible officials was eliminated because the State Council, as it was called, would exercise executive power by a division into 7 Committees, each electing one member as Chairman who would be Minister for several departments in charge of his Committee.

Changes (1) and (2) were disagreeable to the Ceylonese political loath-s except the Low-Country Sinhalese, and to the members of the Legislative Council but (3) was gratifying to unofficial legislators who had assumed they could manage affairs better than "the bureaucrats." The first State Council did not warrant continuance of this belief but it lingered among the members. The Second State Council had its dissolution postponed owing to the war and lasted eleven years outstaying its welcome, but voicing the general demand for an advance towards freedom. Another Commission toured Ceylon made itself acquainted with all aspects of life, heard evidence, received memoranda and made its report in 1945.

The Soulbury Constitution

It removed appointments etc., from the Council, judicial to a judicial Commission, other services to a Public Services Commission and also instituted a Ministry of Justice. The State Council was to be replaced by 2 houses. A Senate of 30 members, 15 nominated by the Governor and 15 elected by the House of Representatives which was to have 95 elected and 6 nominated members.

The Governor was to invite a loader to become a Prime Minister and form a Cabinet. The M.P.’s were exempted from the requirement to speak and write English.

Freedom

After deliberations and Conference Ceylon was offered and accepted Dominion Status which was inaugurated on the 4th of February 1948 by the swearing-in of Sir Henry Morick Mason Moore (former Governor) as"Governor General of the Dominion of Ceylon within the British Commonwealth of Nations. Mr. D. S. Senanayake, Prime Minister has chosen a Cabinet and Cabinet practice and conventions are‘expected. On February loth H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester, the King’s brother, formally opened the first sitting of the Parliament of the New Dominion in the presence of the Duchess, the Governor-General and Lady Moore, the Prime Minister and his Cabinet and members of both Houses and over 6,000 people in a Special Hall with much pomp and rejoicing which characterized the whole week "Independence Week."

Military Division
The Judicial System of Ceylon

SUPREME Court—The Supreme Court consists of a Chief Justice and eight Puisne Judges. It has appellate and revisional jurisdiction in civil cases from all courts except Rural Courts. It exercises no original jurisdiction in civil cases except in matters provided for in the Ceylon Courts of Admiralty Ordinance (Chapter 7, Legislative Enactments of Ceylon) and the Ceylon (Non-domiciled parties) Divorce Jurisdiction Order in Council of 1936.

The Supreme Court has original jurisdiction in all criminal cases and exclusive jurisdiction in respect of the more serious offences, such as homicide, rape, and the graver types of house-breaking and robbery. Such jurisdiction is exercised at Criminal Session of the Supreme Court by one of the Judges or by a Commissioner of Assize with a jury. They can try only cases committed to them for trial by a magistrate's Court.

A Judge of the Supreme Court nominated by the Chief Justice hears election Petitions.

The Supreme Court has power to inspect the records of any court—to grant writs of quo warranto, certiorari mandamus, procedendo and prohibition against any District Judge, Commissioner, Magistrate or other person or tribunal and to issue injunction. It has the power to transfer civil and criminal cases and to try in a summary manner any offence of contempt committed in disrespect of itself or of any other court.

The Governor-General may, if he thinks it expedient from time to time appoint a judicial officer to be called "Commissioner of Assize" to hold any Criminal Session or part thereof of the Supreme Court. Such Commissioner shall, be invested with all the rights, powers, privileges and immunities of a Judge of the Supreme Court.

THE COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEAL—The Chief Justice and the Puisne Judges of the Supreme Court are the Judges of this Court. Any person convicted on a trial held before the Supreme Court may appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeal against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of law; or, with specified leave, against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of fact; or, with specified leave, against the sentence passed on his conviction unless the sentence is one fixed by law.

DISTRICT Courts—The District Courts, of which there are at present 25 in the Island, have unlimited original Jurisdiction in all civil, revenue, matrimonial and testamentary matters and over the persons and estates, of lunatics, minors, and wards, over the estates of cestuisque trusts and over guardians and trustees. They have the power to issue injunctions in certain events.

The District Courts have Criminal jurisdiction in respect of all offences which are not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court; they can try only cases committed to them for trial by a Magistrate's Court.

The District Courts may pass any of the following sentences:

(a) Imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding two years;
(b) Fine not exceeding one thousand rupees;
(c) Whipping;
(d) Any lawful sentence combining any two of the sentences aforesaid.

Under Sections 3 and 4 of the Ceylon Courts of Admiralty Ordinance the Minister of Justice has power to appoint a District Court to have a limited Admiralty jurisdiction. The District Court of Colombo alone has been appointed to exercise such jurisdiction.

The District courts have appellate jurisdiction from Rural Courts over which they have appellate jurisdiction.
JUDICIAL SYSTEM OF CEYLON

MAGISTRATE & CoMI-
—There are 30 Magistrates' Courts and 7 Municipal Courts in the Island and 1 Juvenile Court in Colombo. The offences which a Magistrate's Court may try are specified in the schedule to the Criminal Procedure Code, Chapter 16, of the Ceylon Legislative Enactments. Various Ordinances have also made other offences triable by a Magistrate's Court. A Magistrate's Court may not pass a sentence heavier than the following, except where an Ordinance has specially empowered it so to do

(a) Imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding six months;
(b) Fine not exceeding one hundred rupees;
(c) Whipping, if the offender is under 16 years of age;
(d) Any lawful sentence combining any two of the sentences aforesaid.

When a person is convicted at one trial of any two or more distinct offences the aggregate punishment it can award is twice the punishment mentioned above.

Magistrates' Courts also hold preliminary inquiries into crimes with a view to committal for trial to a District Court or the Supreme Court. If after inquiry a Magistrate is of opinion that an accused person should be discharged he makes order to this effect. Where a Magistrate is of opinion that an accused person should be committed for trial to a court of competent jurisdiction, he commits him accordingly and forwards the record of the proceedings at the inquiry to the Attorney-General who either presents an indictment against the accused person or quashes the commitment or orders the case to be remitted to the Magistrate for further proceedings.

A special jurisdiction is conferred under the Maintenance Ordinance 1889, on Magistrates' Courts to make orders for the maintenance of wives and children.

COURTS OF REQUESTS.—Courts of Requests have original civil jurisdiction (subject to certain exceptions) in all actions in which the debt, damage or demand or value of the land in dispute does not exceed Rs. 300/-. This Court has been given special jurisdiction by the adoption of Children's Ordinance No. 24 of 1941 to make adoption orders authorizing any person to adopt a child and to provide for the registration as custodian of persons having the care, custody or control of children of whom they are not natural parents.

There are 30 Courts of Requests in the Island, of which two (the Colombo and Kandy Courts) are presided over by separate Commissioners. All the others are presided over by a District Judge or a Magistrate who acts as Commissioner of Requests in addition to his duties as District Judge or Magistrate.

MUNICIPAL COURTS:—This is a special Court created under the Municipal Council's Ordinance, No. 29 of 1947, Sec. 162. There shall be a Municipal Magistrate appointed to each Municipality. Such Municipal Magistrate may be appointed to be an additional Magistrate in addition to his other duties. In the Municipality of Colombo, there is a Municipal Magistrate. In the other municipal Towns the Magistrate having jurisdiction performs the duties of the Municipal Magistrate. They have no civil jurisdiction whatever. They try offences committed within the Municipality in breach of any Municipal by-laws of any of the Ordinance mentioned in Sec. 164 (i) of the Municipal Council's Ordinance.

Rural COURTS:—Rural Courts have civil jurisdiction in actions in which the debt, damage, or demand or the value of the land in dispute does not exceed Rs. 300. Rural Courts have criminal jurisdiction to try (a) all offences consisting of breach of rules Wadeor deemed to be made under the Village Communities Ordinance (b) the offences for the time being included in the Second Schedule to the Ordinance (c) all offences in respect of such jurisdiction as is expressly conferred on a Rural Court. A Rural Court may impose a fine not exceeding Rs. 5121- or 14' days' imprisonment.

A Rural Court is presided over by a paid-Presidea appointed by the Judicial Sgrvice Pniza*sion.
A new Ordinance No. 12 of 1945 with an amending Ordinance No. 73 of 1945 has come into force extending the present civil and criminal jurisdiction of the Village Tribunals now called the Rural Courts.

There are 48 Rural Courts sitting at 28 places in the Island namely, 5 in the Western Province, 6 in the Central, 8 in the Southern, 6 in the Northern, 6 in the Eastern, 6 in the North-Western, 3 in the North-Central, 3 in the Uva, and 5 in the Province of Sabaragamuwa.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE PREVENTION AND PUNISHMENT OF BRIBERY AND TO MAKE CONSEQUENTIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE OPERATION OF OTHER WRITTEN LAW.

Date of Assent: February 26, 1954

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and the House of Representatives of Ceylon in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:-

I. This Act may be cited as the Bribery Act, No. 1 of 1954, and shall come into operation on such date (hereinafter referred to as the "appointed date") as the Governor-General may appoint by Proclamation published in the Gazette,

2. (1) Every provision of this Act which may be in conflict or inconsistent with anything in the Ceylon (Constitution) Order in Council, 1946, shall for all purposes and in all respects be as valid and effectual as though that provision were in an Act for the amendment of that Order in Council enacted by Parliament after compliance with the requirement imposed by the proviso of subsection (4) of section 29 of that Order in Council.

(a) Where the provisions of this Act are in conflict or are inconsistent with any other written law, this Act shall prevail.

PART I

Investigation of allegations of, and prosecution or arraignment for, bribery

3. (1) The Attorney-General, or any officer authorised in that behalf by and acting under the control of the Attorney-General is hereby empowered to direct and conduct the investigation of all allegations of bribery notwithstanding anything in any other written law to the contrary;

Provided, however, that the Attorney-General shall not, without the consent of the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the case may be, hold an investigation of an allegation of bribery against a Senator or a Member of Parliament;

Provided, further, that the Attorney-General shall not, without the consent of the Judicial Service Commission, hold an investigation of an allegation of bribery against a judicial officer.

(2) The Attorney-General may also in any case in which he deems it expedient require a Magistrate, upon warrant under section 148 (r) (e) of the Criminal Procedure Code, to hold an inquiry in respect of any allegation of bribery. The provisions of Chapter XVI of that Code shall apply to such inquiry, except that at the conclusion of the inquiry the Magistrate shall, in lieu of discharging or committing for trial the person charged, transmit the record of the inquiry to the Attorney-General.

(3) The Attorney-General may after receipt of the record from the Magistrate require the Magistrate to record such further evidence as the Attorney-General may consider necessary.

(4) The Attorney-General, or any officer authorised by the Attorney-General under sub-section (I), may, in making an investigation under this section, direct in writing any person who appears to be acquainted with any facts relevant to the matters under investigation-

62D. 62Q. (I) Save as otherwise provided in sub-section (2), the provision of section 62M and 62P shall apply in the case of any default notwithstanding that the borrower may have died or that any right, title or interest in the land mortgaged by the borrower as security for the loan may have passed by voluntary conveyance or by operation of law to any other person.

(2) If the amount of the instalment or other payment in respect of which default has been made, together with any interest due thereon according to the terms of the mortgage, and of the moneys and costs, if any, recoverable by the appropriate authority under section 62W is tendered to that authority at any time before the date fixed for the sale of the land mortgaged to that authority as security for the loan, that authority may, in the discretion of that authority, direct that such land shall not be sold and that no further steps shall be taken in pursuance of the order under section 62P for the sale of such land.

(3) Where any land sold in pursuance of the preceding provisions of this Part is in the occupancy of the debtor or of some person on his behalf or of some person claiming under a title created by the debtor subsequently to the mortgage of the land to the appropriate authority, the District Court shall order delivery of possession of that land to be made to the purchaser by putting the purchaser, or any person whom he may appoint to receive possession on his behalf, in possession of that land.

(4) Where any land sold in pursuance of the preceding provisions of this Part is in the occupancy of a tenant or other person entitled to occupy it, the District Court shall order delivery of possession of that land to be made to the purchaser by affixing a notice of the sale having taken place, in the English, Sinhalese and Tamil languages, in some conspicuous place on that land, and proclaiming to the occupant by beat of tom-tom, or in such other mode as may be customary, at some convenient place, that the interest of the debtor has been transferred to the purchaser. The cost of such proclamation shall be liked by the court and shall in every case be prepaid by the purchaser.

(5) Every order under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) shall be deemed, as the case may be to be an order for delivery of possession made under section 287 or section 688 of the Civil Procedure Code, and may be enforced in like manner as an order so made, the debtor and the purchaser being deemed, for the purpose of the application of any provision of that Code, to be the judgment-debtor and judgment-creditor respectively.

62AA. Where the land sold is purchased by the appropriate authority, that authority may, at any time before that authority re-sells that land, cancel in respect of the loan for which the land was sold (including the costs of seizure and sale) and interest on the aggregate sum at a rate not exceeding the prescribed rate. Such an endorsement shall, upon registration in the office of The Registrar of Lands, re-vest the land in the debtor as though the sale under this Part had not been made.

62BB (r) Where the land sold is purchased by the appropriate authority time re-sell the land and transfer to the purchaser by endorsement on such in the office of the Registrar of Lands, vest in the purchaser specified in that endorsement such right, title and interest as are so specified.

in accordance with the provisions of any other written law.

PARLIAMENT OF CEYLON

A REVIEW OF 1956-57

This review of Parliament deals with the first session of the Third Parliament of Ceylon, which was ceremonially opened by His Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Oliver Goonetilleke, after the return to power of the Malaijana Eksath Peramuna (People's United Front), at the General Election held on April 5, 7 and so, 1956.

After the elections, the new House of Representatives met for the first time on April 19, 1956, when the members took their oaths of allegiance, and proceeded to elect the following from among them, to preside over their deliberations:

Speaker—Mr. M. H. Ismail.
Deputy Speaker—Mr. P. Tennekoon.
Deputy Chairman of Committees--Mr. R. S. Pelpola.

CEREMONIAL OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

On April zo, 1956, Sir Oliver Goonetilleke, Governor-General, ceremonially opened the first session of the Third Parliament.

The pomp and dignity that accompanied such occasions in previous years were there again, but with this difference--the accent was on simplicity. White on previous occasions the Governor-General came to address Senators and Members of Parliament, who were drawn mostly from the higher strata of society, on this occasion, His Excellency was addressing M.P.s more representative of the common man they represented.

It was not a set of M.Ps clad in heavy and expensive Western dress that the Governor-General spoke to, but those dressed in the simple, White cloth and banian of the ordinary village folk---a costume which in later months came to be known as the M.E.P. dress.

All this was significant of the revolution in the governing process that had been brought about hardly two weeks earlier through the instrumentality of the people's vote.

The crowds present at the ceremonial opening of the Third Parliament were also in keeping with the new order that ushered in the era, of what is now popularly known as the People's Government. While on previous occasions the vast majority of the spectators at openings of parliamentary sessions were drawn from the urban areas in and around Colombo, April zo, 1956, saw thousands of villagers from the remote rural recesses of Ceylon muster strong outside Parliament House to witness the spectacle of, what they believed to be, the opening of the first “people's parliament.”

Nor were they satisfied with being only witnesses from a distance, and as soon as the Governor-General, and other leading personalities had departed after the ceremony, the villagers rushed into the Parliament building to view the chamber, and other rooms Itsed by those they had returned to represent them in the legislature.
The Speech from the Throne by the Governor-General did not contain any detailed statements on the policies of the new Government. As His Excellency declared: "My Government regrets that it is not in a position to enumerate in detail today, the various measures which it will adopt to implement its policies. You are aware that my Government assumed office only a few days ago, and that it has not had sufficient time to formulate its full program."

The Speech noted that "the free votes of the people, democratically cast at the last General Election, are a clear indication of dissatisfaction with many aspects of policy and administration hitherto pursued", and added: "My Government intends, in pursuance of its declared policy, to effect many changes with expedition and efficiency, but in a manner that will neither result in injustice nor cause confusion and dislocation."

On the question of foreign relations, the Governor-General stated: "In its foreign policy, my Government will not align with any power blocs. The position of the bases at Katunayake and Trincomalee will be reviewed. Every endeavour will be made to establish close collaboration and co-operation with other countries. Consideration will be given to the exchange of diplomatic representatives with countries in which Ceylon is not at present represented.

"My Government welcomes the success of the previous administration in securing the admission of Ceylon to the United Nations, and intends to make the fullest use of this position in making its contribution to the preservation of world peace, and the furtherance of friendly relations with other countries."

The Speech further declared that "among the constitutional matters, to which attention will be paid in due course, will be the question of establishing a Republic, and of ensuring the more effective and efficient functioning of the principles of democracy."

"In pursuance of its Socialist policy, my Government will take early steps where the best interests of the country so require, to nationalise certain essential services such as transport."

The Governor-General's Speech from the Throne ended with an assurance to minorities in the following words: "My Government wishes to assure minorities, religious, racial, or otherwise, that they need have no fear of injustice or discrimination in the carrying out of its policies and programs. My Government will ensure to all citizens the rights, privileges and freedoms to which they are entitled in a democratic State."

Mr. M. B. W. Mediwake (Minipe) moved in the House of Representatives that "this House do present the following Address to His Excellency the Governor-General in reply to his Speech:

"May it please Your Excellency, We, the members of the House of Representatives, thank Your Excellency for the Speech with which you have been pleased to open Parliament. We assure Your Excellency that we shall give our attention to all matters placed before us."

Mt. D. B. I.Vonnekulame (Kurunegala) seconded, and the motion was passed, after debate, on May 4, 1956.
SUSPENSION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The first major piece of legislation introduced in the new House of Representatives was the Suspension of Capital Punishment Bill, which sought to amend the Criminal Procedure Code so that capital punishment would not be imposed (for a period of three years, in the first instance) for the commission of murder, and the abetment of suicide, and that rigorous imprisonment for life be substituted instead of death.

The Bill was moved by the Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Justice (Mr. Mahanama Sama.raweera), on May 17, 1956, and passed unanimously.

The Bill was rushed to the Upper House for its approval before finally becoming law, but the Senate, after an animated debate, on May 31, rejected the Bill by a majority of 2 votes.

The position taken up by opponents of the Bill in the Senate was that (a) there had been no public demand for the suspension or abolition of the death penalty; (b) that that moment was not opportune to do away with capital punishment as crime was on the increase; and (c) that before such a drastic measure was taken, a Commission should be appointed to go into the pros and cons of the whole issue, and make recommendations for the guidance of the legislature.

The Government was furious at the decision of the majority in the Senate but it was powerless, as the Upper House had only exercised its right to delay legislation.

The alternative left to the Government was to re-introduce the Bill in the House of Representatives at the next session, when, if accepted, it would become law despite any decision of the Senate against it.

Meanwhile, in order not to be beaten in its desire to suspend the death penalty, the Government has been using the prerogative of mercy, and granting reprieves to those convicted of murder and sentenced to death by the Supreme Court, and thereby commuting their sentences to imprisonment for life.

OFFICIAL LANGUAGE BILL

The first major piece of legislation proposed by the new Government came before the House of Representatives, on June 5, 1956, when the Prime Minister, Mr. Bandaranaike, moved the Official Language Bill, to make Sinhalese the official language of Ceylon.

The presentation of the Bill was the logical sequel to an undertaking Mr. Bandaranaike had given the country before his election to power, and which he was now implementing after the assumption of power.

The Bill, as was expected, was vehemently opposed by the Tamils, and communal feeling had reached its peak on June 5.

In fact, feeling had run so high, that it was decided that when the Official Language Bill was debated in the House, no members of the public should be permitted to be present. This was strictly adhered to, and only M.P's and the Press, were present clurrirtt the protracted debate on the Bill.
But while the House of Representatives was barricaded and heavily guarded by the Police, nothing could have stopped crowds demonstrating outside on the Galle Face Green, and several were injured as a result of clashes, and stone throwing, including a couple of Tamil M.P.s, who performed satyagraha earlier that day, as a protest against the presentation of the 13111,

The situation deteriorated so much towards evening that when the House adjourned that day, at 8 p.m., all those who had pledged to oppose the Bill namely the Tamil M.P.s and the L. S. S. P. and Communist M.P.s, had to be escorted to their homes in heavily-guarded military and police vehicles.

The disturbances were not confined to Colombo only.

The debate on the Language Bill was a marathon one, and the second reading of the Bill was passed by the House, by 66 votes to 29, at 5-30 a.m. on June 14. The House sat, without a break, from 2 p.m. on June 13, till 6.15 a.m. the next day, when the vote was taken.

The third reading of the Bill was passed half an hour later.

It was a historic decision, and a historic sitting of the House, and never had the legislature sat for such a long period at one stretch, (not even during the 1953 hartal), to reach a decision on a question under debate.

The Official Language Bill came before the Senate on July 3, 1956, and was passed, on July 6, by 19 votes to 6.

On July 7, 1956, the Governor-General "assented in Her Majesty's name to the Bill intituled ""--" an Act to prescribe the Sinhala language as the one official language of Ceylon and to enable certain transitory provisions to be made."

BUDGET FOR 1956--57

On July 12, 1956, the Finance Minister, Mr. Stanley de Zoysa, presented the budget for 1956-57, which incidentally was the first budget of the new government.

The Finance Minister said: "Governments have changed. The wheel of the ship of national finance has been handed to me. It becomes necessary for us, therefore, to look around and take our bearings; to judge whither we have been tending, and, if necessary, to re-set our course. That indeed is about as much as we have been able to do in the few weeks during which we have been in office. I might say that we were not particularly happy about the direction the ship had been taking, and we have had to re-set our course in order that we may steer clear of the currents of national extravagance, or the shoals of financial bungling. The course has been set, but we cannot report that we have progressed far on the way. We can anticipate, however, that the stRp will eventually be brought to the safe haven of national financial stability."

In announcing his taxation proposals for the new financial year, the Finance Minister quoted the Sinhalese saying, "As a bee gathers pollen without damaging the flower, so too should government gather its taxes without hurting the citizen." He declared that it was in that spirit that he had determined his taxation proposals.

The main taxation proposals were:

(a) Increase of company rate of tax by per cent, to yield an additional sum of Rs. 15 million.
(b) Increase in income tax of individuals in the higher income groups, which worked out to those in the Re. 20,000 group paying Rs. 100 more per year, in the Rs. 30,000 group paying Rs. 350 more, the Rs. 40,000 group Rs. 750 more, and the Rs. 60,000 group paying Rs. 1,300 more per year. This increase in income tax was estimated to yield Re. 5 million.

(c) Increase in the Estate Duty payable on estates above Rs. 500,000. The increases were 2 per cent on estates between Rs. 500,000 and Rs. 600,000; 5 per cent for estates between Rs. 900,000 and Rs. 1,000,000; 8 per cent for those between Rs. 4 million and Rs. 5 million; and 10 per cent for estates above Rs. 5 million. The estimated increase in revenue through this process was Rs. 1.25 million.

(d) Increase in export duty on plumbago, and import duty on crude oil.

Several tax recessions, though not far-reaching to the beneficiaries, were also announced. These included relief for premia paid for life insurance and provident funds, and the reduction of import duties on commodities and articles like dried and salted fish, butter, jams, jellies, toys, etc.

The new levies, and the reductions of duty, left the estimated overall budget deficit at Rs. 14n.7 million.

Concluding his budget speech the Finance Minister said: "I do not know whether my proposals will be as well received as those of my predecessors; but this I know, they in their time served different masters, and their proposals were intended to serve different purposes. This is the first budget of the first People's Government in Independent Ceylon. If, therefore, it should stimulate the hopes and aspirations of the common man, if it shows the way to the many problems that beset him, if it is an indication of a better future for him, then it shall have served its purpose."

The Appropriation Bill (budget) passed its second reading in the House of Representatives, by 58 votes to 27, on August 2, 1956.

The third reading was passed by 53 votes to 27, on August 28.

The budget was passed in the Senate, without a division, on September 13, 1956.

NATIONAL PLANNING COUNCIL

On September 6, 1956, the House of Representatives passed a Bill "to provide, for the establishment of a National Planning Council, and a Planning Secretariat, and for matters connected therewith."

The Bill envisaged the establishment of a National Planning Council consisting of the Prime Minister, the Finance Minister, and not more than 15 other persons appointed as members of the Council, by the Prime Minister.

The Council is to advise the Cabinet on the planning of agriculture, industry, commerce, education, housing, health and social services, public utilities, and all other matters pertaining to the national economy.

The Prime Minister is the Chairman of the Council, and the Finance Minister, the Deputy Chairman.

The Bill was welcome by both sides of the House, and passed without division.
PARTY AFFILIATIONS

The year under review has seen several changes in party affiliations.

On August 12, 1956, Mr. K. M. P. Rajaratna, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Posts, Information and Broadcasting and an ardent member of Mr. Bandaranaike's Mahajana Eksath Peramuna, resigned his office, and took a seat in the Opposition benches.

A few days later, Gate Mudaliyar M. S. Kariapper, M.P. for Kalmunai, resigned from the Federal Party, and joined the Government Parliamentary Party.

He was followed by Mr. S. U. Edirimanasingham, M.P. for Paddirippu, who had earlier been an Independent (Opposition) M.P.

Mr. L. B. Jinasena, Second M.P. for Kadugannawa, next resigned from the U.N.P. and joined the M.E.P.

Towards the end of January 1957, the Communist Party, which up to that time had been an Opposition Party, announced its decision to support the Government.

This announcement came a few days before the arrival in Ceylon of Mr. Chou en-Lai, Prime Minister of the People's Republic of China.

THE SENATE

The Senate made its presence felt more than ever before, since its inception in 1947, during the period under review.

On May 31, 1956, the Senate rejected the Bill, passed by the House of Representatives a few days earlier, to enable a suspension of the death penalty for an experimental period of 3 years. This was the first occasion that the Senate exercised its right to delay hasty legislation. This was followed up by a motion, passed on August 29, 1956, that a Commission be appointed to report on the advisability, or otherwise, of abolishing the death penalty.

Towards the end of 1956, the Senate asserted its authority again, and re-jected a Bill that had been accepted by the House of Representatives, relating to the adoption of children.

There was one change in the membership of the Senate in 1955-57.

Mr. Peri Sunderam, a veteran Senator, resigned his seat in the Upper House in January 1957, and died a few days later, on February 3, 1957.

His place was taken by Mr. G. P. Wickramaratchi, a reputed ayurvedic physician, who was unanimously elected by the House of Representatives.

Mr. Wickramaratchi created history by taking his oath of allegiance in Sinhalese, thereby breaking the tradition in the Senate of taking oaths of allegiance in the English language only.

DEVELOPMENT OF CIVIL AVIATION IN CEYLON

The first step for the provision of flying facilities in Ceylon was taken in June 1934, when the State Council accepted a report of the Executive Committee of Communications and Works for the construction of an aerodrome at Ratmalana. By early 1936, an airfield of modest dimensions was completed and in February of the same year, the Aero Club of Ceylon gave flights to members of the public with a view to stimulating interest in Aviation. An important landmark in the progress of civil flying was the flight of a Tata aircraft from Ratmalana on 28th February, 1938, carrying the first load of Ceylon airmail under the Empire Airmail Scheme.

Aerodrome development work went ahead and several additional facilities were installed at Ratmalana. The construction of an emergency landing ground at Puttalam on the Cotombo-Madras air route was also completed. This airfield was officially opened by the Minister for Communications and Works on 2nd June, 1939.

Ceylon's importance as an air base during the Second World War resulted in considerable extensions and improvements being made to Ratmalana airfield and additional airfields being constructed in various parts of the Island at high speed. Air links with the outside world were rapidly forged and the Commonwealth trunk air service between the United Kingdom and Australia was routed through Ceylon.

The Department of Civil Aviation which was formerly administered by the Director of Public Works, was made a separate organisation in February, 1946 and Mr. L.S.B. Perera of the Ceylon Civil Service was appointed first Director of Civil Aviation.

The following principal recommendations for the development of Civil Aviation in Ceylon was accepted by the Executive Committee of Communications and Works of the State Council of Ceylon in July, 1946:

1. Applications for traffic rights in Ceylon for external air services operated by outside agencies to be treated as a matter of policy on considerations of public convenience and necessity and based on a system of reciprocal rights.

2. The formation of an airways corporation with Government capital for the operation of external air services.

3. The inauguration of air services to India to be given high priority in Ceylon's external air transport plan.

4. Investigation of schemes for the operation of air services to U.K. and Australia.

5. Ratmalana and Kankesanturai to be developed as major airports for the promotion of civil flying.

6. Telecommunication systems for civil aviation to be maintained and operated by the Department of Civil Aviation.

7. Progressive development of air traffic control services and navigational aids by the department with a view to ultimate transfer from the R.A.F. to the civil administration of full responsibility for the air route organization.

8. The expansion of the meteorological service to meet the needs of civil aviation.

9. The promotion of light plane aviation in Ceylon, and

10. The establishment of an aircraft inspectorate for the regulation and supervision of airworthiness standards for Ceylon registered aircraft.

It is broadly within the above compass that the work of the Directorate of Civil Aviation progressed during the ensuing years.

In July 1948, Ceylon was elected a member of the International Civil Aviation Organization, which controls Civil Aviation in the international sphere through a permanent touncil and Secretariat seated at Montreal, Canada. The Organization makes a continuous study and review of international air transport in both the economic and technical branches. The organization has done much valuable work in determining the rules of conduct between nations for the regulation and control of air commerce and for the adoption of common standards and procedures in respect of airfields, communication systems, air navigational aids, air traffic control, meteorological services and the licensing of ground personnel. Ceylon in common with other member States implements the standards and the practices that are recommended from time to time by the Organization for the systematic and orderly development of Civil air transport.

The increasing demands for flying training from the youth of the country made it abundantly clear that a permanent establishment should be set up on sound lines to provide flying training. The Ceylon Air Academy was therefore established under the aegis of the Directorate of Civil Aviation in November, 1950. It provides training facilities for Aircrew and Aircraft Engineers.

Air Ceylon: A bold and decisive step was taken in 1947 when the Minister for Communications and Works decided that the time was ripe for Ceylon to engage in commercial air transport and obtained the approval of Government for the purchase of three Dakota aircraft which were overhauled and reconditioned in India for passenger transport. These aircraft rendered a very useful service to the community by helping to maintain communications when surface transport was completely interrupted during the disastrous floods of August 1947. Continuous shuttle services were maintained between Colombo, Negombo, Trincomalee and Jaffna which paved the way for the commencement of regular services by the Government airline, Air-Ceylon. During the next three months, the airline organisation assumed shape and its entire energies were devoted to the recruitment of operating crews, engineering staff and the building up of the organisation. The most important single achievement in civil aviation in Ceylon was undoubtedly the establishment of its national commercial air service. Air-Ceylon commenced regular operations on 10th December, 1947, between Colombo and Madras with an intermediate stop at Jaffna. The initial frequency of the service was four flights per week. Air-Ceylon has made steady progress and the frequency of the services to Madras and Trichinopoly was subsequently stepped up to a daily service.

An impressive record of achievements was chalked up by Air-Ceylon in one year of actual operations when it is remembered that the entire management, operational and engineering staff were Ceylonese.

At the end of 1948 Air-Ceylon entered into an agreement with the Australian National Airways Pty. Ltd., and soon expanded her activities. She purchased two four-engined Skymaster aircraft and embarked on international services in March 1949.

On 1st May, 1951, Air Ceylon changed into a Corporation. Forty nine shares of the Corporation are held by the Australian National Airways Pty. Ltd. and the remaining fifty one by the Ceylon Government. By an agreement signed at Amsterdam in November 1955 KLM Royal Dutch Air lines combine with Air Ceylon in place of the Australian National Airways Pty. Ltd., operate an international Air Service between Amsterdam and Colombo from February, 1956. This service was extended from Colombo to Bangkok in April, 1956. It is now proposed to operate on the sector Colombo/Singapore from April, 057 instead of the Colombo/Bangkok service which will be temporarily suspended.

Survey Department
(Lower Chatham St , Colombo)
The Ceylon Survey Department was created by a Proclamation by the Governor, dated at Galls on August 2nd, t800. For the first so years of its existence it was a very small Department and its work consisted of scattered and independent surveys of land for sale and for issue of title plans to purchasers of Crown Land.

Since then, the Department has expanded greatly and is at present manned by a staff of 9 Superintendents, 34 Assistant Superintendents, 421 Surveyors and 400 Clerks and Draughtsmen with a Surveyor-General, a Deputy Surveyor-General, two Asst. Surveyor-Generals, an Office Assistant and six Drawing Office Assistants.

For administrative purposes the Island is divided into six Divisions—VIE : Northern, Eastern, Southern, Western, North Western and Central, with controlling Divisional Offices at Anuradhapura, Badulla, Galle, Colombo, Kurunegala and Kandy respectively. Surveyors of the Department work in all parts of the Island and have, for many years now, been engaged on Irrigation Engineering Surveys, Town Surveys, and other surveys directly required for the development of the Island in addition to their former work for the settlement of claims to land, the issue of leases, etc.

The drawing and printing of all kinds of maps and plans are also done by the Department in its Head Office in Colombo. These maps are available for purchase at the Surveyor General’s Office, Colombo and at the Divisional Survey Offices, and also with certain private firms in Colombo and in London.

In addition to the six Divisional Offices, a separate branch office has been established at Diyalatalawa to deal with all Trigonometrical and Levelling work. The Departmental Survey Training School and the recess camp for surveyors are also attached to this branch at Diyatalawa.

Dept. of Food Production

(42, Edinburgh Crescent, Colombo 7.)
The Department was originally started with the limited objective of giving the necessary initiative and drive for increase food production in the country and acting as a Co-ordinating agency among the various Government Departments engaged in Food production in some way or other. The main task of the Department was to provide the goods and a part of the staff necessary to carry out food production programmes drawn up by the District Agricultural Committees. Beyond the stage that Government expenditure stopped the peasants were assisted through a system of Agricultural credit extended by the Department through a net-work of Co-operative Agricultural Production & Sales Societies.

As the Department was set up at a time of emergency (during the Korean Crisis), the functions were left undefined and vague. As a result the Department took over many functions that were not within its proper sphere and concentrated on problems arising from the main task before the Department. With a view to making the functions of the Department more clear-cut it has been decided to confine its activities to those functions falling within the scope of an Administrative Department responsible for increasing food production in the country through intensive cultivation. In future the purely technical questions will be handled by the Department of Agriculture and the Food Production Department will be responsible mainly for agricultural services like the supply of credit facilities, fertilisers seed paddy, implements etc. The Department is also responsible for the operation of the Food Production (Estates) Act.

Department of Social Services

The last twenty years has seen the development of far-reaching social changes in this country. Until then the people of Ceylon relied for the greater part on private alms, public charity, government grants and free medical assistance as a cushion against economic and social distress. These proved reasonably satisfactory so long as the Island’s economy was fundamentally rural. But with the economic prosperity of the war years, Government has taken an increasing interest in social welfare, and current social service work reflects State participation in both leadership and finance of programmes.

Public Assistance: The most important piece of social legislation that was promulgated for rendering public assistance to the poor was the Po or Law Ordinance of 1939. Its administration for a start was recommended to be vested in the three major Municipalities of Colombo, Kandy and Galle.

In areas outside these Municipalities, the system of payment of monthly allowances to the needy continues to be the basic social service by the Central Government and still affords the major governmental protection against the hazards of old age, sickness and disability. The scheme is extended to provide assistance to destitute widows and to women deprived of their husband’s help owing to imprisonment if in order to attend to their children or on account of physical disability they are unable to work and support themselves and their children. The maximum assistance is Rs. 10/- per mensem for an individual and Rs. 20/- per mensem for a person with dependants.

The number of persons who received monthly allowances and the total sums expended in such cases since 1950/51 compared with 1936/37 are as follows:

Casual Relief: Assistance is given for the relief of acute distress resulting from accidents or acts of God and affecting individuals in isolated cases or in small groups. The relief covers distress resulting from loss of earnings on food supply by fire or accident, repair or reconstruction of houses so damaged, assistance to purchase implements of trade or tools lost through fire, rains, storm or other cause. The maximum grant in each case is Rs. 300/-.

Relief of Distress: A common cause of abnormal distress is flooding or the uncertainty of the rains. Any catastrophic occurrence like cyclone, earth slips or epidemic which involves the people in suffering and helplessness is also regarded as abnormal distress. Prompt assistance is given by Way of food, clothing, shelter and monthly allowances to those rendered destitute as a result of floods. The 257 houses built on the Mariawatte Estate under the Resettlement Scheme for flood-victims were allotted to the flood victims of Gampola in February, 1954 on monthly tenancy. Relief works are organised when destitution is caused by the failure of crops and when distress is caused by storms or other disasters, assistance is given by way of food, clothing, shelter and monthly allowances.

Financial Assistance to Tuberculosis Patients: A scheme of financial assistance to indigent tuberculosis patients and their dependants Which was introduced in January, 1953, by the Department of Social Services is now in operation in close collaboration with the Health Department. Financial provision in a sum of Rs. 5 million was made in the Budget of 1956/57 for this purpose. The object of the scheme is to grant relief for loss of earning power during treatment and thus encourage early and complete treatment. A maximum payment of Rs. 60/- per mensem where the patient is receiving institutional treatment and Rs. 80/- per mensem where out-door treatment is being taken, subject in all cases to a means test, is granted to families where the breadwinner is a victim of T.B. Supplementary assistance of Rs. 40h each per mensem is granted in respect of each dependant who is certified T.B. subject. The number of T.B. patients and families assisted by the Department as at the end of November, 1956 was 7,700.

Voluntary Agencies: Several voluntary agencies contribute their share to the Social Services provided by the State. Although the sphere of state action has greatly expanded in recent years, the Government in pursuance of its policy of encouraging voluntary action has given liberal grants to various agencies in varying amounts. In 1955/56 a sum of Rs. 514,704.28 was paid as grants to 151 voluntary agencies. This is in addition to the grants of Rs. 299,161.44 given to 24 voluntary agencies towards building, equipment and maintenance of Homes for the Aged.

Homes for the Aged: Govt. policy in regard to the Homes lot the Aged has been to assist by means of grants to existing Homes which are financed by private subscription and voluntary agencies. A Sum of Rs; 299,62z /14 was paid in 1955/56 as grants-in-aid towards the running of Homes for the Aged by voluntary organisations. But owing to the fact that voluntary agencies are unable to cope with the demand for institutional relief, Government has decided to establish Homes for the Aged in suitable areas and to run such Homes. our such Homes have been established at Koggala, Anuradhapura, Jaffna and Mirigama. Action has also been initiated to construct a State Homes for the Aged at Kurunegala and Kandy District.

Creches: A scheme to provide creche facilities for the daytime care of children between the ages of about 3 months to 5 years in areas where there are concentrations of working mothers came into force in the course of the year 1952. An annual maintenance grant is payable depending on the number of children cared for in the creche. A sum of Rs. 290,000 has been provided for the financial year 1956/57 in the estimates.

Rehabilitation of the Disabled: The term 'disabled persons' is popularly associated with disabled ex-service men and civilian war casualties. However, industrial accidents and diseases are an equally important cause of disablement. A scheme to provide vocational training for the Orthopaedically disabled persons in the Orthopaedic Workshops was inaugurated in September 1952. A maximum allowance of Rs. 2.20 per diem is paid for the duration of the period of training. A training does not carry with it any obligation or guarantee of employment, but every endeavour is made to place them in suitable employment.

The Deaf & Blind: Government has assumed responsibility for the care of the deaf and blind which had been a voluntary service till recently. Steps are being taken to provide improved buildings for Sheltered Workshops at Seeduwa.

The Problem of Vagrancy: The rehabilitation of the vagrants and other anti-social elements is being dealt by the Government through the House of Detention and Home for Vagrants. Convicted persons are detained as long as is necessary to rehabilitate them. A scheme of training in cottage industries such as mat-weaving, textile weaving, coir work, knitting and needlework has been introduced.

New buildings for the House of Detention and the Home for Vagrants are being constructed at Gangodawila.
Workmen's Compensation: The Workmen's Compensation Ordinance was brought into operation in 1935. It provides for the payment of compensation by the employer to workmen who sustain personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of their work. Below are particulars of claims paid during the past few years:

MINISTRY OF COMMERCE AND TRADE

(Galle Face Court 2, Colombo 3).

THE Ministry of Commerce & Trade was established on 26th September, 1947. With the inauguration of the New Constitution, and in terms of the Prime Minister's Proclamation dated 29th September, 1947.

After the change of Government in April, 1956, the following departments were assigned to the Ministry:
- Commerce
- Registrar of Companies
- Tourist Bureau
- Rubber Commissioner
- Control of Imports and Exports

Minister of Commerce & Trade Hon. R. G. Senanayake, M.P.; Parliamentary Secretary—Lakshman Rajapaksa; Permanent Secretary—W. J. A. Van Langenberg, c.c.s. (Rs. 1,850). Assistant Secretary—A. R. Ratnavale, c.c.s. (Rs. 1,850). Office Assistant—E. S. de Silva, c.c.s. (Rs. 1,610).

The Staff of the Ministry Office consists of one Chief Clerk, ten clerks, two stenographers and two typists.

The Permanent Secretary is the chief executive head of the Ministry and exercises administrative control over all the Departments assigned to the Ministry. All questions of Establishments, Estimates and Policy are dealt with by the Ministry Office; and Heads of Departments derive their authority for execution of Ministerial and Cabinet Policy through the Permanent Secretary.

As Ceylon's National Income and Revenue is largely dependent on the prices obtained from her exports, the importance of a separate Ministry of Commerce and Trade in an independent Ceylon is apparent. The Ministry is actively interested in promoting the Island's Trade and Commerce and in providing facilities for the nationals of this country to take their rightful place in such trade and to conduct their business efficiently.

The Department of Commerce--The principal function of the department of Commerce is to advise the Government on Commercial and Economic questions. More specifically, it advises the Ministry of Commerce on the formation of Commercial policies and the problems of our export products. In addition, the Department deals with export trade promotion, trade intelligence, chiefly through the medium of a Trade journal published monthly, and arbitration of commercial disputes. It also handles export commodities, standardization problems and administers the Weights and Measures Legislation for the Island. The Department performs certain statutory functions connected with the Companies Ordinance and maintains the Companies Liquidation Account.

Department of the Controller of Imports& Exports--Import Control is directed towards (a) the regulation of the import trade to a greater or lesser degree in the context of Ceylon's Balance of payments position (b) the strengthening of the overall payments position of the Sterling Area (c) the protection of certain local industries, (d) the procurement of goods for which export quotas had been fixed by the supplying countries as well as goods in short supply, (e) the Ceylonization of trade which is now a permanent feature of Ceylon's foreign trade policy.

Export Control is maintained (a) for the purpose of restricting the export of imported goods which are required for the essential needs of the Island (b) the enforcement of minimum prices for certain export commodities, (c) the control of strategic materials; (d) the restriction on the export of certain Ceylon produce required for the needs of the Island; (e) the implementation of Trade Agreements; (f) the enforcement of standards of quality for the export of certain products.

The Department of Registrar of Companies: The Administration of the Joint Stock Companies Ordinance was originally assigned to the Registrar General. In 1938 Ordinance No. 51 of 1938 relating to Limited Liability Companies was passed. This Ordinance was proclaimed on 10th March 1939, and the Administration of this Ordinance was assigned to the then newly created Department of Commerce & Industries.

Under the New Constitution the Department of the Registrar of Companies was separated from the Department of Commerce & Industries. Since this date the Department of Registrar of Companies has been functioning as an independent unit. The Administration of the business Names Ordinance was transferred to this Department as from 3rd February 1949, and the Trade Marks, Designs, Mutual Societies, Building Societies, and Cheetu Ordinances are being administered by this Department as from the 14th December 1949. The Office of the Registrar of Patents is also attached to this Department.

The Department of Tourist Bureau: The Government Tourist Bureau is responsible for the overall development of Ceylon's tourist industry as a source of foreign exchange. Tourism which rose from ninth place to fourth place in Ceylon's Table of Export values, is yet in the initial stages of development;

The Ceylon Travel Centre, a branch of the Bureau, provides a comprehensive travel and tour booking service on Ceylon to visitors, through recognised hotels, transport operators and tourist agencies. Foreign travel agents are able to make use of this service, which provides a variety of rates and interests, commission free.

The Department operates a group of 12 Resthouses of tourist interest—Paionnaruwa, Sigiriya, Habarana, Dambulla, Belihuloya, Ambepussa, Bentota, Ella, Pussellawa, Tissamaharana, Hikkaduwa and Kantalai.

The Tourist Bureau carries out national tourist promotion overseas by means of publicity literature and advertising campaigns, radio publicity and direct mail in addition to the active travel promotion through a network of accredited travel agents in Australia, India, U.K., U.S. and Europe.

The Rubber Commissioner's Department: Under the Sirio-Ceylon Agreement, Ceylon Government has agreed to supply 50,000 tons of sheet rubber a year to the People's Republic of China for a period of five years. Rubber Commissioner is the sole exporter of rubber to China under this Agreement.

The Department maintains 28 purchasing depots in the principal rubber growing areas to serve as "Check Depots" to ensure that the producer gets a fair price. Rubber so purchased is transported to Stores in Colombo where it is sorted, baled and shipped to China.

The Rubber Commissioner purchases the bulk of his requirements of Rubber for shipments to China from Ceylonese shippers on F.O.B. terms at fixed prices.

The Rubber Commissioner acts also as the local agent for the People's Republic of China in the matter of the two way trade between China and Ceylon in other commodities. Accordingly imports of all goods of Chinese origin and exports of Ceylon produce to China are now channelled through the Rubber Commissioner.

This Department came into being on 31-10-39 as a result of conditions arising from the declaration of War. When the war ended import control was continued for the protection of local industries and for balance of payment reasons.

Import control is also utilised to implement the Government's Policy of Ceylunising the import and export trade in Ceylon. Goods from Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, China, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Germany, Hungary, Japan, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Spain, U.S.S.R. and Yugoslavia can only be imported by Ceylonese Importers who have been registered by the Controller of Imports. Orders for goods from Ceylunised sources can only be placed through Ceylonese Indent Agents who have been registered by the Controller of Imports. Exports to China are now confined to Registered Ceylonese Traders.

On the export side restrictions are mainly imposed on the export of imported foodstuffs and goods which are required for local consumption. The export of strategic materials is also controlled.

Department of Meteorology
(Butlers Road, Colombo 7)

The Colombo Observatory, which for over 40 years has controlled meteorological, seismological and time-service activities as a branch of the Survey Department, was accorded independent status in October 1948, and functions now as the Department of Meteorology.

The founding of the Colombo Observatory on its present site in Bullers Road in 1907 was largely due to the efforts of Mr. H. O. Barnard, the then Assistant Surveyor General, who divided his time between the Observatory and the Head Office of the Survey Department. He was also the first Superintendent of the Observatory.

The present meteorological set-up consists of 18 main climatological stations, at which observations are recorded several times a day and telegraphed to Colombo. Similar information is also received from Amparai and Periyakalapuwa at which meteorological stations were established at the request of the Director of Irrigation in connection with the Gal Oya Development Scheme. At the two meteorological stations maintained by the Tea Research Institute at St. Coombs, Talawakele, and at Passara, observations are made twice daily, the Observatory receiving copies of the records at the end of each month. In addition, the Station at Talawakele telegraphs the morning observation daily to Colombo.

Pilot balloon observations for determining upper winds are now a regular feature at 6 stations: Colombo, Mannar, Trincomalee, Hambantota, Maha Illuppallama and Amparai. Since the commencement of this work in Colombo in 1922, over 33,500 soundings have been made at the Observatory. At Mannar the station was established in 1937 in connection with the Colombo/Madras air mail service that was inaugurated at that time. At Trincomalee where the temporary pilot-balloon station was functioning during World War II for military requirements, a permanent station was established towards end of 1947. During 1952 two more stations, at Hambantota and Maha Illuppallama, were established. Of these the station at Maha Illuppallama is linked up with the establishment of a first-order meteorological station there in connection with research on Dry Farming Schemes. Pilot balloon observations at Amparai were commenced in February, 1955.

Autographic instruments for recording various meteorological elements; air pressure, temperature, humidity, rainfall, wind direction and force, and sunshine, are in use at some of the more important meteorological stations.

For its size, approximately 25,000 square miles, Ceylon has at present a fairly extensive rainfall organisation. Commencing from small beginnings, by 1906 there were about 90 raingauge stations distributed throughout the Island. By 1930, the number had steadily increased to 378, and today there are over 600 stations sending returns regularly to the Observatory. A large number of raingauge stations is maintained voluntarily by members of the Planting Community and other volunteer observers while at most of the others, observations are taken by Government employees without any remuneration for this work. To all of them this Department is greatly indebted.

Synchronizing time-signals are sent daily from the Observatory to the Central Telegraph Office, whence a further distribution of time-signals is made throughout the Island. Wireless time signals are sent out twice daily, in the "Onogo" code through the Colombo Wireless Station. The morning signal is from 1127 to 1130, Ceylon Standard Time (0557-0600, G.M.T.), and the evening signal from 1857 to 1900 (1327-1330, G.M.T.), both on 500 kc/s (600 metres) and 8,742 kc/s (360 metres), L.C.W. There is no curtailment on Sundays and Public Holidays.

A Radio-Sonde Station for determining the variations of temperature, humidity and pressure with height was established at the Colombo Observatory in May 1951. Observations are limited to one a day at 7.45 a.m. Ceylon Standard Time. Up to the end of 1956 a total of 2,029 soundings were made, A large majority of these observations reached a height of 50,000 feet or more. A good number of the balloons penetrated well into the stratosphere which occurs in this latitude at an average height of about 56,000 feet. The greatest height attained was a little over 87,000 feet in December 1954. Radio-Sonde data are particularly useful in predicting the occurrence of thunderstorms and other meteorological phenomena dangerous to aviation.

The establishment of a Forecast Centre at Ratinalana Airport in January, 1952 for taking over from the Royal Air Force Met Station at Negombo meteorological responsibilities for civil aviation was an important step in the development of the Ceylon meteorological service. Another noteworthy event was the taking over from the R.A.F. the responsibility for the Colombo National Meteorological Broadcast service, with effect from 4th April 1952. At present a series of broadcasts is made daily from Colombo under the call sign 4 QG. Five frequencies ranging from 3,345 kc/s to 17,350 kc/s have been allotted to 4 QG, of which a selection of 3 frequencies being used simultaneously for each transmission. The message consists of surface and upper air data from the net-work of observational stations in Ceylon and Male, Maldive Islands, the Colombo Radio-Sonde data and Radar upper wind data and weather reports received from ships at sea and from aircraft.

The Radar Wind-Finding Station was commenced in May 1956, when the CL III Radar Set obtained from England was taken into use by the Radar Technician who arrived from U.K. on contract. The total number of observations made during 1956 amounted to 207. This work will be taken over by the officer who is undergoing training in England, on his return.

Department of Fisheries

The activities of the Department are being directed to ensure the largest consistent yield of fish from fresh, brackish and marine waters and the improvement of the storage, handling, transport and marketing facilities in order to ensure that all this fish reaches the consumer in the best possible condition. The all Ceylon Co-operative Fish Sales Union is intended to provide the producer Co-operative Societies with direct means of access to the consumer, thereby eliminating the numerous links which have existed in the past between producer and consumer, resulting in the high price of fish to the consumer and a low return to the producer.

Assistance is given to fishermen through registered co-operative fishermen's Societies in the form of loans. Crown timber is given at royalty, and salt issued at concession rates to genuine fish curers and traders in salt fish. Disputes among fishermen are inquired into by appointed committees under the Fisheries Act No. 25 of 1952. Rescue services are offered to Fishermen in distress. The Department also provides beaching facilities for fishing boats by acquisition of land where such facilities do not exist. Fishermen have been settled in 95 houses during this year. A further 166 are under construction in the current year. Investigations carried out reveal that at least 7000 houses are required. Zoo houses will be constructed in 1957-8.

The introduction of mechanization into the capture operations is being pursued in order that the fishermen may benefit from improvements that are being tried and proved commercially successful.

Three marine diesel engines which were supplied by the F.A.O. were installed in three local fishing boats in the Jaffna area where local craft were considered suitable for the introduction of marine diesel engines. The results achieved were so good that fishermen have bought up all available engines and have placed orders for several more. The catch of these mechanised boats is about two or three times the quantity of fish caught by the non-mechanical boats. The fishermen have been so enthusiastic regarding the mechanisation of boats that more than 25 engines have been ordered by them direct from U.K. for installation in their boats. There are now 30 boats mechanised in the Jaffna area, two boats in the west coast and one boat on the east coast of the Island. 40 engines were gifted by Canada under the Colombo Plan Aid of which 35 have been sold to individual fishermen on hire purchase terms. The registration of local craft has been undertaken, and of an estimated 16,000 boats, 15,500 have been registered up to 31-12-56.

A Soo ton cold storage plant is expected to be in commission during the course of this year. Work has been entrusted to Messrs. Bennett & White Construction Co., Ltd.

Concurrent with the work on the Cold Storage plant a by-products factory is being built by the Government of Ceylon for utilization of fish wastes, and inedible varieties of fish which are taken incidentally while fishing for edible varieties. The Equipment for this factory has been gifted by Canada.

The aim of the Canadian Fisheries Project is to assist the Ceylon Department of Fisheries to develop its fishery resources. The material gift of ships, cold storage plant, by-products factory equipment, laboratory equipment and the fisheries harbour construction project will permit fuller use of the fisheries resources now being exploited. The newly expanded research service will explore and ensure the best use of these resources, will conduct studies on which sound regulations can be based, determine what environmental conditions are most conducive to maximum catches and continuing maximum catches of fish, seek efficient methods of catching fish and develop new ways of utilizing catches to provide top quality marketable products in the most efficient and economical manner.

Co-operative Movement

In the earlier issues of this Directory we have traced the three distinct phases of development of the Co-operative Movement from 1911—the supply of credit to the Rural Economy, followed by the change of its content to that of consumer and finally the tendency towards Production & Marketing, the State making the Co-operatives the agencies for its action in cereal cultivating economy. The Movement has gone a step further since then, with the establishment of Co-operative Youth Clubs in the Island, the establishment of Co-operative Hospitals, the Co-operative Central Market at Pettah, Colombo and Co-operative District Banks at Chilaw and Polonnaruwa.

This is the progress of a Movement which has risen in popularity with amazing speed during the last decade. In the first three years there were only 37 Societies serving 11,820 members. Sixteen years later the number of Co-operative Societies had increased to 897 with a membership of 30,227. The next decade did not see anything spectacular.

Then the Second World War and Japan's entry into it in 1941, no doubt stepped up the Co-operative Movement. The air raid of 1942, the mass evacuation of people and the wreckage of the extensive network of wholesale and retail distribution, followed by shortages, called for an immediate and effective remedy.

This was where the Co-operative Movement stepped in and scored tremendously. Having risen to 2,989 Societies (membership: 319,700) in 1943, at the end of the war there were 6,531 Societies and a membership of 1,130,853. In 1951/52 the figure was 8,239 Societies and 1,282,713 members.

The following statistics show the vastness of its growth:

The change of complexion of the Co-operative Movement could also be seen from the following:—for the first 30 years of its existence 80 per cent of the Movement was composed of Credit Societies. In 1942 only 7% of the population were members of Co-operative Societies. By 1947 almost 70% were members and were served in one way or another. At the present moment most of the population is being served—chiefly by way of rice and essential foodstuffs.
Credit Societies number 3,292 with a membership of 15,692. The increase of Agricultural Production and Sales Societies has been a vital factor in the resuscitation and revival of the Credit Societies. The use of credit in profitable pursuits is now a common thing—with increased production, high prices and guaranteed rates for agricultural produces.

Thanks to the Credit Societies, the peasant has been released from the clutches of the rapacious money-lender, whose high rate of interest, crippled the poor villager especially after an uneconomic and unproductive period. The four Fs of village life—farming, food, funerals, feasts—could not be obtained, held or observed without money. It was the money-lender who "reaped the harvest".

Today economic enslavement is a bygone word with the peasant. Grants of loans by Credit Societies has been a big boon to the peasant cum colonist. They now, even own luxuries such as bicycles, gramophones and radio sets.

Estate stores were the main feature of the consumer sphere of Co-operation in the early days. Antagonism of boutique keepers and the apathy of a public accustomed to transactions on a credit basis were the causes of the non-existence of a single urban or rural store. Since 1942 there has been a metamorphosis as we explained earlier.

C. W. E.—that has become a synonym for fair prices to the consumer and is the blackmarketeer's bugbear. The Co-operative Wholesale Establishment, to give its full name, is the largest purveyor of consumable require, ments of the Island and their competitive prices have had a most moderating effect on other wholesalers and retailers.

This establishment was originally constituted as a Government organisation—the Department of Co-operative Development—charged with the function of wholesale supplier of consummable commodities to the retail stores of the Island. It is now managed by an autonomous Board of Directors presided over by a Chairman.

The Co-operative Production and Sales Societies, especially in the sphere of the coconut Industry, have contributed to the national wealth. The rapid growth of coconut mills and the bumper profits obtained therefrom provide ample evidence.

The Co-operative Agricultural Production and Sales Societies have not only given new meaning to rural life but they are also helping greatly in the nation's food drive at a time a great food problem is facing the Island. And with the aid of these the peasants are provided with barbed wire, buffaloes, modern agricultural implements and fertilisers etc., and have emerged from economic enslavement, happy and free. There are over 842 of these Societies now as compared to 27 only, 8 years ago.

The need for Co-operative organisations has also been keenly felt by the Fishermen. The Government realising the urgent need for such an organisation has appointed a special Co-operative Officer to assist in the develop, ment of this Industry on sound Co-operative lines. There are now 97 Societies.
With a view to saving the members of these Societies from the clutches of the middlemen, an All-Island Union of Fishing Societies has been registered to market the fish produced by these societies. Fish marketing hitherto done by the Government's Department of Fisheries is now wholly carried on by this Union. 2 million lbs. of fish valued at Rs. 1.8 million were sold last year.

For the purpose of financing the Fishing Industry through Co-operative Societies, the Government has set apart Rs. 3,000,000/–. Loans are granted to enable members to borrow on easy terms for purchase and repair of boats and fishing tackle and also for marketing. The Co-operative Fish Sales Union now works on its own Capital which is just over half a million rupees.

Of other forms of Co-operation, special mention should be made of the Moolai Co-operative Union Hospital and the Jaffna Malayalam Tobacco Sale Society—both in the Northern Province. The former is fully equipped with an operating Theatre and a Labour Room and attractive nurses' quarters. 3680 indoor and 13,050 outdoor cases were treated last year. Free treatment to the value of Rs 6137/- was afforded last year. The profits earned last year were Rs. 14,275. The Jaffna-Malayalam Co-operative Tobacco Sale Societies is the largest and one of the earliest marketing ventures. Its turnover last year was Rs. 0.9 million. Other types of Societies include 97 Fishing Societies, 31 Dairy Societies, 255 Textile Societies, 56 Pottery Societies, 16 Mat Weavers' Societies, 88 Coir Workers' Societies, 16 Transport Societies, 6 Better Living Societies, 1,266 School Supply Societies, 7 Rubber Small-Holders Produce and Sales Societies, 19 Tea Small-Holders Produce and Sales Societies, 1 Bakery, 3 Cigar Factories, r Citronella Distillery, 2 Co-operative Holiday Homes.

Finance for the Movement is provided by the Co-operative Federal Bank of Ceylon, the Provincial Banks, the Department of Food Production, Department of Fisheries, Department of Industries and the Local Loans and Development Fund. The Federal Bank has been recognised as a Commercial Bank, and the patronage of the Co-operative Wholesale Establishment and other Co-operative institutions should give it stability and security.

The financial turnover of the Movement last year was Rs. 1,257 million.

The strength of the staff of the Department of Commissioner of Co-operative Development and the Registrar of Co-operative Societies is now:

- Commissioner, r Deputy Commissioner, 2 Senior Assistant Commissioners, 31 Assistant Commissioners, 2 Accountants, 5 Lecturers, 254 Inspectors,
- 7 Audit Assistants, 2 Translators, 1 Technical Assistant, r publicity assistant, r dark room assistant, 1,137 Sub-Inspectors, & a number of others as against r Registrar, 2 Deputies, 4 Assistants, 35 Inspectors and 16 Sub-Inspectors, in 1939. The Department is concerned with supervision, audit, education, propaganda and rural organisation.

Marriages, Births and Deaths

General Marriages

The marriage laws of Ceylon, other than those relating to Kandyan and Muslim marriages, are contained in the Marriage Registration Ordinance (Chapter 95 of the Legislative Enactments) as amended by the Marriage Registration Amendment Ordinance. No. 34 of 1946.

2. Notice of an intended marriage must be given in the prescribed form by one of the parties to the Registrar of the division in which both have resided for not less than 10 days then next preceding. The Registrar's fee for the entry of such notice is 50 cents.

3. Where either or both the parties, not being a widow, widower, or a divorced person, are under 21 years of age, the notice must embody the consent of the person or persons whose consent is required, by law. The person whose consent is required is the father, or, if he be dead or under legal incapacity or absent from the Island and unable to make known his will, the mother. If both father and mother be dead or otherwise unable to make known their will, the person who has been appointed (in writing) as guardian by the father or the mother or by a competent court, may give consent. If there be no such guardian appointed or if the person whose consent is required unreasonably withholds such consent, the consent of the District Court should be obtained.

4. If the parties to an intended marriage reside in different divisions of the Island, the notice must be given by each of them to the Registrar of the division in which he or she has resided for not less than 10 days then next preceding and a certificate for the marriage obtained from each Registrar to whom notice has been given. In such case each Registrar should, immediately after notice is entered, give to the party a certified copy of the notice and send a like copy to the other Registrar. For each such copy he is entitled to a fee of 50 cents in addition to the fee payable for the notice.

5. If both parties to a marriage reside in the same revenue District notice given by one of the parties to the District Registrar will be sufficient; but such notice should bear a stamp of the value of Rs. 10.

6. Where only one party to the intended marriage has acquired the residence of ro days in the Island, such party may give notice bearing stamps of the value of Rs. 10 pending the arrival from abroad of the other party, to the Registrar or District Registrar in whose territorial jurisdiction he or she is resident.

6a. Where only four days' residence has been acquired by one or both of the parties, notice may be given on a stamp of Rs. 30. A residence of 4 days is indispensable.

7. In reckoning the period of residence necessary prior to giving of notice a day is taken as meaning a clear period of 24 hours beginning at midnight and ending at midnight.

8. Notice of marriage in the prescribed form is a necessary preliminary and cannot be dispensed with.

9. At any time not less than 12 clear days nor more than three months after the entry of the notice, and where two notices have been given, after the entry of both notices, the Registrar will, on application and on payment of a further fee of 50 cents, issue a certificate for the marriage, unless issue of such certificate has been forbidden by caveat or otherwise. In reckoning the period of 12 days the day of giving notice and the day of issue of certificate should be excluded.

to. No marriage can take place after the expiration of 3 months from the entry of notice. Where notices given to two Registrars are entered under different dates the period of 3 months counts from the earlier notice and the period of 12 days from the latter notice. Where a marriage has been forbidden, the time taken up in the disposal of the objection to the marriage does not count in the calculation of the period.

To obtain a Special Licence for solemnisation of a marriage immediately after entry of the notice, or at any time before the expiration of the period of is days mentioned in para 9, the party giving the notice should make a declaration on a stamp of Thirty Rupees before the District Registrar (Government Agent) to the effect that there is no legal impediment to the marriage, producing before such officer a copy certified by the Registrar of such notice. If there have been two notices (See para 4) copies of both should be produced.

rz. The Registrar-General cannot accept notice of, or solemnise marriages. In the Registrar-General's Office there is a Registrar of Marriages for the Colombo Division. The Registrar-General's Four Assistants are also Additional District Registrars of Colombo District and if notice be given to any one of them in terms of paras 5 or 6, a licence could be obtained from them almost immediately after the entry of the notice. In Kachcheries, too, the case is similar, as in each of the Kachcheries there is a Registrar of Marriages and a District Registrar.

Registrars do not inform the head office of notice given to them, but they send once a month duplicates of marriages registered by them.

The parties are not bound to state in the notice the date fixed for marriage, but if the marriage does not take place within three months from the date of notice the preliminaries must be gone through afresh. The intended place of marriage is required to be stated in the notice.

Marriages may be solemnised in registered places of public Christian worship or in the appointed office or station of the Registrar between the hours of six in the morning and six in the afternoon. The Registrar's fee for solemnising a marriage is Rs. 1-50. A Registrar or a Minister may, upon a licence obtained from the District Registrar, solemnise a marriage at any place and hour the parties may wish. Application for such licence of Registrar must be on a stamp of Rs. 3o except where the female party to the marriage belongs to a class of people to whose customs it is contrary to require their females to appear in public before wedlock and she has at all times observed that custom.

Immediately after the solemnisation of a marriage by a Clergyman a statement of the particulars thereof must be entered by him in duplicate in the book provided for the purpose. Both these entries must be signed by the Clergyman, by the parties married, and by two credible witnesses, whose full names, occupations and residences must be stated. The Clergyman must within seven days from the date of the marriage transmit the duplicate statement to the District Registrar who then enters the marriage in his Register. It is this entry that constitutes registration.

All persons desiring to secure legal proof of their marriages should obtain a certified copy from the Registrar's register by applying to him or to the Registrar-General, or District Registrar.

The following are the fees payable to Registrars under the Marriage Registration Ordinance.

Kandyan Marriages

The marriages of Kandyans are governed by the Kandyan Marriage and Divorce Act. No. 44 of 1952.
Muslim Marriages

The marriages of Muslims are governed by the Muslim Marriage and Divorce Act, No. 13 of 1951.

Marriage of British Subjects (Facilities) Act, 1917

The provisions of Section I of the above Act, enacted in England to facilitate marriages between British Subjects resident in the United Kingdom and British Subjects resident in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions or in British Protectorates, were extended to Ceylon by the passing of the "Marriage Registration (Amendment) Ordinance, No. 27 of 1917 ". According to this Ordinance:

(i) FOR A MARRIAGE TO BE SOLEMNISED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, the party resident in Ceylon may, as if the marriage is to be solemnised in the Dominion give the usual notice to the Registrar of the division where he or she has been resident and obtain his certificate:

(a) Where such party has been resident for not less than ten days in the division, the notice should bear a stamp of Rs. 10.

(b) Where the residence falls short of ten days, the notice is liable to a stamp of Rs. 30.

(2) For a Marriage to be solemnised in Ceylon, the certificate for marriage issued in England and Wales by a Superintendent Registrar, or in Scotland or Ireland by a registrar, or a certificate of publication of banns in Scotland will be sufficient without any of the usual preliminaries being gone through in Ceylon by the party who produces such certificate, but section 30 (2) of the Marriage Registration ordinance (Chapter 95) does not relieve the party to such marriage who is resident in Ceylon of the duty to comply with the provisions of that Ordinance which require the giving of notice of marriage, the making of a declaration in such notice, and the production of a certificate of notice of marriage.

Foreign Marriages

Notices of marriages intended to be solemnised under the Foreign Marriage Act, 1892", where one of the parties is resident in Ceylon, are regulated by the Foreign Marriage Ordinance (Chapter 100) . Notice of a marriage intended to be solemnised under this Act may be given to the Registrar-General or the Assistant Registrar-General by one of the parties intending such marriage who has resided in some place in Ceylon for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding the giving of such notice, or to the District Registrar in whose territorial division he or she has been residing.

Every such notice must be in the prescribed form, bear a stamp of Rs. 10 and be signed by the party giving notice, in the presence of the Registrar-General, or the Assistant Registrar-General, or District Registrar, or Registrar, or a Justice of the Peace, or a Notary Public and of two credible witnesses.

At any time not less than 14 days nor more than three months from the receipt of such notice, upon the application of the party giving notice and unless there is any impediment or objection, a certificate of such notice will be issued.

A marriage under the " Foreign Marriage Act 1892 ", between persons either of whom is under the age of sixteen years is void—(see " The Age of Marriage Act, 1929 ").

For the registration of a birth after 12 months a declaration bearing a stamp of Rs. 5 should be made before the Registrar-General, District Registrar, a justice of the Peace, President, Rural Court, or a Commissioner of Oaths, and the Registrar-General's authority obtained.

In case a birth has been registered and no name entered, the name subsequently given to the child may be registered or when it is necessary to add to or alter a name such addition or alteration may be made, after due inquiry, and upon an application to the Registrar General or the District Registrar by a parent or legal guardian in the case of a person under 21 years of age and by the person himself if he is over 21 years in which case the declaration should be countersigned by one of his parents or former guardian. Such applications should be signed upon a duly stamped declaration in prescribed form before a District Registrar or a justice of the Peace. When such person is in ports beyond the Island, the declaration may be made before any Diplomatic Consular or Trade Representative, of Ceylon, a British Consul, or a Commissioner of Oaths and the amount of stamp duty remitted to the Registrar General or the District Registrar. The stamps required for such declaration is of the value of Re. xi- if two years have not elapsed from the date of registration, and of the value of Rs. 5/— if more than 2 years had elapsed.

Every birth or still-birth in a town proclaimed under Section 40 of the Births and Deaths Registration Act No. r q of 1951 should be notified to the Medical Officer of Health of the area in which the event occurred within 24 hours of its occurrence by the father, or any person in attendance upon the mother at the time of or within 6 hours after the occurrence. This notification is in addition to, and not in substitution for the usual information to be given within 42 days.
Births on estates should be reported within 48 hours of the receipt of the information by the Superintendent of the estate to the Medical Officer appointed under "The Medical Wants Ordinance" who shall transmit the report forthwith to the District Registrar.

A Registrar may upon reasonable doubt refuse to certify the legitimacy of a child in the register, and may call for proof of parents' marriage.

A Registrar is not entitled to any fee from the public for registering a birth.

Deaths

It is the duty of the nearest relatives present at the death or in attendance during the last illness of the deceased, and in default of such relatives of every other relative of the deceased dwelling or being in the same division as the deceased and, in default of such relatives, of such person present at the death, and of the Occupier of the house in which it occurs, and, in default of the persons above-mentioned, of any inmate of the house and of the person causing the body to be buried, to give within five days of the death, information to the Registrar.

In case a death occurs in a place which is not a house or a dead body is found elsewhere than in a house, it is the duty of every relative of the deceased person having knowledge of any of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death and, in default of such relative, of any person present at the death and of any person finding, and of any person taking charge of the body, and of the person causing the body to be buried, to give information to the Registrar within five days next after the death or the finding of the dead body. A Registrar is not entitled to any fee from the public for registering a death.

Superintendents of estates must within 48 hours of the receipt of the information report all deaths on estates to the nearest Medical Officer appointed under the "Medical Wants Ordinance."

In the principal towns in which the special provisions for the registration of deaths have been brought into operation, no dead body or still-born child can be buried or cremated unless a certificate has been obtained from the Registrar, or from a Police Officer or headman, or from the Medical Practitioners or (in the case of death where an inquest has been held) from an Inquirer. It is an offence to remove the body of a person who died in such town without a permit from the Municipality, the Assistant Government Agent or the Magistrate.

Miscellaneous

Failure to report a birth or death within the prescribed time—which in the case of a birth is 42 days and of a death five days—is a punishable offence.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BODIES

TVIE Municipal Councils Ordinance, No. 29 of 1947; which was brought into operation from August 15, 1947, repealed the earlier Municipal Councils Ordinance, the Colombo Municipal Council (Constitution) Ordinance, and all Ordinances passed in amendment thereof. Councillors are elected in accordance with the provisions of the Local Authorities Elections Ordinance, No 53 of 1946. The Mayor is elected from among the Councilors and is not a Civil Servant as formerly. Till the end of 1948 the only Municipal Councils were those of Colombo, Kandy and Galle. From January 1, 1949, the three Urban Councils of Jaffna, Nuwara Eliya and Kurunegala were converted into Municipalities; and from January 1, 1950, Negombo too achieved municipal status.

Until the end of 1932 in eleven of the towns other than Municipalities there were Urban District Councils with elected Chairmen, two-thirds of the members being elected by the ratepayers and one-third being nominated by the Governor. (Of these Urban Councils two were converted into municipalities from January 1, 1949 and another from January 1, 1950.) On the recommendation of the then Executive Committee of Local Administration, 16 more Urban Councils were established from January 1, 1933, and five of the Local Boards of Health and Improvement. Five of the small towns previously administered by Sanitary Boards, and one in place of the Board of Improvement of Nuwara Eliya. (The Nuwara Eliya Urban Council was granted Municipal status from 1949). Thirteen more Sanitary Board Towns were converted into Urban Councils as from January 1, 1945, and another from January 1, 1947. A part of a Village Committee area was also converted into an Urban Council from January 1, 1948. These Councils are now known as Urban Councils and not as Urban District Councils, and since January 1, 1940, are being administered under the Urban Councils Ordinance; No. 61 of 1939. There are now 36 Urban Councils.

Groups of smaller towns known as Sanitary Board Towns were administered by sanitary boards of various districts until the abolition of this system of administration with effect from December 31, 1946. These towns were either converted into Urban Councils, Town Councils or brought under the jurisdiction of Village Committees.

A new Ordinance, the Town Councils Ordinance, No. 3 of 1946, was enacted and a new form of Local Body was established with effect from January 1, 1947. 24 Town Councils were constituted, 20 of which, prior to January 1, 1947 formed 21 Sanitary Board Towns. Parts of 2 Village Committee areas were converted into 2 Town Councils while a section of an Urban Council formed another Town Council. 5 Town Councils were constituted for parts of Village Committee areas with effect from January 1, 1949, another four with effect from January 1, 1950, and one with effect from April 1, 1951. Two more Town Councils were constituted for parts of Village Coramittee areas with effect from January 1, 1952. Two Town Councils were constituted in place of an existing Town Council comprising the existing Town Council area and part of an adjacent Village Committee area with effect from January 1, 1953. A Town Council was constituted from 1-7-53 bringing the total number of Town Councils to 38.

In the rural areas, there are Village Committees for groups of villages.

Two Sanitary Board towns reverted to Village Committee Jurisdiction as from January 1, 1946 and 14 as from January 1, 1947. (34 such towns were reverted to Village Committee Jurisdiction during 1944 and 1945.)

Local Govt. Service Commission

An Ordinance to make provision for the establishment and incorporation of a body of persons to be known as the Local Government Service Commission, for the constitution and regulation of a Local Government Service, and for other matters connected therewith or incidental thereto, was passed and came into operation from 10th December, 1945.

The unified Local Government Service was constituted from 1st April, 1946 consisting of those officers and servants of Municipal Councils, Urban Councils, Town Councils, Sanitary Boards, Village Committees and Road Committees. In all about 12,500 employees came within the purview of the Commission. By Ordinance No. 37 of 1947, all daily-paid employees and those monthly paid employees on a scale the maximum of which did not exceed Rs. 1200 per annum in the case of Municipal Councils and Urban Councils and Rs. 480 per annum in the case of other Local Bodies, ceased to be members of the Local Government Service and were transferred with effect from 15th July 1947 to the Local Authority in which they were serving. The members of the Service are employees of the Commission which is the Central Authority for making appointments, promotions, transfers, etc.

The Local Government Service Regulations made by the Commission under Section 57 of the Local Government Service Ordinance, No. 43 of 1945, were duly published and came into operation from 4th July 1947 (vide Government Gazette No. 9729 of 4-7-47). These Regulations lay down the procedure regarding recruitment, appointments, promotions, transfers, resignations, retirements, disciplinary procedure, interdiction, confidential reports, etc. The first Local Government Service Salaries Schemes applicable to the members of the Service in the various Local Bodies were brought into operation with effect from the undermentioned dates:—

Urban Councils, Town Councils, Road Committees and Village Committees

Municipal Council, Galle 1947
Municipal Council, Kandy 1948
Municipal Council, Colombo 1949

The above Salaries Scheme was revised and a comprehensive Salaries Scheme incorporating recruitment, Service promotions, transferring Schemes and professional, academic and technical qualifications was adopted by the Commission in November 1955.

Recruitment to the various grades of the Unified Local Government Clerical Service and to posts in the Technical Grades in the Local Govern-merit Service is made through competitive examinations. The following examinations are held annually:

- Examination for promotion to the Local Government Clerical Service Grade II (Executive Clerical Class).
- Local Government General Clerical Class Examination.
- Local Government Assistant Clerks’ Examination.
- Examination for recruitment of Secretaries Grade IV, Urban Councils and Town Councils.
- Examination for recruitment of Secretaries Grade II, Village Committees.
- Village Committee Clerical Service Grade I Examination.
- Village Committee Clerical Service Grade II Examination.
- Local Government (English) Stenographers (Lower Grade) Examination.
- Local Government (Sinhalese) Stenographers’ (Lower Grade) Examination.
- Local Government Electrical Superintendents’ Grade III Examination.
- Local Government Electrical Forenien’s Grade II Examination.

The Commission also holds Efficiency Bar Examinations and Tests annually for officers in the various clerical and technical grades in the Local Government Service.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT SERVICE PENSION SCHEME

Provision was made by Section 12 of the Local Government Service Amendment Act, No. 8 of 1949, for the Commission to establish and regulate a Pension Scheme for those members of the Service who were contributors to the Provident Fund. Accordingly a Scheme generally based on the Government Minutes on Pensions was formulated by the Commission and approved by the Senate and the House of Representatives, and was brought into force with effect from 1-8-1952. It may be mentioned that before the Local Government Service was established no officer in a Village Committee enjoyed pensions rights and only a few Village Committees had a Provident Fund.

L. G. S. PROVIDENT FUND.

A Provident Fund Scheme is maintained for female and temporary employees of the Local Government Service. The member contributes 5% of his or her salary with the Local Authority contributing 74%.

L. G. S. WIDOWS’ AND ORPHANS’ PENSION FUND

None of the Local Authorities had Schemes for the payment of pensions to widows and children of their employees in the event of their death whilst in the service or after retirement. After the constitution of the Local Government Service in April 1946, provision was made in the Local Government Service Amendment Act, No. 8 of 1949, for the establishment of a Widows’ and Orphans’ Pension Fund for the payment of pensions to widows and children of the Members of the Local Government Service.

A Scheme for the grant of pension was accordingly drawn up after actuarial investigation into the Mortality Statistics of the Local Government Service employees by the Government actuary in London.

The Local Government Service Widows’ and Orphans’ Pension Fund regulations were approved by the Senate and the House of Representatives and brought into force with effect from 1.8.1952.

Under this Scheme, each member will make a contribution of 4 per cent of his salary and the Local Authority will contribute 3 per cent of the officer’s salary to a separate fund. The membership of the Fund will be compulsory to all entrants to the Local Government Service after 1.8.1952. The existing pensionable officers will have the concession of commencing their contributions from a period of five years prior to the date of the establishment of the Fund thus giving them an opportunity of making up for the time lost in bringing the Fund into operation. The scheme of payment of pension has been based generally on the Government W. & O. P. Scheme.

Village Committees

Village Committees were established by the Ordinance No. 26 of 1871 during the Government of Sir Hercules Robinson (afterwards Lord Rosemead).

The principal Ordinance under which these are now worked is the Village Communities Ordinance (Chapter 198), Village Committees are now vested with powers approximating to those of Urban Councils.

The Village Communities Ordinance has been amended by Ordinances Nos. be and br of 1938; 11.24 and 31 of 1940; 11 and 50 of 1941, 54 of 1942, 58 of 1943; 44 of 1944; 12 and 13 of 1945; 17 of 1947; Act. Nos. 39 of 1951 and 8 of 1952. Some of the important changes effected by these amending Ordinances are the Constitution of Village Committees as corporate bodies with perpetual succession and power to hold property, the taxation of land, the restriction of the franchise to people domiciled in Ceylon and the conversion of certain small towns administered under the Small Towns Sanitary Ordinance, to V.C. jurisdiction. Act No. 8 of 1952 removed some of the limitations and provided enlarged powers to the Village Committees.

A village area is sub-divided into wards and each ward elects a member of the Village Committee and the members thus elected, elect their own Chairman and Vice-Chairman. There are now 403 Village Committees in the island.

Subscription Charges

In Colombo Message Rate Charges are in force, under which a subscriber pays an annual or monthly rental for the installation and a fee of to cents for each local call originated at such installation. There are two different rates viz., Business and Non-Business, which are uniform throughout the City irrespective of the distance from the Exchange. An installation charge is payable on each new connection Rs. 0/- on a business connection and Rs. 50/- on a non-business connection.

At other places the rental is an inclusive charge (flat rate), based on the radial distance from the Exchange, covering an unlimited number of free local calls during the working hours of the Exchange. An installation charge of Rs. 30/- is payable on each new connection.

Wireless Licences

The following are among the rules made under Section 12 of the Telecommunications Ordinance, No. 50 of 1944.

No person shall import for private use, install, establish, maintain, possess or work any wireless telegraph station or apparatus in any place in Ceylon or on board any British ship registered in Ceylon, unless such person has applied for and obtained a licence in that behalf from the Postmaster-General.

Provided that where wireless telegraph apparatus forms part of the personal baggage of a person arriving in Ceylon, it shall be lawful for the Customs authorities at the port of importation to grant a licence to import such apparatus subject to a declaration being made by the importer in a form which they will supply.
Provided further that where any person imports or has in his possession wireless telegraph apparatus which in good faith he does not intend to use he shall immediately report the fact to the Postmaster-General, who on being satisfied that the issue of a licence for the time being can reasonably be withheld, may grant permission in writing for such importation or possession without any charge being made therefore for a period not exceeding six months, the permission being renewable for further periods at the discretion of the Postmaster-General.

Any person desirous of obtaining a licence for broadcast listening-in shall apply to any of the principal Post Offices in Ceylon in the prescribed form, and every such application shall have affixed to it stamps to the value of fifteen rupees, in ten or five rupee stamps.

The Postmaster-General may, however, grant free of stamp duty broadcast listening licences to persons certified to be blind by a Government Medical Officer, and in respect of apparatus intended for the use of the inmates of hospitals and other similar institutions maintained for the relief of suffering, to the person in charge of the hospital or institution.

No person shall import for trade purposes or sell any apparatus for wireless telegraphy, unless such person has applied for and obtained a licence in that behalf from the Postmaster-General. Any person desirous of obtaining a licence for such importation or sale shall apply to the Postmaster-General in the prescribed form, and every such application shall have affixed to it stamps to the value of thirty rupees, in five rupee stamps.

DURATION OF LICENCES AND THEIR RENEWAL

All licences issued under these rules shall be for 12 months only dating from the date of issue, excepting broadcast listening-in licences which shall be for twelve months from the date of installation of Wireless Telegraphy Apparatus for broadcast listening-in. Applications for renewal shall be made on Form E (to be obtained from the Postmaster-General on application) in the case of traders' licences to the Postmaster-General. In the case of Broadcast listeners' licences, application for renewal may be made at any of the principal Post Offices in the Island, on form AI to be obtained from such offices. Applications for renewal shall be made in all cases within 54 days of the expiration of the licences, and shall be accompanied by the expired licence forms. All renewal licences shall be for a period of twelve months from the day following the last day of the expired licence.

The fee for and in respect of all licences for broadcast listening-in shall be fifteen rupees per annum in respect of each station licence, and shall be paid by postage stamps affixed to the application form.

RECEIVING POST OFFICES IN CEYLON
Broadcasting in Ceylon

On the 1st of October, 1949, all broadcasting services were centralized, and Radio Ceylon was placed under the control of a Director General of Broadcasting who is responsible to the Minister of Posts and Broadcasting. Broadcasting programmes are on the air daily under two distinct services:--

(a) National Service
(b) Commercial Service

Programmes of the National Service fall under five distinct services
(i) Western Service for English speaking listeners
(ii) Sinhalese Service for Sinhalese speaking listeners
(iii) Tamil Service for Tamil speaking listeners
(iv) Educational Service for all schools in the Island
(v) Rural programmes for rural folks in Sinhalese and Tamil speaking areas.

Educational Service programmes are broadcast in English, Sinhalese and Tamil. The Lesson Notes and Guides to Teachers on programmes each term are published in all three languages to enable teachers to make the best use of broadcasts. Wall Charts containing full details of programmes are also issued to schools in advance.

Broadcasting is carried out in the National Service in accordance with schedules which are approved each quarter. All schedules seek to effect a harmonious blend of the three well known components of broadcasting—entertainment, education and information. Particulars of broadcasting hours each quarter are published in the Ceylon Radio Times.

CEYLON RADIO TIMES—The Journal of Radio Ceylon is published fortnightly.
TARANGINI—The Sinhalese Journal of Radio Ceylon is published monthly.

Licence Holders

The total number of licence holders at end of November, 1956 was 158,560 as compared with 122,860 at end of December, 1955.

Where a message contains matter which can be so construed, the Director General of Broadcasting or officer authorised by him in that behalf may delete such matter from the message before it is broadcast. The decision of the Director General of Broadcasting or of such officer as to what constitutes extraneous matter shall be final.

Every passenger who pays excess fare should demand and at once receive a receipt for the amount paid.

All claims for refund of excess charges must be made within six days of the date of payment, otherwise they may not be entertained. Claims should be addressed to the Commercial Superintendent, Colombo, and may be written on forms which can be had free of charge from any Station Master. Season ticket holders are required to have their tickets with them when travelling, and to show them when required to do so by a Railway official otherwise they will be liable for payment of the penalty prescribed.

Season ticket holders travelling in a higher class than that for which the season ticket is made out, without having paid the excess fare due, or without having informed the guard, are liable to prosecution.

Any season ticket found in use after the second day of issue without being signed or name written upon will be forfeited. Any person found travelling with an expired season ticket after two days beyond the date of expiry of the ticket will be liable to prosecution.

Season tickets will be issued only to those who make a written application for them. Monthly suburban zone tickets will continue to be issued to Fort and Maradana only from suburban stations.

Where restaurant cars are run over other sections of the Railway, second class passengers are allowed 30 minutes for the purpose of obtaining and consuming refreshments in restaurant cars and, after the expiry of the above time, must leave them at the first station the train stops.

First class passengers may also be required to leave restaurant cars in accordance with the table shown above to make room for other passengers.

Passengers holding second class tickets who may desire to travel in the restaurant cars for a longer distance than stated above may be allowed to do so only if the seats occupied by them are not required by any other passengers, and then only on prepayment of the difference between the second and first class fare to the end of the next section.

Passengers paying excess fare are requested to see that they obtain a receipt on a printed Railway form giving particulars of the fare paid from the officer to whom the payment is made, and it shall be the duty of such officer to give the receipt on demand.

Passengers are not allowed to put their feet on the seats of the cars.

Under no circumstances shall dogs be brought into the cars. As the accommodation is limited, packages of luggage, etc., cannot be taken into the cars, but must be placed in the guard's van in the usual manner.

Smoking is prohibited when ladies are present (unless their consent has previously been obtained) or when passengers are taking meals. Smokers are requested to bear in mind that passengers often prefer to acquiesce in a request for permission to smoke to their discomfort rather than appear disobliging.

TRANSPORT SYSTEM IN CEYLON

Introduction—"It will be agreed by most people that all industrial effort should have as its ultimate object the increase of the real wealth of the nation, and the improvement of the standard of living of its people. In these difficult days, when both are in serious danger, and when the utmost effort is the least that can be expected of all patriotic citizens, transport in all its forms, has a vital part to play, and, Therefore, an important duty rests on all those who have any voice in the control of transport so to organise and conduct the forces of this great industry with the maximum benefit to the nation as a whole ". (Paper by D. M. Sinclair, m.rnst.T., General Manager, Birmingham and Midland Motor Omnibus Co. Ltd.).

The necessity for a good and efficient system of transport is now outside the sphere of argument in modern countries. The need for such a system of transport in the development of a nation cannot be over emphasised. It has been said that "Every country pays for the transport that it has not got ". In the pre-war period, ours was mainly an agricultural export economy. The standard of living of the people was low. The economy must be diversified, new industries must be established and agriculture must be developed to make the country self-sufficient as far as possible if the wealth of the country is to be increased and the people are to be assured of a reasonably satisfactory standard of living. The provision of cheap and efficient transport facilities would be necessary for this purpose. Transport would, therefore, play a vital part in the economy of the country and plans for transport should have first priority over other plans since the success of the latter depend, to a great extent, upon the efficiency of the transport system.

In the past Ceylon had been fortunate in this respect., The country is provided with a sufficiently adequate and a reasonably efficient system of transport. More transport, no doubt, might become necessary with the agricultural and industrial development in the future. The transport system has been reviewed by many Commissions and individuals, and Government has, from time to time, taken steps to improve the transport system of the island. The first major Commission appointed was what was popularly known as the Glower Commission. This went into an exhausting inquiry into the working of the Railway and issued its report as Sessional papers XI and XII of 1920. In 1925 another Commission was appointed to assist the Government to formulate a policy in encouraging the economic development of the island by roads, railways and waterways ". In 1937, a special Commission led by Brigadier-General F.D. Hammond was appointed with particular reference to the railway. Mr. Nelson was engaged in 1942 to re-organise the transport system of the island. In September 1948 Mr. D. R. Rutnam, o.B.E., was commissioned to report on the transport conditions of Ceylon and his report was published in July 1949. The present Motor Traffic Act No. 14 of 1951 is based on the recommendation of Mr. Rutnam. Fundamental changes to the Act as far as omnibus services are concerned were recommended by the Commission on Omnibus Services appointed on 1st April, 1954, with Colonel Waldo Sansoni as Chairman. The report of the Commission was published as Sessional Paper of 1955.

With the change of Government in April, 1956, it has been the declared policy of the New Government to nationalise all regular omnibus transport in the Island. With the object of collecting the preliminary data required for the formulation of Nationalisation plans and to carry out a survey of the methods adopted and facilities provided by State Transport Undertakings, a team of officers consisting of the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Transport and Works, the Commissioner of Motor Traffic, The General Manager of Railways, the Controller of Establishments and an Accountant visited the State Transport Organisations in Madras, Hyderabad and Bombay. Their report was published as Sessional Paper XIII of 1956.

Railway Transport

Excluding the Jaffna Peninsula, the bulk of the commerce and agriculture of the country is confined to the area Chilaw—Nalanda—Bibile—Wellawaya —Bentota with a narrow coastal strip extending from Bentota to Tangalle.
In addition to the foregoing area there are the requirements of the great naval port of Trincomalee and the agricultural settlements that have arisen between Maho and Trincomalee. There has also been considerable agricultural development around Batticaloa and further south. The Jaffna Peninsula is densely populated by a vigorous population that had developed it considerably. The railway system was built to meet these needs and falls naturally into two groups (a) railways serving at country and (b) railways serving the central hilly portion of the island which produces its tea and some of its rubber.

Under (a) there are the following broad gauge lines:—

1. The Coast Line from Colombo to Galle and Matara.
2. The line from Colombo to Polgahawela and then on north to Jaffna & Kankesanturai, with a branch from Madawachchiya to Talaimannar, connecting with the Indian Mainland.
3. The line north of Colombo from Ragama through Negombo to Bangadertiya, which is north of Chilaw.
4. The two railway lines from Maho to Trincomalee and Batticaloa, which bifurcate at Gal-Oya.

There is also the Kelani Valley Line with a narrow 2' 6" gauge from Colombo to Opanaie through Avissawella and Ratnapura.

Under (b) we have the portion of the Main Line beyond Polgahawela to Badulla; a branch line goes from Peradeniya to Matale. The total route mileage is 898. Broad Gauge 811 miles and Narrow Gauge 87 miles.

The total capital expenditure on the railways up to the end of 1955-56 is Rs. 330,387,909. The Railway is being run at a loss in the post-war period. The excess of expenditure over revenue during 1954-55 and 1955-56 was 9.3 and 10.7 million rupees respectively. In 1955-56 the Railway income was distributed as follows:—

The latest figures show that about 96% of those who travel by train are 3rd Class passengers. The number of passengers carried which showed a gradual increase since 1865 fell from 1929 till it reached the low level of 9.4 million passengers and 160,649 Season ticket holders in 1935/36. Subsequently traffic increased and reached the maximum of 27.9 million passengers and 534,825 Season ticket holders in 1951/52.

During 1954/55 and 1955/56, the number of passengers carried were 18.8 millions and 451,626 Season ticket holders and 19.7 million passengers and 466,044 Season ticket holders respectively. The number of passengers now carried by the railway is about 84% more than in 1938/39. The rate of fare for passenger mile is as follows:—

The railway carried in 1934/55 about r.6 million tons. In 1955156 the tonnage was 1.61 million tons. The amount of goods carried in 1956 is 77.8% greater than the amount carried in 1937/38. Yet, it is about 80 thousand tons less than the tonnage carried during 1944/45 when the Railway carried the highest tonnage in its history, namely, 1.69 million tons. The amount carried is, however, more than the amounts carried in the years...
1925/30 when road transport was in its infancy. Since then there has been a large increase in the production and wealth of the country and the amount of goods transported, but practically all this increase has accrued to the road while the railway has made only slight gains.

The potential carrying capacity of the Railway is far greater than the volume of goods transported at present with the increase in economic activity in the country and the provision of more rolling stock, the Railway expects to carry a greater tonnage of freight in future years. In the meantime, the Motor Traffic Act No. 54 of 1951, reserves for the railway long distance carriage subject to certain exceptions in order to enable the railway to be worked economically. The railway plays an essential part in the economy of the country.

(a) it costs less on imported materials than road transport for the same amount of transport;
(b) it carries the suburban peak-hour traffic and low-priced goods which road transport would not be able to handle and
(c) with the agricultural development of the dry zone and the industrial development of the country, the railway would provide the chief means of transport in these areas.

Motor Transport

Motor transport in Ceylon is placed in a particularly favourable position for the following reasons, (a) The bulk of commerce and agriculture of the country is confined to a small area, and this area covers just over a quarter of the island. Distances within this area are comparatively short. (b) The export products such as tea, rubber and coconuts, which have to be transported are high priced articles and can stand, a comparatively high rate of freight. Imports are also of a similar nature. (c) The main centres of production are closer to Colombo by road than by rail and (d) Traffic in Ceylon does not move in such bulk as to make rail transport more economic than road transport.

For these reasons the development of motor transport has been very rapid and today it would be correct to say that the chief means of transport in the island is motor transport.

(a) Motor Cars

The first motor car was brought to Ceylon in February 1902. At the end of 1911 there were only 745 motor vehicles in Ceylon. Since then, the number of motor vehicles has been increasing at a rapid rate except for two short periods, namely 1931-1934, the period of the great depression, and 1941-1945 the period of the second world war.

The number of motor vehicles on the registers at the end of September 1956 classified according to the different classes is given below :

With a population of about 8.6 million, Ceylon has a motor vehicle for every 8 people.

(b) Road Passenger Transport

Prior to the introduction of Ordinance No. 45 of 1938, serious results had arisen from uncontrolled omnibus competition. The Hammond Commission which was appointed to investigate into this state of affairs recommended a central authority for the issue of licences for buses.

Under Ordinance No. 45 of 1938 licences were issued by the Commissioner of Motor Transport. Buses were licensed for specified routes and had to run according to approved time-tables. New licences were issued where the services were inadequate. The defect in this system was that full use was not made of available vehicles and capacity. The transporters ran their buses at fixed times even if there was not sufficient load for the vehicles. The same services could have been run with fewer vehicles.
Ordinance No. 47 of 1942 was brought into operation to rationalise the road transport industry and to prevent wasteful and uneconomic running. Each operator who is given a licence to operate on the main route is also given licences to operate on the other routes and the subsidiary routes. Licences are issued for periods of one or two years and are renewed when they expire if the services of the operator had been satisfactory.

During 1956, 28 new Stage Carriage Permits to provide 12o regular bus services and 10 hiring car services were issued.

The number of vehicles owned by the regular operators of omnibus services varies from 2 to 420. In addition, there are 136 operators of occasional bus services who provide special services for occasional tours, etc.

Number of buses licensed for the year 1956 is 3,024.

Bus services cover all parts of the island. Most of the towns are connected by bus services. These services also run to the remotest parts of the island connecting villages and towns in various parts. Fundamental defects in the monopoly system, on which basis the omnibus services in the Island have been organised, are now becoming apparent and have been highlighted in the Omnibus Commission Report.

In addition to the regular services, special services are operated both by the regular operators as well as the 136 occasional operators mentioned above.

Fares—At present the fare per passenger mile varies from 3 to 5 cents according to the nature of the roads, availability of traffic and economy of operation. Cab services are allowed fares varying from 7+ to 90 cents per passenger mile. Operators find it difficult, in spite of the large economies realised through rationalisation under the monopoly system, to operate their services economically at present fares owing to the large increase in the costs of operation. The expenditure of bus companies can be divided into two categories. (a) Fixed charges §t periodical expenditure including renewals. (b) Expenditure connected with daily operation. The first category includes cost of new chassis, building new bus bodies, spare parts, establishment charges etc.

The present system of organisation of road passenger service avoids unhealthy competition with the Railway. A large number of long distance road passenger transport services which were running in competition with the Railway was eliminated when Ordinance No. 47 of 1942 came into operation. There are a few companies providing services on long distance routes parallel to the Railway. Even in these cases any increase in the number of trips would not be permitted unless there is a need for such trips.

The system is not free from defects. The units operating transport services are not all of the optimum size. There are a large number of uneconomic units which will have to be eliminated through amalgamation.

Motor Lorries are garaged in various parts of the island. All parts of the island except for areas in N.C.P., Eastern Province and Mannar and Vavuniya districts are adequately served by lorries. The above areas are now being developed and in course of time additional lorries will be allowed for these areas. A large number of these lorries are licensed to ply also on long distance routes running parallel to the Railway.

Owing to the increase of production there has been a large increase in the number of lorries in the post war period. There were about 4,500 lorries in the island before the war. Today there are about 17,435 lorries. Most of the lorries allowed in the post war period were only allowed local areas so that they may not compete with the Railway. The issue of licences for lorries is governed by the Motor Traffic Act No. 14 of 1951. Carriers'Permits are divided into two classes, namely, Private Carriers' Permits and Public Carriers' Permits. A Private Carriers' Permit is issued to any person who bona fide requires the use of the Lorry for or in connection with any trade or business carried on by him or for any other purpose of a private character. Applications for Public Carriers' Permits are published in the Gazette. Objections can be made by any person providing transport facilities in the area applied for. In deciding such applications, the Commissioner shall have regard to the adequacy and suitability of all existing facilities. Long distance carriage in competition with the railway is prohibited in both cases except in exceptional cases and in the case of transport of perishable and fragile articles.
The vehicles including vehicles belonging to the Government on an estimate carry about 4.5 million tons a year. Even on long distance routes road transport carries 25 per cent. more goods than the Railway. The average rate is about ets. 30 per ton mile on long distance routes. The rate increases when the distance is shorter.

THE MOTOR TRAFFIC ACT

A new act entitled "the Motor Traffic Act" came into operation on 1.9.5r. The main new features of the Act are as follows:

(I) Road Passenger Transport

(a) Licences will be issued up to a maximum period of 10 years. Before the Act came into operation, licences were issued up to a maximum period of 2 years only. The longer period will give greater security to the operators who will therefore invest more capital and put on the roads more new buses.

(b) Buses will be registered in the names of Co-operative Societies and bona fide tourist companies to provide occasional services.

(c) The system of exclusive road service licences is being continued. But provision is made for a number of exceptions.

1. Different operators can provide services on the same section of a highway within an urban area and (II) where the services provided by an operator are insufficient and if he fails to provide adequate services after being ordered to do so, other companies can be issued licences to provide services on the same routes.

(d) Bus companies will be compelled to provide adequate depreciation so that old buses may be replaced by new ones.

(e) Co-operative Societies will be given preference, other things being equal, in the case of licences for routes which are not trunk routes and which serve local needs.

(f) In addition to the power of revocation and suspension, the Commissioner is also given the power to fine operators for breaches of conditions.

(g) Before the expiry of 3 years from the coming into operation of the New Act, all operators should become public companies whose memorandum and articles of association are approved by the Government.

(h) Government may acquire either by negotiation or compulsorily shares in the companies up to a maximum of 45% of the issued share capital. Local authorities will be given a certain portion of these shares.

(i) Operators can be compelled to amalgamate where necessary.

(j) Schools, public bodies, firms etc. will be issued licences for private coaches to carry school children, employees etc.

(2) Goods Carriage by Road

(a) Licences will be classified as public and private.

(b) Private licences will be issued on evidence of bona fide work irrespective of the existence of transport facilities.

(c) No licence, private or hiring, will be issued to any lorry to ply on a route which is served by the railway and where the distance is more than 60 miles.

(d) Exceptions to the above prohibition are provided in the following cases:

(i) For the carriage of fresh fish, vegetables, and other perishable or fragile articles.

(ii) On the ground of strong economic justification.

(iii) In the case of Government vehicles and

(iv) In the case of present operators till December, 1957.

(3) Driving Licences

(a) Driving Licences are to be issued for life but can be cancelled on conviction for rash or negligent driving.
(4) Use of Motor Vehicles on Highways: A new Highway Code incorporating the most up-to-date and recent rules of the road has been published.

(5) Commercial vehicles which are not mechanically fit are to be inspected and prohibited from use.

(6) To prevent duplication and wastage, there is to be a greater measure of co-ordination between road transport and other forms of commercial transport. One of the functions of the Commissioner is to recommend measures of such co-ordination to the Minister who will take steps to implement the recommendations.

Canals and Waterways

There are few waterways which can be used for commercial transport over any appreciable distance. But we have a lengthy canal system left to us by the Dutch extending 109.82 miles from Puttalam as far south as Galpotta on the Kalu Ganga. This continuous system of inland navigation makes full use of lakes and lagoons and streams in addition to cut canals.

The canals are not suitable for use by power driven boats. The canal banks have earth slopes and are unprotected except for short lengths. The whole system is restricted and the type of transport permissible on the waterways is confined to slow moving boats towed by men along tow paths of canal banks for most of the way. The depth of canals varies and in many places it is only 31 feet.

The waterway system is owned by the Government of Ceylon. Toll charges are levied. Tenders are invited from the Public for the right to levy toll charges. Rates are fixed by Government. No new construction is contemplated. All maintenance work is carried out by the Ceylon Government.

The upkeep of the inland water transport system forms part of the duties of the Public Works Department, Ceylon. The collection of rents is carried out by the Government Agents or their assistants who are also Revenue Officers.

The canal system is suffering from considerable neglect. It performed no doubt, a useful function before the advent of railways and mechanical road transport. It does not play now an important part in Ceylon's national economy, the reason being that it is out of date and not in a position to compete with other speedier and more economical forms of transport. In this island we do not have cheap commodities moving in large bulk which would make the canal system economic.

Very little traffic moves along these canals and it is doubtful whether any expenditure in making these canals up to date will be justified at present.

There are about 200 padda-boats and the total tonnage of goods is 9000. The boats carry copra, salt, tiles, sand, timber, etc. by river and canal at a cost of 10 to 15 cents per ton mile.

Port of Colombo

Present facilities: The Western entrance to the harbour is 750 feet wide with a depth of 39 feet, permitting the entry of ships with draughts not exceeding 37 feet. The Northern entrance to the harbour is 600 feet wide, with a depth of 33 feet, permitting the entrance of ships with draughts not over 33 feet. Dredging policy has been keeping pace with the maximum depth of the Suez Canal and Colombo can now berth any ship that can pass through that gateway to the East. The water area of the harbour is 602 acres of which 232 acres are dredged to 36 feet and over, 137 acres to 33 feet to 36 feet, go acres to 30 feet to 33 feet, and 143 acres to less than 30 feet. The harbour contains a Graving Dock and a Guide Pier (So0 feet long) and oil jetties all of which have water up to 33 feet alongside. The Graving Dock is 694 feet long 85 feet wide between main copings, and has a minimum width on the floor of 63 feet. In shore of the main Graving Dock is a small inner Graving Dock, opened for traffic on July 18, 1938. It is 350 feet long and 54 feet wide. There is a Patent Slip situated at the South-West end of the harbour, equipped for the cleaning and repairing of such vessels as cannot be either conveniently or economically dealt within the Graving Dock. It is 800 feet long and the cradle is 220 feet long and 40 feet wide. The Patent Slip is capable of slipping a vessel of r000 tons dead-weight and not exceeding 200 feet in length. The harbour provides buoy anchorages and most of the loading and unloading of ships is done through the use of lighters. There are five main lighterage companies now operating in the Port. They use their lighters but the Shipping Agents nominate their own stevedores for the discharging and loading of cargo. Most of the cargo is manually handled but modern mechanical aids to the expeditious handling of cargo are now being gradually introduced.

In order to modernise the port and provide the most-up-to-date facilities for handling cargo in the East, after calling for tenders, a contract was signed in 1950 with a firm of French Contractors, Messrs. Compagnie Industrielle de Travaux, to construct a scheme of development costing its. 81,000,000f- approximately.

This scheme is composed of four major works—

(a) Prince Vijeya Quay—Which is 124a feet long and provides two berths for cargo ships, each berth provided with a transit shed. The Quay is sufficiently wide to permit surface transport to remove cargo direct from the ship's side and will be rail-served along both the Quay apron as well as behind the sheds. A repository warehouse 300' x 200' is provided at the Eastern end of the Quay. This work has now been completed and the Quay has been opened for full commercial use with effect from 1ith January, 1956.

(b) Oil Dock : The length of the north pier will be 1,278 feet and the South quay (Guide Pier) will be 950 feet. The dock will be dredged to a depth of 36 feet below Low Water ordinary Spring Tide and will be equipped with a floating boom across its entrance, which will prevent in the event of fire, the dangerous spreading of oil or petrol over the rest of the harbour. This dock will accommodate two tankers and will be equipped with pipelines leading to the Oil Depot at Kolonnawa, where the main stocks of the various oil companies are stored. The North Pier was brought into service on 1ith March 1955.

(c) Lengthening of the Guide Pier or South Quay of the Oil Dock : As part of the extensions to the North Pier and South Quay of the Oil Dock, the Guide Pier will have a total length of 1zoo feet and will permit two vessels to berth alongside, instead of one as at present, to receive supplies of fuel oil and fresh water from the pipelines on the quay. It will also be equipped with pipelines for loading ships with bulk coconut oil from the storage tanks at Summerhill, as well as bulk latex from storage tanks to be built nearby.
(d) Delft Pier: This pier, 425 feet wide, will be built on the site of the present Passenger Jetty and will extend as far as the entrance of the Harbour to Lake Canal. Its Eastern face will be 385 feet in length and will provide two berths for large Cargo steamers. Its western face will be 352 feet in length and will provide two further berths for cargo vessels. Each of these berths will be provided with large modern transit sheds. It will be rail served. Facilities will be available for obtaining supplies of fresh water and oil fuel by pipelines. On the western side of the canal entrance will be a small alongside quay 417 feet long, for the small coasters engaged on the Colombo-Tuticorin service.

(e) Queen Elizabeth Quay—The length of this Quay is 3000' and provides berth for four big ships. Each berth will be provided with a transit shed and be rail-served. An up-to-date Passenger Terminal Building is being constructed at the base of this Quay.

This scheme will provide 14 new alongside berths with depths varying from 3r ft. to 36 ft. As a result 2/3rd of the imports of this Island will be discharged directly from ship to quayside. All the quays will be provided with the most modern cargo handling equipment. The additional transit shed and warehouse accommodation provided by this scheme will double the storage accommodation of the port and should eliminate problems of congestion which have from time to time arisen. Colombo will then undoubtedly be one of the most efficient ports in the East.

ROADS OF THE ISLAND

BANKING AND COMMERCE

Shortly after Ceylon became a Crown Colony in 1802, the Government abolished the Cinnamon monopoly which had been established by the Dutch. It was then that Captain James Steuart, the Master Attendant of Colombo made arrangements with Messrs. Arbuthnot & Co., of Madras to buy and ship Ceylon produce drawing against the shipments on Bills of Lading. The Ceylon Chamber of Commerce was established on March 25, 1839, with Joseph Read, a former sea Captain as Chairman. The exports in the year 1839 were valued at £33,966 and the imports at £510,664.

In December, 1841, Governor Sir Colin Campbell applied to the Home Government for permission to increase the issue of paper money from £87,400 to £100,000 on the ground that the former amount was inadequate to the wants of the community; but the Lords of the Treasury refused to give their sanction to any increase of what they regarded as "the floating debt of the Island."

In 1844 a bill was passed extending to private bankers in Ceylon the privilege of issuing paper money on terms which were certainly unduly liberal towards the banks and unjustly unfavourable towards Government and the public.

After this, Government notes, with the advantage of being a legal tender continued to circulate side by side with private bank notes till 1856, when they were finally withdrawn.

Early in 1854 branches of the Mercantile Bank of India, London and China were opened in Colombo and Kandy, and in 1858 this Bank obtained a Charter.

The advance in the issue of paper money in Ceylon after the Government withdrew from the field will be understood from the following contrast: (when the Mercantile Bank commenced and added its notes to those of the Oriental Bank Corporation) the circulation was:

\begin{array}{ccc}
& \text{Oriental Bank notes} & \text{Government notes} \\
& \text{1,000} & \frac{1}{7}\text{coop} \\ \end{array}
\]

In 58841 notes of the two Banks (Rs. 4,573,619) £451,362

Increase in paper money in 30 years £336,362

So that since 1854 the paper money circulation in Ceylon had more than trebled; but the maximum was reached in 1877 when the note circulation had more than quadrupled, the average circulation being £323,002.

The Bank of Madras established a branch in Colombo on 1st July, 1864 and opened an Agency in Kandy on August 19, 1868; but it ceased to exist from January 26, 1921, and was merged in the Imperial Bank of India consisting of the Banks of Madras, Bengal and Bombay, under a Government of India Act, while a Ceylon Ordinance made provision for the transfer to the Imperial Bank of India of the undertaking and property of the Bank of Madras.

On January 2, 1881, the National Bank of India (established in India in 1863) opened a branch in Colombo; on July II, 1892, M Kandy; and on September I, 1892, in Nnwara Eliya.

The Chartered Bank of India, Australia & China had a Mercantile Agency in Colombo for many years, but only opened a regular Branch Agency in July, 1892.

In the same way the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank also established an Agency in Colombo on July t, 1892.

On May 3, 1884, came the greatest event in the history of Ceylon and perhaps of Eastern banks, in the stoppage of the Oriental Bank Corporation, which (by Sir Arthur Gordon) had guaranteed the O.B.C. notes, issued its own notes, and these were in circulation on February 29, 1932, to the amount of Rs. 41,838,902, the average amount of coin in the vault during that month being Rs. 13,662,076.

The issue of the O.B.C. alone for March, 1884, was Rs. 1,652,124 acid the C.M.B. Rs. 921,495—total Rs. 4,573,619.

The issue of the O.B.C. alone for March, 1884, was Rs. 1,652,124 acid the C.M.B. Rs. 921,495—total Rs. 4,573,619.
Next came the voluntary winding up and reconstruction of the Chartered Mercantile Bank, changing its name into "Mercantile Bank of India, Ltd.," from February 1, 1893.

On January 8, 1917, the Bank of Colombo (a purely Ceylonese venture) was opened, but it failed and closed its doors in 1921.

On May 1, 1920, the Eastern Bank, Ltd., opened a branch in Colombo; and on May 3, 1922, the P. & O. Bank opened a branch in Colombo.

In November, 1932, a motion was moved by a Member of the State Council that "A Commission should be appointed to go into the system of Commerce, Banking and Insurance of this island".

The late Sir Sorabji Pochkhanawala, Managing Director of the Central Bank of India, was appointed Chairman, with the late Sir Marcus Fernando and the late Dr. S. C. Paul as the other Commissioners.

The Report of the Commission in which the Commissioners recommended the formation of a State-aided Bank was issued as a Sessional Paper in December, 1934.

The Bank of Ceylon was established under Ordinance 53 of 1938 and commenced business with the public on August 1, 1939. The Capital issued was 30,000 Preference shares of Rs. 50 each and 60,000 Ordinary shares of Rs. 50 each. The total amount received on account of capital is Rs. 4,500,000.

The Balance of Profit and loss Account at September 30, 1956 was Rs. 709,624.

The State Mortgage Bank was started on December 5th, 1931, and on September 30th, 1956, it had lent Rs. 48,602,651.25 on security of 129,771 acres of land including 39,772 acres of Tea, 22,4811 acres of Rubber, 29,2881 acres of coconut, 3,379 acres of paddy, 4,3644 acres other products and 30,49c4 acres of undeveloped land and house property. The loans are financed by Debentures, and the Bank’s Debentures are readily taken up. The nett profit for the year ended 30th September, 1956, was Rs. 168,455.14.

Since the absorption of the P. & O. Bank by the Chartered Bank as from February 1, 1939, there are six Exchange banks, namely: The Mercantile Bank, the National Bank, the Chartered Bank, The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, the Eastern Bank and Grindlays Bank Ltd.

The Bank of Chettinad has local branches, the Indian Overseas Bank in 1946 and the Indian Bank was re-opened in 1948.

One small local bank, serving the planting industry in particular, is the Hatton Bank. It has a good record of successful management and is European-owned.

The banking business of Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son (Bankers) Ltd. was taken over by Grindlays Bank Ltd. towards the end of 1943.

Emigration of Unskilled Indian Labour to Ceylon

Emigration of assisted emigrant labourers from India is regulated by the Indian Emigration Act of 1922 and the Emigration Rules of 1923. Immigration of the same class into Ceylon is governed by the Labour Ordinances Chapters in and 112 and the Regulations made thereunder. Since 1st November, 1949, their entry into Ceylon is also subject to the provisions of the Ceylon Immigrants & Emigrants Act, No. 20 of 1948. (See below) (The Government of India imposed a ban on emigration from India, as from 1st August, 1939).

The officers responsible for the administration of the above laws and rules are

Under the Indian Government

IN INDIA—The Controller-General of Emigration, New Delhi and the Protectors of Emigrants at authorised ports. All assisted labourers should travel via Dhanushkodi and pass the Protector of Emigrants for that port, who is stationed at Mandapam camp. The Controller-General has general charge of the administration of Indian Emigration Laws. The Protectors of Emigrants inspect and pass emigrants and decide the cases of those who claim to be non-emigrants. These officers do not come into direct contact with employers in Ceylon.

IN CEYLON—The Government of India have appointed an Agent in Ceylon, who resides at Kandy, and carries out the duties of his position. These include the inspection of labourers and the conditions of their life in Ceylon and the rendering of reports on the subject to the Government of India. Under Ceylon Ordinance Chapter r11, Clause 8, the Agent has the same powers as the Commissioner of Labour and his officers in regard to the entry into places of employment; inspection of the labourers thereon, and the conditions of their lives and employment.

The High Commissioner for India in Ceylon, Colombo, is also interested in the well being of Indian Estate labourers in Ceylon.

Under the Ceylon Government

IN CEYLON—(i) The Controller of Immigration and Emigration. Indian Estate Labourers are required to be in possession of valid travel documents and visas for entry into and stay in Ceylon.

(ii) The Head of the Labour Department, this being the Commissioner of Labour who is also Chairman of the Board of Indian Immigrant Labour.

It is the duty of the Commissioner to carry out the provisions of all Ordinances relating to Indian immigrant labourers.

The Commissioner assesses and collects the amounts due from employers as contribution to the Immigration Fund, and is in charge of administration of the Fund. In this he is advised by the Board of Indian Immigrant Labour, to which the Minister may appoint any number of persons, not less than nine and not exceeding twelve. Two members of the Board must be selected from among Senators and Members of Parliament.

The Commissioner's office is at Galle Face, Lower Lake Road, Colombo 3.

In India

The Ceylon Emigration Commissioner, appointed by the Ceylon Government, to carry out in India the requirements of the Indim Emigration Act and Rules,
The Ceylon Emigration Commissioner is responsible for the supervision of assisted emigration, the sustenance of labourers after registration and their transport to the Place of Accommodation at Mandapam Camp. The appointment of the Ceylon Emigration Commissioner is at present held by the Ceylon Labour Commissioner.

The duties of the Ceylon Emigration Commissioner now include the operation of the Estates (Group) Scheme in India for the Controller of Exchange and the disbursement of remittances made by Indian estate labourers to their dependants in India; he is also a gazetted authority acting on behalf of the Controller of Immigration and Emigration of the Ministry of External Affairs for the issue of visas on passports of visitors to Ceylon.

The Superintendents of Mandapam and Tataparai Camps are appointed by the Ceylon Government and are responsible for the administration of their respective Camps. The Assistant Ceylon Labour Commissioner, Mandapam Camp, who is appointed an Inspector of Emigration under the Indian Emigration Act and Rules, is responsible to the Ceylon Emigration Commissioner for the transport of labourers from the Camp to the Railway Station nearest the place of employment. All enquiries regarding the nonarrival of labourers' Immigration Certificates, and the card advice regarding despatch should be addressed to the Assistant Ceylon Labour Commissioner, Mandapam Camp.

The Ceylon Labour Commission, by arrangement with the Government of Ceylon, renders to the Ceylon Emigration Commissioner all the assistance needed in regard to the examination of all emigrating labourers applying at its various agencies and the transport of labourers therefrom. In addition it performs certain duties as an Agent in India, for all estates subscribing to the Coast Agency Scheme, and with the approval of the Ceylon Controller of Exchange, makes payments, arranges land transactions, carries out village enquiries and renders every assistance that may be possible.

Administration in Ceylon

THE IMMIGRATION Fund—The fund was established under Chapter III of the Legislative Enactments of Ceylon and is maintained for the following purposes:

(a) The accommodation, subsistence and transportation of Indian immigrant labourers and their reception by the employer who has expressed his willingness to re-employ them.

(b) The payment of any fees or charges imposed by the Government of India in respect of any person emigrating from India.

(c) The repatriation of such labourers and their dependants as provided in the Ordinance.

(d) The salary of the Emigration Commissioner and the emoluments of all persons employed under him for the purpose of supervising and controlling the migration of labourers and the expenses attendant upon such supervision and control.

It is financed by a cess paid by employers, which is fixed from time to time by the Minister of Labour and Social Services. Assessment of the amounts due is made by the Commissioner of Labour and the assessed amounts are collected by him. All correspondence on this subject should be addressed to the Commissioner of Labour.

It is the duty of the employer to forward to the Commissioner of Labour quarterly, a return showing the requisite details of the estate. The return for each quarter of the year must be sent in on or before the last day of the following month, e.g., the return for the 3rd quarter on or before 3rd October, etc.

Factories Ordinances

The Factories Ordinances No. 45 of 1942 and No. 22 of 1946 came into force on the 1st January, 1950.

The main Factories Ordinance of 1942 is based generally on the Factories Act (1937) of Great Britain. It lays down various requirements affecting the safety, health and welfare of persons employed in factories. The Ordinances will be augmented by Regulations and Orders from time to time since special precautions for particular kinds of work or plant may have to be set out in greater detail than in the more general term of the Ordinance.
Firms are required to supply information as to their correct title, address, nature of work undertaken, type of power used and maximum number of workers.

In regard to the definition of "factory", it will be found that section 24 is very comprehensive. A more simple definition of a "factory" as a place where persons are employed in manual labour in the making of any article for gain will be found to cover the great majority of factories. But such a definition does not cover employment in certain premises and doubt would arise as to whether the Ordinance applied.

In some cases it would rest with a Court of Law to decide. Hence to avoid confusion or else Court decisions, the definition of "factory" is made as explicit as possible.

One of the provisions in this section is that premises are not excluded by reason only that they are open premises, (e.g., sawmills). Also the Ordinance applies to premises under the control of Government and Municipal, local or public authorities. Exemption from being a "factory", however, is given in the case of premises wherein only members of the occupiers family are employed—sometimes referred to as a "domestic" factory.

The Safety Part of the Ordinance deals with such matters as the Fencing (or Guarding) of transmission machinery, other machines, and pits or vessels containing scalding, corrosive or poisonous liquids. Other sections cover the sale of new machines, cleaning of machinery in motion, training of young persons on machines, protection of eyes, construction of floors, safe means of access, precautions against gasing, explosions and fire.

It is also necessary to make arrangements for proper maintenance of hoists, lifts, chains, ropes and lifting tackle, cranes and winches, and for examinations by competent persons. Steam boilers, steam and air receivers must also be soundly constructed and have to 'Loa maintained and have to undergo regular examinations.

Notification of accidents causing loss of life or disabling a worker for more than seven days must also be reported. Dangerous occurrences, such as the bursting of a revolting vessel, wheel or grindstone, the collapse of a building or failure of a crane and certain fires and explosions should also be notified whether or not injury results.

The Health sections deal with cleanliness in the workrooms, drainage of floors, prevention of over-crowding of the persons employed, provision and maintenance of adequate ventilation, lighting, temperature and sanitary accommodation.

The use of underground workrooms is only allowed subject to stringent requirements as to conditions. Lifting or moving of excessive loads by young persons is prohibited.

Whenever industrial poisoning or disease from certain substances is discovered by a registered medical practitioner to have arisen from the patient's employment in a factory, a report will be sent to the Chief Inspector of Factories.

Under the Welfare sections, there are requirements regarding wholesome drinking water supply, washing facilities, clothing accommodation, seating and first-aid.

The Employment Part deals with the period of employment of Women and Young Persons under 18 years of age, and the permissible amount of overtime allowed daily, weekly and annually. Weekly and annual holidays must be allowed. Certificates of fitness for work can also be required for young persons.

Other Parts of the Ordinance deal with miscellaneous, legal and administration matters.
Shop and Office Employees Act

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE REGULATION OF EMPLOYMENT, HOURS OF WORK AND REMUNERATION OF PERSONS IN SHOPS AND OFFICES, AND FOR MATTERS CONNECTED THEREWITH OR INCIDENTAL THERETO.

(Date of Assent: March 13, 1954)

Be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and the House of Representatives of Ceylon in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows:

I. This Act may be cited as the Shop and Office Employees (Regulation of Employment and Remuneration) Act. No. 19 of 1954, and shall come into operation on such date as the Minister may appoint by Order published in the Gazette (hereinafter referred to as the "appointed date").

PART I.

Regulation of Hours of Employment in Shops and Offices and Health and Comfort of Employees.

2. (r) The Minister may by Order declare that the provisions of this Part shall apply—
   (a) to shops or to offices in such area or areas, as may be specified in the Order, or
   (b) to all shops or to all offices in Ceylon.

(2) Every Order made under sub-section (1) shall be brought before the Senate and the House of Representatives for approval. Every Order which is so approved shall be published in the Gazette and shall come into force on the date of such publication or on such later date as may be specified in such Order.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in any of the succeeding provisions of this Part, nothing in any such provision shall apply in relation to any shop or office situated in any area or to persons employed in any such shop or office, unless an Order is made as hereinafter provided applying the provisions of his Part to shops in that area, or, as the case may be, to offices in that area.

3. (I) Subject to the provisions of any regulation referred to in sub-section (3), the normal period during which any person may be employed in or about the business of any shop or office—
   (a) on any one day shall not exceed eight hours, and
   (b) in any one week shall not exceed forty-five hours.

   The period referred to in this sub-section shall not include any interval allowed for rest or for a meal under any provision of this Act, or any interruption permitted by any regulation referred to in sub-section (3).

(2) Subject to the provisions of any regulation referred to in sub-section (3), the period during which any person is employed in or about the business of any shop or office shall consist of one continuous period without any interruption other than such interval as may be allowed for rest or for a meal under any provision of this Act.

(3) Regulations may be made—
   (a) prescribing the periods for which persons may be employed overtime in or about the business of any shop or office;
   (b) varying any period mentioned in sub-section (r) or prescribed under paragraph (a) of this sub-section as regards persons employed in or about the business of different classes of shops or offices or persons above or below a specified age or as regards different classes of such persons;
prescribing the conditions subject to which persons may be employed overtime in or about the business of a shop or office;

prescribing the cases and the circumstances in which, and the conditions and restrictions subject to which, the continuity of the period mentioned in sub-section (2) may be interrupted otherwise than by, and in addition to, any interval for rest or a meal;

Provided, however, that no regulation shall be made authorising or permitting more than twelve hours to elapse between the time at which any person commences work on any day and the time at which he ceases work on that day.

In computing, for the purposes of the preceding Proviso, the number of hours that have elapsed between the time at which any person commences work on any day and the time at which he ceases work on that day, no account shall be taken of any period of overtime work.

(4) No person shall be employed in or about the business of any shop or office in contravention of any provision of this section or of any regulation referred to therein which applies to that shop or office or to shops or offices of that class.

4. No person who has, to the knowledge of any employer, been previously employed on any day in or about the business of the shop or office of any other employer or in a factory, shall be employed in or about the business of the shop or office of the first mentioned employer on that day for a period longer than will, together with the time during which he has been so previously employed on that day, complete the number of hours provided by or prescribed under section 3 as the maximum period during which that person shall be employed on any one day.

5. (i) Every person employed in or about the business of any shop or office shall, in respect of each week during which he has worked for a total period of not less than twenty-eight hours, exclusive of any period of overtime work, be allowed one whole holiday and one half-holiday with full remuneration:

Provided that regulations may be made modifying the preceding provisions of this sub-section in their application to persons employed in work of any specified class or description, by the substitution, for the period of twenty-eight hours, of some shorter or longer period.

(2) The holidays due under sub-section (r) in respect of any week shall be allowed either in that week or in the week immediately succeeding.

Provided that the holidays so due in respect of any four consecutive weeks in any month may instead be, with the prior sanction of the Commissioner, allowed in accumulation at any time in that month (one full holiday being 50 allowed in lieu of two half-holidays so due);

Provided further that the Commissioner shall not grant such sanction unless he is satisfied that it is necessary so to do by reason of the nature of the business or of unforeseen circumstances.

In respect of each day in any week on which a person has been on leave or on holiday with full remuneration allowed to him by the employer (whether in accordance with the requirements of section 6 or section 7 or in excess of such requirements), that employee shall be deemed, for the purposes of sub-section (i) of this section, to have worked for the normal period for which he would have worked if he had not been on such leave or holiday.

6. (1) (a) In respect of the first year of employment during which any person has been continuously in employment in or about the business of any shop or office, that person shall be entitled to take and shall lake-

(i) where his employment commences on or after the first day of January but before the first day of April, a holiday of fourteen days with full remuneration;
(ii) where his employment commences on or after the first day of April but before the first day of July, a holiday of ten days with full remuneration;

(iii) where his employment commences on or after the first day of July but before the first day of October, a holiday of seven days with full remuneration; and

(iv) where his employment commences on or after the first day of October, a holiday of four days with full remuneration.

and the employer shall allow such holiday and be liable to pay such remuneration.

(b) In respect of the second or any subsequent year of employment during which any person has been continuously in employment in or about the business of any shop or office, that person shall be entitled to take and shall take a holiday of fourteen days with full remuneration, of which not less than seven shall be consecutive days, and the employer shall allow such holiday and be liable to pay such remuneration.

(2) The holiday referred to in sub-section (r) in respect of any year of employment shall be taken in the year immediately succeeding on days to be agreed upon by the employer and the employee.

(3) In respect of each year of employment during which any person has been continuously in employment in or about the business of any shop or office, that person shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (4) and to such conditions as may be prescribed, be entitled to take on account of private business, ill-health or other reasonable cause, leave with full remuneration for a period or an aggregate of periods not exceeding seven days, and the employer shall allow such leave and be liable to pay such remuneration.

(4) (a) The leave to which a person is entitled under sub-section (3) in respect of the first year of his employment may be taken in that year and shall be computed on the basis of one day for each complete period of two months' service.

(b) The leave to which a person is entitled under sub-section (3) in respect of the second or any subsequent year of his employment may be taken in such year of employment.

(5) For the purposes of this section, the continuity of the employment of any person shall be deemed not to have been interrupted by reason of the absence of that person from work—

(a) on holiday or on leave, with full remuneration, in accordance with the provisions of this Act; or

(b) with the permission or subsequent consent of the employer, whether with or without remuneration.

(6) Where the employment of any person employed in or about the business of a shop or office is terminated, such person shall be entitled to take and shall take before the date of such termination—

(a) the holiday with full remuneration, if any, to which he may be entitled in respect of the year of employment preceding that in which the termination occurs; and

(b) in respect of the period during which he has been continuously employed in the year of employment in which the termination occurs—

(i) a holiday, with full remuneration, of one day in respect of each complete month, if such period is less than ten months, and

(ii) a holiday of fourteen days with full remuneration, if such period is not less than ten months.

and such employer shall allow such holiday and be liable to pay such remuneration.
Provide however, that where any such holiday cannot be allowed by reason that the period of notice of termination of employment is insufficient or the employment is terminated without notice, the employer shall pay full remuneration to such person in respect of each day on which a holiday should otherwise have been allowed.

(7) The fact that notice of termination of employment has been given by an employer or a person employed shall not prejudice the right of such person to take before the date of the termination of his service any leave to which such person may be entitled under the preceding sub-sections.

(8) In this section, "year of employment" means the period of twelve months reckoned from the first day of January of each year, notwithstanding that such day may have been earlier than the appointed date.

7. (r) Every person employed in or about the business of a shop or office shall be allowed a holiday with full remuneration on each of such days, being public holidays within the meaning of the Holidays Ordinance, as are declared by the Minister, by Order published in the Gazette, to be holidays for the purposes of this section, so however that the number of days so declared shall not exceed eight.

(2) A person to whom the provisions of sub-section (1) apply may, notwithstanding those provisions, be, with the prior sanction of the Commissioner employed on any day declared to be a holiday for the purposes of this section, but in any such case that person shall instead be allowed a holiday with full remuneration on or before the seventh day immediately succeeding, or be employed for a normal period of employment on another day on remuneration determined at a rate which is double the rate at which such person is ordinarily remunerated for such employment on any day:

Provided, however, that the Commissioner shall not grant such sanction in relation to any person unless he is satisfied that a holiday, cannot, without prejudice to the business in which he is employed, be allowed to him on the day so declared.

8. For the purposes of the application of the provisions of this Act in any case where a person is normally employed in or about the business of any shop or office for a period which continues from any time before midnight to any time after midnight--

(a) "day", where it occurs in sections 3 and 4, and in the definition of "whole holiday", shall be deemed to be the period of twenty-four hours reckoned from the time at which the period of the employment of that person normally commences;

(b) "half-holiday" means a day (as hereinafter defined) on which that person is not employed for more than five hours, exclusive of any interval allowed for rest or a meal and any interruption permitted by any regulation referred to in section 3 (3).

5. (r) Every person employed in or about the business of any shop or office shall be allowed intervals for meals in accordance with the regulations in the Schedule.

(2) Regulations may be made varying all or any of the provisions in the Schedule as regards different classes of persons employed in or about the business of shops or offices or as regards persons employed in or about the business of different classes of shops or offices.

(3) Nothing in subsection (r) or sub-section (2) or in the Schedule shall apply to--

to. (r) A person who has not attained the age of fourteen years shall not be employed in or about the business of a shop or office.

shall not be employed in or about the business of a shop or office before 6 a.m. or after 6 p.m. on any day:

Provided, however, that-

(i) any female who has attained the age of eighteen years may be employed in or about the business of a hotel or restaurant for the period, or for any part of the period between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m.

(ii) any female who has attained the age of eighteen years may be employed in or about any prescribed work in a residential hotel before 6 a.m. or after 6 p.m. on any day; and

(iii) any male who has attained the age of sixteen years may be employed in or about the business of a hotel, restaurant or place of entertainment for the period, or for any part of the period, between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m.

(3) Where in any prosecution for any alleged contravention of any provision of this section it is alleged that a person employed in or about the business of a shop or office was under any specified age, and he appears to the court to be a person who, at the date of the commission of the alleged contravention, was under the specified age, he shall unless the contrary is proved, be presumed for the purposes of this Act to have been under that age at that date.

In every part of the premises of a shop or office in which persons are employed about the business of the shop or office, suitable and sufficient means of lighting and ventilation shall be provided and maintained by the employer.

12. (r) No person employed in or about the business of any shop or office shall be permitted or required by the employer to live or reside in the premises thereof:

Provided, however, that the preceding provisions of this section shall not apply—

(a) in the case of any person who is a member of the family of the employer and is maintained by him or of any other person in respect of whom a permit in the prescribed form authorising such residence has been issued by the prescribed officer; or

(b) in the case of any person employed in or about the business of a residential hotel.

(2) Where any persons employed in or about the business of any shop or office take any meals in the premises of that shop or office, suitable and sufficient facilities for the taking of such meals shall be provided and maintained by the employer.

Provided that where persons of both sexes are so employed, separate conveniences and facilities as aforesaid shall be provided and maintained for the exclusive use of female employees.
14. (i). If any employer by whom persons are employed in or about the business of any shop or office furnishes to the satisfaction of the prescribed officer proof of—

(a) the fact that suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences and washing facilities are available, within the prescribed distance from that shop or office, for the use of such persons; and

(b) such other circumstances or facts as may be prescribed,

(2) Where the prescribed officer refuses to grant a certificate under this section, the refusal shall be communicated to the employer by notice in writing served on him.

(3) Every certificate issued under this section shall remain in force unless and until it is withdrawn under sub-section (4), and where any such certificate is modified under that sub-section, the certificate shall continue in force as so modified until it is so withdrawn.

(4) The prescribed officer may at any time by notice in writing served on any employer, and with effect from a date to be specified in such notice (which date shall not be less than three months from the date of service of the notice), withdraw any certificate issued under this section, or modify any such certificate in any manner specified by him in the notice.

(5) Any employer who is aggrieved by the refusal of the prescribed officer to issue a certificate under this section in respect of any shop or office or by the withdrawal or modification of any such certificate may appeal against such refusal, withdrawal or modification to the Magistrate's Court having jurisdiction over the place in which the shop or office is situated.

(6) Any employer, or the officer who refused, withdrew or modified the certificate, may, if dissatisfied with any order made by a Magistrate's Court under this section appeal against such order- to the Supreme Court in like manner as if such order were a judgment or final order pronounced by a Magistrate's Court in a criminal case or matter, and the provisions of Chapter XXX of the Criminal Procedure Code shall apply accordingly to every appeal preferred to the Supreme Court under this section.

15. No prosecution against any employer for the breach of any requirement of this Act relating to the provision of sanitary conveniences or washing facilities in any shop or office, shall be instituted in any court unless such employer—

(a) has been served with a notice, issued by the prescribed officer, calling on him to take such action as may be specified in the notice for the purpose of securing compliance with the requirement; and

(b) has failed to comply with such notice within a period of three months from the date of the service on him of such notice.

16. (s) In every room in which female persons are employed in the serving of customers in any shop, there shall be provided for the use of such persons seats behind the counter, or in such other position as may be suitable for the purpose, in the proportion of not less than one seat to every three female persons employed in that room.

PART II

Payment of Remuneration

19. (1) The employer shall comply with the following provisions of this section regarding the payment of remuneration to each person employed in or about the business of his shop or office:

(a) He shall, subject as hereinafter provided, pay such remuneration in legal tender directly to such person without any deduction other than an authorised déduction, as hereinafter defined, made with the consent of such person:

Provided that the aggregate of the deductions made at any one time shall not exceed sixty per centum of the remuneration due:

Provided, further, that nothing in the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall affect or be deemed to affect—

(i) any deduction authorised to be made from such remuneration by the Income Tax Ordinance or any other written law; or

(ii) any retention or payment of the whole or any part of such remuneration made in pursuance of, or in compliance with, any order, process or decree, made or issued by any court of law.

For the purposes of this paragraph, a payment which, immediately after remuneration is paid to any person, is made out of the remuneration by such person to his employer or to an agent of his employer shall be deemed to be a deduction from the remuneration.

In this paragraph, "authorised deduction" means a deduction made in such manner and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed in respect of—

(i) any advance of money made to a person by his employer,

(ii) any payment, which at the instance of a person, is made out of his remuneration by his employer to any person other than the employer or an agent of the employer in order to discharge any obligation of the person employed or for any other purposes, or any other prescribed matter.

(b) Subject to the provisions of section 31 (4) the employer shall fix the period (not exceeding one month) in respect of which remuneration is payable to each person employed in or about the business of his shop or office, and shall pay the remuneration for that period to that person-

(i) where that period does not exceed one week, within three days after the expiry of that period, or

(ii) where that period exceeds one week but does not exceed two weeks, within five days after the expiry of that period, or

(iii) where that period exceeds two weeks, within ten days after the expiry of that period.

Nothing in this paragraph shall in any way affect the period of notice or warning necessary under any provision of written law other than this Act for the termination of any contract.

(c) If the employer terminates the employment of any person on any date, he shall, before the expiry of the second working day after that date pay the remuneration due to him.

Where owing to his absence or any other cause deemed to be unavoidable by the Commissioner, it is not possible to pay any person's remuneration under paragraph (5) of this sub-section within the time specified in that paragraph or to pay his remuneration under paragraph (...) of this sub-section within the time specified in that paragraph, his employer may retain the remuneration and shall thereafter pay the remuneration to him at the earliest possible opportunity, notwithstanding anything contained to the contrary in the preceding provisions of this subsection.

(a) The provisions of sub-section (1) of this section shall apply to the payment of remuneration in any case, whether or not a determination under Part III of this Act is in force, specifying the minimum rate of remuneration payable in that case.

PART III

Regulation of Remuneration

(a) In this Part, "employee" means a person employed in or about the business of a shop or office.

A. Determination with consent

21. (1) Where the Minister considers it expedient that the remuneration—

(a) of the employees of any specified shop or office or of the shops or offices of any specified description, or of shops or offices (whether of a specified description or not) situated in a specified area, or

(b) of any particular class or category of employees referred to in paragraph (a), should be regulated under this Act, he may by Order direct the Commissioner to endeavour to determine the minimum rate of remuneration for such persons with consent as hereinafter provided.

(a) An Order under sub-section (1) may be made by the Minister of his own motion or on application made substantially in the prescribed form by—

(a) a prescribed number of employees, or by the employer or employers of such prescribed number of employees; or

(b) a trade union or trade unions consisting of or including such employees or their employers.

22. (t) Upon an Order being made under section 21 in relation to any employees, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner, after making such inquiries as he may consider necessary, to endeavour to obtain the consent of such employees and of their employers to a determination as to the minimum rate of remuneration for such employees; and where such consent is given, he shall cause the determination to be reduced into writing and shall himself sign the determination and also cause it to be signed by or on behalf of the persons consenting thereto.
(2) A determination by the Commissioner shall not be made applicable to any shop or office unless the consent of the employees of that shop or office who will be affected by the determination, and the consent of the employer of such employees has been obtained to that determination.

(3) Notwithstanding that the consent required by sub-section (2) has not been obtained in the case of every shop or office mentioned or referred to in an Order under section 21, a determination may be made by the Commissioner to be applicable only to each such shop or office in the case of which the requisite consent has been obtained.

(4) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), different determinations under this section may be made by the Commissioner applicable to different shops or offices or to employees of different classes or categories.

(5) Regulations may be made providing for the representation of employers and employees (whether by individuals or trade unions) at inquiries held by the Commissioner under this section and authorising consent to be given by such representatives on behalf of employers and employees to determinations proposed by the Commissioner; and any such regulations may provide that, where consent has been so given on behalf of a prescribed percentage of the employees in a shop or office who will be affected by a proposed determination, consent thereto shall be deemed to have been given by all such employees in that shop or office.

(6) Every determination made by the Commissioner under this Part shall contain a declaration specifying the shop or office or each of the shops or offices to which the determination is applicable and stating whether it is so applicable in relation to all the employees in such shop or office or only to any specified class or category of such employees.

23. A copy of every determination made by the Commissioner under the preceding provisions of this Part (hereinafter referred to as "a determination with consent"), shall be transmitted to the Minister and published in the Gazette, and shall come into force on the date of such publication or on such later date as may be specified in that behalf in the determination, and shall continue in force unless and until it is repudiated as hereinafter provided.

24. (1) A determination with consent—

(a) may be repudiated in its entirety by all the employees in relation to whom it has been declared to be applicable, or by the employer or employers, as the case may be, of all such employees,

(b) may be repudiated by the employees of any shop or office or by their employer, only in so far as it is applicable to that shop or office;

(c) may be repudiated by employees of any shop or office or two or more shops or offices who are of the same class or category or by their employer or employers, only in so far as it is applicable to employees of that class or category.

(2) A determination with consent may be repudiated under sub-section (1) only by means of written notice given to the Commissioner substantially in the prescribed form.

(3) Regulations may be made authorising notice of repudiation of any such determination to be given on behalf of employers and employees by representatives (whether individuals or trade unions) and any such regulations may provide that, where notice of repudiation is given on behalf of a prescribed percentage of the employees in a shop or office or of such employees of any class or category, notice of repudiation shall be deemed to have been given by all such employees in that shop or office, or all such employees of that class or category, as the case may be.

(4) Where a valid notice of repudiation given under the preceding provisions of this section is received by the Commissioner—

(a) the Commissioner shall cause the notice of repudiation to be published in the Gazette; and

(b) the repudiation shall have effect on the last day of the month succeeding the month in which the notice is received by the Commissioner.
(5) A determination which is repudiated in its entirety shall cease to be in force on the date on which the repudiation takes effect.

(6) A determination which is repudiated only in so far as it relates to one or some only (but not all) of the shops or offices to which it is applicable shall, on the date on which the repudiation takes effect, cease to be applicable to each shop or office in the case of which it is repudiated, but shall otherwise continue in force.

(7) A determination which is repudiated only in so far as it relates to any class or category of employees shall, on the date on which the repudiation takes effect, cease to be applicable to employees in the case of whom it is repudiated, but shall otherwise continue in force.

B. Determinations by Tribunals

25. (i) For the purposes of this Part, there shall be appointed a Panel, consisting of—

(a) the Commissioner,
(b) not less than seven representatives of employers, in respect of shops or offices, appointed by the Minister,
(c) not less than seven representatives of employees in shops or offices, appointed by the Minister, and
(d) not less than seven persons (hereafter in this section referred to as "nominated members") appointed by the Minister out of persons who are not connected with any trade union of such employers or employees, from which Remuneration Tribunals shall be constituted as hereinafter provided.

(2) The Minister may remove from the Panel any person appointed thereto.

(3) Where a person appointed under sub-section (1) vacates his office by reason of death, resignation, removal from office under sub-section (2) absence abroad or illness, the Minister may appoint a person in place of, or to act for, the first-mentioned person, as the case may be.

(4) Every person appointed to the Panel shall, unless he earlier vacates his office, hold office for three years:

Provided, however, that—

(a) a person appointed in place of a person who has died, resigned or been removed from office under sub-section (2), shall hold office for the unexpired portion of the term of office of the last-mentioned person; and
(b) a person appointed to act for a person who is absent abroad or is ill shall hold office for the period of absence or illness of the last-mentioned person.

(5) A person vacating office by effluxion of time shall be eligible for reappointment.

(6) The Commissioner shall be the Chairman of the Panel.

(7) In any case where a draft determination is authorised under section 26 to be made, the Chairman shall select from the Panel, not less than four persons, one of whom shall be himself and the others shall consist of an equal number of representatives of employers and employees and an odd number of nominated members.

(8) Where a person appointed to a Remuneration Tribunal to represent employers or employees or as a nominated member vacates his office for any reason whatsoever, the Chairman shall fill that vacancy by appointing another representative of the employers or another representative of the employees or another nominated member, as the case may be.
(SA) The Commissioner shall be the Chairman of every Remuneration Tribunal. Where the Commissioner is absent from any meeting of a Remuneration Tribunal, a Deputy Commissioner of Labour or an Assistant Commissioner of Labour may, notwithstanding that he is not a member of the Panel, preside at that meeting on behalf of the Commissioner. The person presiding at any such meeting shall not be entitled to vote on any question before that meeting.

(9) Whenever there is a difference of opinion between members of a Remuneration Tribunal on any matter, the opinion on that matter of the majority of members of the Tribunal shall prevail.

(so) Whenever there is a vacancy in a Remuneration Tribunal, the Tribunal may act notwithstanding such vacancy.

(is) No act, proceeding or determination of a Remuneration Tribunal shall be called in question or invalidated by reason of any vacancy in the Tribunal.

26. (1) The Minister may authorise a draft determination under this Part to be made by a Remuneration Tribunal in relation to any employees in any case where the Commissioner has not been able, in pursuance of an Order under section 21 to make a determination with consent in relation to such employees, or where the Minister considers it expedient so to do.

(2) In any case where a determination with consent is repudiated as hereinbefore provided, the Minister may authorise a draft determination to be made by a Remuneration Tribunal specifying a minimum rate of remuneration for the employees or any employees in relation to whom the determination with consent has ceased to be applicable by reason of such repudiation.

(3) In any case where the Minister considers it expedient that a determination with consent should be extended so as to be applicable to any employees to whom it is not already applicable, the Minister may authorise a draft determination, for the extension to such employees of the determination with consent, to be made by a Remuneration Tribunal.

(4) The Minister may of his own motion, and shall on application made to him in the prescribed manner, authorise a draft determination to be made by a Remuneration Tribunal rescinding, varying or replacing a determination previously made by a Remuneration Tribunal:

Provided, however, that the Minister shall not authorise such draft determination to be made on such application unless a period of at least one year has elapsed from the date on which such previously made determination came into force.

(5) In any case referred to in the preceding provisions of this section a Remuneration Tribunal shall be constituted in the manner set out in section 25, and for the purposes of the application to any such case of the succeeding provisions of this Part every reference to a Tribunal shall be construed as a reference to the Remuneration Tribunal so constituted.

27. (s) Where authority in that behalf has been given by the Minister under section 26, a Tribunal shall, after holding such inquiries as it may consider necessary, make a draft determination in terms of the authority so given:

Provided, however, that the Tribunal may, for reasons which shall be stated in a report to be made to the Minister in that behalf—

(a) decide not to make a draft determination, or

(b) make a draft determination to be applicable to some only but not all of the employees in relation to whom it is authorised to make a draft determination.

(2) Every draft determination made under the preceding provisions of this section shall contain a declaration specifying the shop or office or each of the shops or offices to which the determination is applicable and stating whether it is so applicable in relation to all the employees in such shop or office or only to any specified class or category of such employees.
28. (r) A Tribunal that makes any draft determination shall cause a copy of that determination to be published in the Gazette together with a notice specifying the date on or before which objections to the draft determination will be received by the Tribunal.

(2) Every objection preferred in consequence of a notice under sub-section (1) shall be made in writing and shall contain a statement of the grounds upon which the objection is taken to the draft determination.

(3) The Tribunal shall consider all objections made to a draft determination in consequence of a notice under sub-section (r) and may confirm that determination with or without any amendments.

(4) Where a Tribunal decides not to confirm a draft determination, the Tribunal shall make a written report to the Minister specifying its reasons for the decision.

29. (r) Every determination made by a Tribunal and confirmed under section 28 shall—

(a) be signed and dated by the Commissioner, and

(b) be transmitted to the Minister, through the Commissioner, with any report which he or the Tribunal may desire to make on any matter to which the determination relates.

(2) The Minister may refer back to the Tribunal for reconsideration any determination transmitted to him under sub-section (1), and in every such case the Tribunal shall reconsider the determination and, after such amendment thereof as it may consider desirable, return the determination to the Minister.

(3) No determination transmitted to the Minister under sub-section (r) or returned to him under sub-section (2) shall have effect unless it has been approved by the Minister. Every determination which has been approved by the Minister shall, together with a notification of such approval be published in the Gazette.

(4) Any determination which is approved by the Minister shall come into force on the first day of the month succeeding the month in which the notification of such approval is published in the Gazette and where such determination extends an existing determination to other employees, the existing determination shall apply and come into force in relation to those other employees on the aforesaid date.

30. Where any determination with consent, or any determination of a Tribunal, specifying a minimum rate of remuneration for any employees is in force, the employer of each such employee shall pay to the employee remuneration calculated at not less than the aforesaid minimum rate:

Provided, however, that where as respects any employee the date on which such determination comes into force does not correspond with the beginning of a period, determined under section 31 (3) of this Act, for which remuneration is payable to such employee by that employer, the rates determined in that determination shall, in respect of that employee, become effective as from the beginning of the next period of the aforesaid description following the said date.

31. (r) The Commissioner or a Tribunal shall have the power to make any determination under this Part relating to a minimum rate of remuneration by reference to time-work or by reference to piece-work or by reference to such other method of calculation as the Commissioner or the Tribunal, as the case may be, may consider fit.

(2) The Commissioner or a Tribunal shall, in making any determination under this Part, take into consideration the circumstances obtaining in particular branches of employment or particular areas or affecting particular classes of employees, and may, accordingly, in any such determination, determine different rates of remuneration for employees occupied in different branches of employment or employed in different areas or of different classes, or include therein such other provision for such circumstances as the Commissioner or the Tribunal, as the case may be, may consider expedient.
(3) The Commissioner or a Tribunal may, in making any determination in relation to any employees under this Part, determine the period of work (not exceeding one month) in respect of which remuneration shall be paid to those employees, and specify the number of days from the end of such period within which the remuneration shall be so paid.

Nothing in the preceding provisions of this sub-section or in any determination shall in any way affect the period of notice or warning necessary under any provision of written law other than this Act for the termination of any contract.

(4) Where a determination under this Part includes provisions under the preceding sub-section fixing the period of employment in respect of which remuneration shall be paid to any employees in a shop or office and the number of days after the end of that period within which such remuneration shall be paid to those employees, the provisions of paragraph (h) of section 30 with effect from the date on which that determination comes into force, cease to have effect in relation to those employees in so far as they are inconsistent with, or in conflict with, any such provision.

32. Where an employee performs two or more classes of employment and a minimum rate of remuneration has been determined under this Act for each such class, the employer shall pay to that employee in respect of the time occupied in each class of employment remuneration calculated at not less than the minimum rate in force in respect of that class.

33. Where an employee is employed on piece-work and a minimum rate of remuneration for time-work (such rate being hereinafter referred to in this Part as a "minimum time-rate") has been determined in relation to that employee under this Part but no rate for piece-work has been determined in relation to that employee under this Part, the employer of that employee shall be deemed to pay remuneration calculated at less than the minimum time-rate, unless he shows that the remuneration, calculated on a piece-work basis, paid to that employee was at least the same amount as the remuneration that would have been paid to that employee had the remuneration been calculated at the minimum time-rate.

34. For the purpose of calculating the amount of the remuneration payable in the case of an employee in relation to whom a minimum rate of remuneration has been determined under this Part, the employee shall be deemed to have been employed during all the time during which he was present on the premises of the employer unless the employer proves that he was so present without the employer's consent expressed or implied or that he was so present for some purpose unconnected with his employment and other than that of awaiting for employment to be given to him to perform; and in the case of an employee employed on piece-work, he shall be deemed during any time during which he was so present and was not doing piece-work to have been employed at the minimum time-rate under this Part for such an employee, and if no such time-rate has been so determined at a minimum remuneration rate, calculated in such manner as the Commissioner or a Tribunal, as the case may be, may consider fit;

Provided that—

(a) where the employee resides on the premises of the employer, he shall not be deemed to be employed during any time during which he is present on the premises by reason only of the fact that he is so resident; and

(b) an employee while present during normal meal times in a room or place in which no employment is being done shall be deemed present for a purpose unconnected with his employment.

35. (i) Where an employee in a shop or office who is paid remuneration at an hourly or daily rate determined under this Part, is employed on any day, including a holiday on which he is required to be employed, for less than the normal period of employment prescribed by the employer of that shop or office for a day (such period being hereinafter referred to in this section as the "normal working day"), he shall be deemed to have been employed for the full normal working day and his remuneration shall be computed accordingly, unless his failure to work for the normal working day is due to his unwillingness to work or such other circumstances as the Commissioner or the Tribunal, as the case may be, may determine and not due to the omission of his employer to provide him with work.

(2) Where an employee in a shop or office who is paid remuneration at a weekly or monthly rate determined under this Part is not employed at all on any day or is employed on any day, including a holiday on which he is required to be employed, for less than the normal working day, he shall be deemed to have been employed for the full normal working day and his remuneration shall be computed accordingly unless his failure to work at all on that day or to work for the full normal working day is due to his unwillingness to work or such other circumstances as the Commissioner or the Tribunal, as the case may be, may determine, and not due to the omission of his employer to provide him with work.

(3) Where, by reason of his illness or his unwillingness to work or such other circumstance as the Commissioner or the Tribunal, as the case may be, may determine, an employee in a shop or office works on any day for a period which is less than the normal working day, his employer shall pay him as remuneration for such period a sum which bears to the amount of the remuneration payable for the normal working day the same proportion as such period bears to the normal working day.

36. (1) Where the Commissioner is satisfied that any employee, in relation to whom a minimum rate of remuneration has been determined under this Act, is affected by any infirmity or physical injury which renders him incapable of earning that minimum rate, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, grant to that employee a permit, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed in the permit authorising his employment by an employer at a rate of remuneration specified in the permit, which is less than the aforesaid minimum rate.

(2) While any permit, granted under sub-section (1), in relation to any employee, is in force his employer shall not be liable to any legal proceedings for paying remuneration to that employee at less than the minimum rate determined under this Act for him, so long as the permit is in force and the conditions subject to which the permit was issued are complied with.

(3) Any permit granted under sub-section (1) to any employee may at any time be revoked by the Commissioner, after giving notice in the prescribed manner to the employer of that employee.

37. No determination under this Part shall apply or be made applicable to any persons employed in any trade or work to which the provisions of Part II of the Wages Boards Ordinance, No. 27 of 1941, has been made applicable by Order made under section 6 of that Ordinance.

38. If any question arises as to the interpretation of any determination for the time being in force of a Tribunal, the Commissioner may refer that question for the decision of a Tribunal consisting as far as possible of the persons who constituted the Tribunal which made the determination.

39. Every decision of a Tribunal under section 38 on the interpretation of a determination for the time being in force shall be transmitted to the Commissioner for publication in the Gazette and shall be deemed to form part of and shall have the same effect in all respects as such determination.

PART IV

Closing Orders for Shops

40. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 45, an order (hereinafter referred to as a "closing order") may be made by the Minister in relation to all shops or to all shops of any specified class, in all areas of Ceylon or in any specified area, if he is of opinion that it is expedient to restrict the hours during which such shops may be or remain open for the serving of customers.

(2) Any closing order may require every shop to which the order applies to be closed for the serving of customers—

(a) until a specified hour on each day, or on one or more specified day in every Week
(b) at and after a specified hour on each day, or on one or more specified days, in every week; and
(c) throughout a specified day in every week.

(3) Any closing order may—
(a) specifying different days or different hours for different classes of shops or for shops in different areas; or
(b) specify different days or different hours for different periods of the year; or
(c) empower the Commissioner to specify different days or different hours for specified shops; or
(d) authorise, or empower the Commissioner to authorise, whether at all shops in the area in which the order applies, or at shops situated in any specified part of that area, or at shops of any specified class in the area or any specified part thereof, sales after the closing hour in cases of emergency or in such other circumstances as may be specified in the order; or
(e) exempt or empower the Commissioner to exempt any particular class of shops from all or any of the provisions of any such order; and
(f) contain such provisions incidental supplemental or consequential to the matters referred to in the preceding paragraphs as may appear necessary or expedient.

42. (1) No closing order shall be made by the Minister unless notification declaring his intention to make such order is published in the Gazette and in one Sinhalese, one Tamil and one English newspaper, together with full particulars of the proposed order, and specifying a date on or before which objections to the proposed order will be received by the Minister.

(2) Every objection so preferred shall be made in writing and shall contain a statement of the grounds upon which objection is taken to the proposed order.

(3) The Minister shall consider all objections so preferred and may for the purpose of investigating any such objection hold such inquiry as to him may seem necessary.

42. No closing order shall have effect until it has been approved by the Senate and the House of Representatives nor until notification of such approval has been published in the Gazette. Every closing order so approved shall, upon publication in the Gazette, be as valid and effectual as though it were herein contained.

43. (1) No shop shall be or remain open for the serving of customers in contravention of any provision of any closing order made under this Act.

(2) It shall be the duty of the employer to prevent any customer from entering the shop on any day or at any time when such shop is required by any closing order to be closed for the serving of customers.

44. (1) Where different trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop, and any of those trades or businesses is of such a nature that no closing order would be applicable to the shop if that were the only trade or business carried on therein, the shop may, subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed, be kept open for the purposes of that trade or business alone notwithstanding anything in any closing order.

(2) Where different trades or businesses, in respect of which different hours for opening and closing are prescribed by any closing order, are carried on in the same shop, such shop shall be opened at the latest of the hours for opening and closed at the earliest of the hours for closing, that are so prescribed:

Provided, however, that where the Commissioner is satisfied that the premises of the shop have been adequately partitioned or divided into distinct parts so as to ensure that each such part can be closed separately and effectively, and a certificate in that behalf has been issued by the Commissioner, the closing order shall apply in respect of each such part of the shop separately in like manner as though such part were a distinct shop.
43. (r) Where, by virtue of any closing order, shops which are situated in any specified area and in which any specified trade or business or a trade or business of any specified class is carried on are required to be closed until any specified hour of any day, or at and after any specified hour of the day, or throughout a specified day in every week, no person shall, in contravention of such order carry on that trade or business or any trade or business of that class anywhere in that area:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit—

(a) a barber or hairdresser from attending to a customer at the customer's residence;

(b) the holding, in a dwelling house, of an auction sale of household goods belonging to the occupier of the dwelling house;

(c) the sale of newspapers;

(d) the sale of any goods by a person who does not carry on any trade or business as a seller of such goods and is not employed by a person carrying on any such trade or business;

(e) the carrying on of any prescribed trade or business.

(2) Where any person in the presence of a prescribed officer is accused of committing a contravention of subsection (r), that officer may exercise the powers conferred on a peace officer by sub-section (r) of section 33 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

(3) Any employer furnishing any return, copy, part of a copy or other information under sub-section (r) may transmit at the same time a written request that such return, copy, part of a copy or other information so furnished should be treated as confidential and, where such request is made, the material to which the request relates shall not be disclosed by any person without the consent previously obtained of the employer who made the request.
(4) Nothing in the preceding provisions of this section shall be deemed to require or permit any person to disclose any information or to produce any document in any case where the disclosure or production by that person of the information or document is prohibited by or under the provisions of any written law other than this Act.

48. (r) For the purposes of holding any inquiry under this Act, a Remuneration Tribunal shall have the same powers as a District Court to enforce the attendance of any person, to examine him on oath and to enforce the production of any relevant document; and the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code relating to the powers of a civil court in respect of the matters aforesaid shall apply accordingly.

(z) Nothing in the preceding provisions of this section shall be deemed to require or permit any person to disclose any information or to produce any document in any case where the disclosure or production by that person of such information or document is prohibited by or under the provisions of any written law other than this Act.

49. (I) Where in any inquiry held by a Remuneration Tribunal any information is given or any document produced by any person and a request is made by or on behalf of that person that such information or document or the contents of such document should be treated as confidential, the Chairman of the Tribunal shall order that such information or document be treated as confidential.

(2) No member of a Remuneration Tribunal or other person present at or concerned in any proceedings before the Tribunal shall in any way disclose any information or document in respect of which an order has been made under sub-section (I), or the contents of any such document, except with the written consent of the party at whose request such order was made.

50. (1) The Commissioner or any prescribed officer shall have power—

(a) to enter and inspect, at all reasonable hours by day or night, any shop or office or part thereof or any place believed by the Commissioner or such officer, to be used as a shop or office, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the provisions of this Act are being complied with in respect thereof, or of examining any register, record or notice required by or under this Act to be kept or exhibited therein;

(b) where any such register or record is not available for examination when the Commissioner or such officer is inspecting any such premises or place, to require the production of such register or record on a specified date for examination at such premises or place or at the office of the Commissioner or such officer;

(c) to take one or more police officers, if the Commissioner or such officer has reasonable cause to apprehend any serious obstruction in the execution of his duty; and

(d) to require any person found in any shop or office and employed or believed to be employed therein, to furnish his name and address and such information as may be within his knowledge as to the identity of his employer or as to any alleged contravention of, or failure to comply with the provisions of this Act, and in the case of a shop to require any person found therein and believed to be a customer to furnish his name and address and such information as may be within his knowledge in relation to the circumstances of any sale; so however that no person is required under this paragraph to answer any question or to furnish any information tending to criminate himself.

(2) It shall be the duty of the person in charge of each shop or office, in or about the business of which any person is employed to render such assistance and furnish such facilities as may be required by the Commissioner or any prescribed officer, for the purposes of any entry, inspection or examination which the Commissioner or that officer is empowered to carry out by subsection (s).
5/. (1) In the event of any contravention of or failure to comply with any provision of this Act, other than the provisions of section 30, or of any regulation relating to any shop or office or to the employment of any person in or about the business thereof, the employer shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees or to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months or to both such fine and imprisonment.

(2) Where any person, who has previously on any day been employed in or about the business of any shop or office or in any factory, is subsequently employed on that day in or about the business of any shop or office for a period longer than will, together with the time during which he has so been previously employed on that day, complete the number of hours prescribed by or under section 4 as the maximum period during which that person shall be employed on any one day, such person shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to the penalties provided in sub-section (1) of this section.

(3) Every person who contravenes the provisions of section 45 shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to the penalties provided in sub-section (r) of this section.

52. (i) Every employer who fails to pay remuneration to any employee in accordance with the provisions of section 30, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees or to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding six months or to both such fine and imprisonment and shall in addition be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each day on which the offence is continued after conviction.

(2) On conviction of an employer under sub-section (i), the court may, in addition to any other sentence, order the employer to pay such sum as may be found by the court to represent the difference between the amount which ought properly to have been paid to the employee and the amount actually paid. Any sum ordered to be paid under this sub-section may be recovered in the same manner as a fine.

(3) The power of the court to make any order under sub-section (2) for the payment of any sum of money shall not be in derogation of any right of the employee to recover the sum by any other proceedings.

(4) On the prosecution of any employer under sub-section (r) of this section for the failure to make any payment to any employee, the burden of proving that the payment was made shall lie on the employer.

53. (i) Where an employer has been convicted of failing to pay remuneration to any employee in accordance with the provisions of section 30, then, if a notice in the prescribed form of the intention so to do has been served on the employer together with the summons or warrant, evidence may be given of any failure on the part of the employer to pay remuneration in accordance with the provisions of that section to that employee or to any other employee or employees at any time during the two years preceding the date on which complaint under section 148 of the Criminal Procedure Code, was made to court of the offence of which the employer has been so convicted and, on proof of the failure, the court may order the employer where no portion of the remuneration due to such employee or employees during such years has been paid, to pay such remuneration, or, where only a portion of such remuneration has been paid, to pay the balance.

Any sum ordered to be paid under this sub-section may be recovered in the same manner as a fine.

(2) The power of court to make an order under sub-section (r) of this section shall not be in derogation of any right of the employee to recover remuneration by any other proceedings.

54. Every person who wilfully obstructs or delays the Commissioner or any prescribed officer in the exercise of any power conferred on the Commissioner or such officer by section 50, or fails to comply with any direction or requisition given under section 47 or section 50 or to produce any register, notice, document or other information which he is required under such section to produce wilfully omits or causes or allows to be omitted from any such record or notice any entry required to be made therein he shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees or to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months or to both such fine and imprisonment.

56. Every person who discloses any information or document in contravention of the provisions of section 47 (3) or section 49 (2) shall be guilty of
