The Associated Board was established in 1889 by an agreement made between the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music to act as one examining body in order to conduct local music examinations and thereby help to improve the standard of musical education.

King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, consented to become the first President of the Board and held this office until he succeeded to the throne, when he became its Patron. Successive sovereigns have granted their patronage to the Board and Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother is now its President.

The authority of the Board was later extended when the other two Royal Schools of Music, the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama and the Royal Northern College of Music, became part of the constitution.

The Board offers a scheme of examinations suitable for candidates at different stages of ability in keyboard, stringed, woodwind, brass and percussion instruments, singing, practical musicianship, instrumental ensembles and theory. A simple test is provided for beginners in most instruments and singing in the Grade 1 examination, and progress may then be followed in stages of gradually increasing difficulty to Grade 8 which leads on to the examinations for the Advanced Certificate and the LRSM (Licentiate of the Royal Schools of Music) Diploma.

Scholarships are provided by the Board for the benefit of candidates who display outstanding musical promise to enable them to study in Britain.

The Sri Lanka Association for the Advancement of Science (S.L.A.A.S.) was founded in 1944 to satisfy a long felt need of the scientific community in the country to have an association which could serve as a common-meeting ground for the discussion of scientific work.

The Association is the premier scientific society in the island and the only one which caters for all fields of scientific activity.

It has at the present six sections:-

- Section A. Medical, Dental & Veterinary Sciences.
- Section B. Agricultural Sciences and Forestry.
- Section C. Engineering, Architecture and Surveying.
- Section D. Life and Earth Sciences.
- Section E.1. Physical Sciences
- Section E.2. Chemical Sciences.
- Section F. Social Sciences.

The present membership is above 2000.

The objects of the Association are to promote the advancement of science, to provide for systematic direction of scientific inquiry in the interests of the country; to promote contact between scientific workers; to hold an Annual Session; to disseminate scientific knowledge.

The Association has links with sister Associations and other Scientific organisations all over the world.

The Annual Session has been regularly held since the inception of the Association. The Session is usually held at the end of each year and lasts, at present, four and a half days. Duty leave and railway warrant facilities are allowed by the Government for members who are in Government service or Corporations to attend the Session. The Proceedings of the Annual Sessions are published in three parts -

- (i) General Programme and Annual Reports.
- (ii) Abstracts of Original Papers read at the Session.
- (iii) General President's Address, Presidential Address of sections and Addresses of the Association's Chief Guest and other distinguished scientists.

In between the Sessions, the Sections hold meetings which include Lectures, Symposia, Excursions, etc.

A vigorous campaign has been launched by the Association for the popularisation of science.

Admission to membership is made by the Council of the Association as follows:-

Ordinary Members: Persons with recognised scientific qualifications or persons who have made contributions to scientific knowledge.

EDUCATION SECTION

UNIVERSITIES IN SRI LANKA

The first University in Sri Lanka was established on 1st June, 1942 under the Ceylon University Ordinance, No. 20 of 1942, by the amalgamation of the Ceylon Medical College (founded in 1870) and the Ceylon University College (founded in 1921). This University, styled the University of Ceylon, was to be located at a site in or around Kandy, and, after a protracted controversy, a site in Peradeniya was selected. The building operations commenced in the mid-forties, and, in 1949, a group of Law, Agriculture, and Veterinary Science students were moved into Peradeniya. The first major transfer occurred in September, 1952, when 820 students of the Faculties of Oriental Studies and Arts went into residence in Peradeniya. The Faculties of Science, Medicine and Engineering continued to remain in Colombo until the next stage of the building programme was completed. But, by that time, primarily owing to the policy of Free Education implemented in 1945 and the consequent expansion of educational opportunities at the primary and the secondary levels, the number of students seeking admission to the University had tremendously increased. The University authorities, therefore, decided to start a Second Faculty of Science and a Second Faculty of Medicine in Peradeniya rather than transferring the Faculties of Science and Medicine which existed in Colombo. These two second faculties were established in 1961 and 1962, respectively. The entire Faculty of Engineering was shifted to Peradeniya in 1963. Owing to the increasing pressure on admission, a Second Faculty of Oriental Studies and Arts had to be established in Colombo in 1964.

Long before the advent of the Western system of education to Sri Lanka, there existed in the country well-established traditional centres of learning, known as Pirivenas. While these centres were associated with Buddhist temples, the knowledge imparted by them laid special emphasis on Oriental Languages, Eastern Religions and Philosophy. Of these centres, the Vidyodaya Pirivena (founded in 1873 by the Ven. Hikkaduwe Sri Sumangala Maha Thera) and the Vidyalkara Pirivena (founded in 1875 by the Ven. Ratmalane Sri Dhammaloka and the Ven. Ratmalane Sri Dharmarama Maha Theras) had acquired international fame. These two Pirivenas were established as Universities on 1st January, 1959 under the Vidyodaya University and the Vidyalkara University Act. No. 45 of 1958.

The next important landmark in the history of university education in this country was the enactment of the Higher Education Act. No. 20 of 1966. This Act, which became fully operative on 1st October 1966, provided for the establishment of a National Council of Higher Education, whose main objects were to advise the Minister of Education on the apportionment and control of the expenditure on higher education; the maintenance of academic standards in Higher Educational Institutes; the administration of such Institutes; the co-ordination of higher education with the needs of the nation for social, cultural and economic development; and any other such matters as the Minister may refer to that Council for its advice.

The new Act, while repealing Ordinance, No. 20 of 1942 and Act No. 45 of 1958, referred to earlier, empowered the Minister to establish High Educational Institutes having the status of Universities and Junior University Colleges. The three Universities which then existed namely, (the University of Ceylon, the Vidyodaya University of Ceylon, and the Vidyalkara University of Ceylon) were re-established under the Act. Likewise, several Junior University Colleges, such as the College of Technology at Katubedda were founded.

By this time, the original University of Ceylon, which was intended to be located in Peradeniya, had been well established in both Peradeniya and Colombo. These two sites became identified as two campuses. While the Faculties of Oriental Studies, Arts, Science and Medicine were common to both institutions, the Peradeniya Campus alone had, in addition, a Faculty of Agriculture & Veterinary Science and a Faculty of Engineering. Further, its Faculty of Oriental Studies and Arts included Departments of Law and Education, and its Faculty of Medicine, a School of Dentistry. The main seat of the administration however, was Peradeniya. As it was felt that the management of both Campuses from a single centre was impracticable and inconvenient and involved unnecessary expenditure, it was decided to separate the Colombo Campus from the original University of Ceylon. This Campus became the nucleus of the University of Ceylon, Colombo, which was established on 1st October 1967 under the provisions of the Higher Education Act. No. 20 of 1966.

A further major development in the organization of university education in Sri Lanka occurred in 1972 with the implementation of the University of Ceylon Act, No. 1 of 1972, with effect from 15th February of the same year. The fundamental legal effect of this new enactment was the amalgamation of the four existing Universities and the College of Technology at Katubedda to constitute a single University. Each of the four Universities and the College of Technology became campuses of this new University of Ceylon. These were referred to as the Peradeniya Campus, the Colombo Campus, the Vidyodaya Campus, the Vidyalkara Campus and the Katubedda Campus. A sixth Campus was inaugurated in Jaffna in August 1974.

In addition to these campuses, six institutes were established under the Act from 1974 to 1976. These were the Postgraduate Institute of Medicine; the Vidyalkara Postgraduate Institute of Buddhist Studies, the Postgraduate Institute of Agriculture; The Institute of Aesthetic Studies; the Institute of Workers' Education, and the Institute of Ayurveda. While the three postgraduate institutes and the institute of Workers' Education were new organisations, the other two were created by the absorption into the University of the Government's College of Fine Arts and the College of Indigenous Medicine. Each institute had as its head a Director, and was governed by a Board of Management which was subject to the powers, functions and duties of the Board of Governors of the University. A separate organization called the External Services Agency, with a Director in charge, was established under the Act for the purpose of conducting the external examinations of the University and providing extension services.

These campuses and institutes enjoyed administrative and academic autonomy to a very limited extent, and were heavily dependent upon the central administrative organization, known as the Senate House, which was located in Colombo. The Vice-Chancellor, the Registrar and the Treasurer of the University functioned from Senate House, while the day-to-day administration of each campus was the responsibility of a President who was assisted by a Deputy Registrar, a Deputy Treasurer and subordinate officers and other employees. The new Act of 1972 provided for an initial transitional period of two years, mainly for the purpose of establishing the several Authorities and other bodies contemplated thereunder. These however, were not formally established, and such of them as had been constituted, merely functioned in an advisory capacity to the Vice-Chancellor, who was vested with almost all the powers, functions and duties of the University during its transitional phase. The initial two-year period of transition was extended from time to time right up to 31st December 1978, when Act No. 1 of 1972 was repealed by the new Universities Act No. 16 of 1978.

The new Act provided for the establishment of a University Grants Commission and a University Services Appeals Board; and for the establishment, maintenance and administration of Universities, with their Campuses and Faculties, and other Higher Educational Institutions.

The University Grants Commission consists of a Chairman and four other members. The objects of the Commission are the planning and co-ordination of university education so as to conform to national policy; the apportionment to Higher Educational Institutions of the funds voted by Parliament in respect of university education; and the control of expenditure by each such Higher Educational Institution, the maintenance of academic standards in Higher Educational Institutions, the regulation of the administration of Higher Educational Institutions, the regulation of the admission of students to each Higher Educational Institution; and the exercise, performance and discharge of such powers, duties and functions as are conferred or imposed on or assigned to the Commission by the Act.

The University Services Appeals Board is a unique feature in university legislation in that provision for a similar body does not appear to have been made in any other country. The Appeals Board consists of a Chairman, a Vice-Chairman and one other member. This body is vested with the following powers, duties and functions.

- (a) to conduct investigations into appointments and promotions alleged to have been made to the staff of the Commission and to Higher Educational Institutions in contravention of the schemes of recruitment and the procedures for appointment in force at the time such appointments or promotions were made.
- (b) to consider appeals from employees of the Commission or any Higher Educational Institution who have been dismissed, compulsorily retired or otherwise punished against such dismissal, compulsory retirement or other punishment.
- (c) to consider appeals from employees of the Commission who were employees of the old University or any Higher Educational Institution, relating to compensation payable to employees of the old University; and
- (d) to convey to the Chairman of the Commission or the Governing Authority of the Higher Educational Institution concerned, as the case may be, the decisions arrived at after considering such appeals or conducting such investigations.

Consequent upon the repeal of Act. No. 1 of 1972, the six Campuses of the former University of Ceylon were deemed to be established as Universities under the new Act with effect from 1st January, 1979. These Universities are the University of Peradeniya (former Peradeniya Campus); the University of Colombo (former Colombo Campus); the University of Kelaniya (former Vidyalkankara Campus); the University of Sri Jayawardenepura (former Vidyodaya Campus); the University of Moratuwa (former Katubedda Campus) and the University of Jaffna (former Jaffna Campus). Each of these Universities is headed by a Chancellor while the principal executive officer is the Vice-Chancellor. The Authorities (such as the Court, the Council and the Senate) established under the Act are responsible for the general, financial and academic administration and management of each institution. The new Act empowered the University Grants Commission to review the status of each of the six institutes established under the repealed Act and to determine their future structure and composition within a period of one year. In the meantime, these were to be attached to such Universities as the Commission thought fit. Accordingly, the institutes have already been attached to three of the Universities referred to earlier and each institute has been re-established under an Ordinance made by the Commission under section 140 read with Section 18 of the Universities Act. No. 16 of 1978. The new Act also provides for the establishment of new Universities, an Open University, University Campuses and Colleges, and for the recognition of institutions for providing courses of study prescribed for examinations conducted by the Universities. Under the provisions of this Act, the Dumbara Campus of the University of Peradeniya was established on 1st January, 1979, the Open University of Sri Lanka on 16th May 1980, and the Batticaloa University College on 1st May, 1981. The Ruhuna University College which was established on 1st January, 1979 was elevated to a full-fledged University on 1st February, 1984.

In terms of Section 18, read with section 24(A) of the Universities Act. No. 16 of 1978, nine affiliated University Colleges, namely North Central Province, North-Western Province, Uva Province, Southern Province, Eastern Province, Sabaragamuwa Province, Western Province, Central Province and Northern Province were established on 20th November, 1991.

The names of the members of the University Grants Commission, the University Services Appeals Board, and the principal officers of the two bodies have been set out below.

UNIVERSITIES IN SRI LANKA

UNIVERSITY OF PERADENIYA - SRI LANKA

The University of Ceylon, established by proclamation on 9th June 1942, had as its nucleus two Colleges of university rank - the Ceylon Medical College, founded in 1870, and the Ceylon University College founded in 1921.

The need for a Medical School in Sri Lanka was first pointed out by the Governor, Sir George Anderson, in 1852, but no action was taken until the Surgeon to the Northern Province, Dr. Loos, in his report in 1869 'On the depopulation of the Wann', drew attention to the necessity for providing medical education in the island so that medical assistance might be more generally available. The principal Civil Medical Officer, Dr. Charsley, adopted this suggestion and advised the foundation of an 'Elementary School' capable of giving a practical course in medicine, surgery and midwifery. The scheme was accepted by the government and, in 1870, with Dr. Loos as principal, the Medical College was opened in the block of buildings known as the Female Surgical Ward of the General Hospital.

Though there had been earlier proposals going back at least as far as 1884, the establishment of a University of Ceylon was apparently first proposed publicly in 1906, when a number of public-spirited citizens, led by the late Sir Ponnambalam Arunachalam, formed the Ceylon University Association. For some years the association was unable to make much headway, but ultimately, in 1911, it succeeded in securing the appointment of a Committee to inquire into secondary and higher education. The report of this Committee, submitted to Government in January 1922, expressed the unanimous view that the time had come for Ceylon to have a University College of its own.

Though the Committee's proposal was accepted in principle by both the Colonial and the Home Governments, the outbreak of World War I in 1914 hindered any further progress being made. Thus, it was only in 1920 that the question was taken up again, and it was not till the following year that the University College, sited at 'Regina Walauwa' (now named College House) opened its doors to the public.

In the first year, with 115 students on the roll, courses were offered for the London Intermediate and Final Examination in Arts and Science, the First Year Medical Examination in Pure Science, the London Intermediate (Economics) Examination and the training of secondary school teachers.

At the beginning of the second academic year, 1921 - 22, Mr R. Marrs, Cl.E., M.A. (Oxon), assumed office as the first Principal of the College. After that date development was both extensive and rapid. Honours courses were begun in an increasing number of subjects, the roll of students steadily rose and the results achieved in the London examinations progressively improved. Accommodation and equipment, however, failed to keep pace with the development of the College and to rectify these shortcomings the old Royal College buildings were taken over in 1923.

The founders of the College had intended to set up, and knew that they were establishing, the University of Ceylon. The University College was regarded as a 'preliminary status' only. Immediately on his arrival therefore, Professor Marrs set out to undertake the steps necessary to supersede this 'preliminary status'. By 1924, the preparation for University status was complete on the academic side, and it was thought that only the perfection of detail would be required before the University was established in 1926. In that year, however, there had begun 'the battle of the sites'. One broad and influential group insisted on the location of the University in Colombo. But, against this, there were others who favoured the Dumbara Valley near Kandy. After much debate the Legislative Council came out in favour of the latter opinion and appointed a commission to work out the details. These events sufficed to delay in the setting up of the University and when the report of the Commission appeared in 1930, impending constitutional changes in the Island's Government imposed a still further delay. Moreover, in the years immediately following, objections were voiced to the Dumbara site and as a result it was not till 1938 that it was finally decided to situate the University as a residential unit in Peradeniya.

In 1940, Sir Ivor Jennings succeeded Professor Marrs as Principal. By now the Second World War had begun and the need for a University had become more urgent. Steps were, therefore, taken to bring quickly to fruition the plans which had been in preparation for so long, and in 1942, the University of Ceylon, though still located in Colombo, was finally established, with Sir Ivor Jennings as its first Vice-Chancellor. The 'preliminary status' as a University College had lasted for twenty years - far longer than any of its founders had contemplated.

The facilities which existed at the inauguration of the University consisted of the Faculties of Arts, Oriental Studies, Science and Medicine. Faculties of Agriculture and Law were added some years later, and in 1950, the Faculty of Engineering was formed using accommodation available at the Ceylon Technical College.

When the war ended in 1946, plans were once more set on foot to construct a residential University at Peradeniya. The Vice-Chancellor, Sir Ivor Jennings, so energetically addressed himself to this task that the transfer to the hills began as early as October 1952. Initially, however, only the Faculties of Arts, Oriental Studies, Law and Agriculture were moved to the new campus as accommodation was limited to four Halls of Residence for men, i.e. Marrs, Arunachalam, Jayatilaka and Peiris, and one Hall of Residence for women, i.e. Hilda Obeyesekera. Besides, the laboratories had yet to be built and houses for the several categories of University staff were in short supply.

'Bringing the Science Faculty to Peradeniya' was what the University administration sought to effect in the remaining years of the 1950's. Sir Ivor Jennings, however, was not present when the shift finally materialized in 1961, for he had resigned in January 1955 to take up the Mastership of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and Sir Nicholas Attygalle had been appointed to succeed him. Hardly had the difficulties associated with the transfer to Peradeniya been overcome than fresh problems arose. The implementation of the Free Education Act in 1945 had greatly augmented the size of the school-going population, and by the end of the 1950's, the number seeking entry to the University had begun to show a marked annual increase. In the meantime, both residential and teaching accommodation in the campus had been expanded. But, by 1961, it had become apparent that the existing facilities could not cope with the added demand. A University constructed for six-hundred students was being called on to cater to the needs of four times that number. Accordingly, it was decided to have Science and Medical Faculties in both Colombo and Peradeniya, and to permit a small number of arts students to attend lectures as 'external students'. These arrangements, however, soon proved inadequate. From 1960: it had become the University policy to provide instructions in three media, i.e., English, Sinhala and Tamil, and as a consequence larger numbers began to take the entrance examinations and to satisfy the conditions for admission to the University.

To meet the exigencies of this new situation three further steps were taken. Firstly, a second Arts Faculty was set up in Colombo. Secondly, residential requirements were so modified as to permit students to spend only two years in a Hall of Residence, and third, provision was made for candidates to take University examinations as genuine "externals", i.e., without attendance at university lectures.

Even these arrangements, however, could not for long satisfy the demand for places. By 1964 - 1965 the number of students in the Peradeniya Campus had reached 4,300, and the total in Colombo stood in the region of 3,000.

In 1964, a great change was effected in the mode of entrance to the University. The University Preliminary Examination on which students were selected up to 1963, was discontinued and selections were made on the results of the G.C.E. (Advanced Level) Examination conducted by the Department of Examinations. Nearly 4,000 students were admitted to the Arts and Oriental Studies Faculties. As an emergency measure, accommodation had to be found at the Racecourse, Reid Avenue, Colombo.

The Engineering Faculty housed in new buildings was shifted to Peradeniya in October, 1964.

With the passing of the Higher Education Act of 1966, University Education was controlled by the National Council of Higher Education. Each University was governed by a Board of Regents, and Academic control being vested in the University Senate.

Under the provisions of the Higher Education Act, the Colombo Branch of the University of Ceylon assumed the Status of a separate University with effect from 1st October, 1967.

With the operation of University of Ceylon Act. No. 1 of 1972, with effect from 15th February, 1972, the former University of Ceylon became the Peradeniya Campus of the new University established under the Act.

The University of Peradeniya was established by Act No. 16 of 1978. This Act became effective from 1st January, 1979. The Officers and Authorities of the University of Peradeniya are listed below.

UNIVERSITY OF SRI JAYEWARDENEPURA

Introductory

The Vidyodaya University of Ceylon came into existence on January 1, 1959, on the enactment of the Vidyodaya University and Vidyalkara University Act No.45 of 1958. This Act, together with the Ceylon University Ordinance, was repealed with effect from October 1, 1966, by the Higher Education Act No. 20 of 1966, which provided for the old university to be constituted as 'transferred' university within the meaning of the new Act. In pursuance of the new Act, University and higher education was coordinated with the state through the National Council of Higher Education, a Corporation made up of a Chairman and 8 members appointed by the Governor-General, the Vice-Chancellors of the Universities and a Representative of the Ministry of Education.

The Vidyodaya University was formally inaugurated on February 18, 1959, at a ceremony presided over by the Chancellor of the University. The nucleus of the University was Vidyodaya Pirivena of Maligakanda, Colombo which was founded in 1873 by the late Ven. Hikkaduwe Sri Sumangala Nayaka Thero with the assistance of the Vidyadhara Sabha formed to promote and disseminate the knowledge of Buddhism and oriental authors among both Ceylonese and foreigners. It was in recognition and appreciation of the work done by this institution that it was raised to University status in 1959 and pride of place was given to Buddhist and oriental learning at the University.

With the implementation of the University of Ceylon Act, No.1 of 1972 on 15th February, 1972 the existing Universities and the School of Technology, Katubedda were amalgamated into one integrated University of Ceylon. The former Universities and Katubedde School of Technology assumed the status of Campuses in the newly integrated University.

With the implementation of the University Act No.16 of 1978 on 1st January 1979, Vidyodaya Campus of University of Sri Lanka was elevated to University status and re-named University of Sri Jayewardenepura.

University of Sri Jayewardenepura is situated at Gangodawila. 12.8 km. from Metropolitan Colombo on an area of 20.8 ha. More land has been acquired and further expansion is envisaged in future.

UNIVERSITY OF KELANIYA - SRI LANKAHISTORY

In recognition of the contribution made to the cause of education and national culture during the past 84 years by the Vidyalkara Pirivena from its inception in 1875, it was raised to University status as Vidyalkara University of Ceylon on 1st January 1959, by the Act No. 45 of 1958.

The Vidyalkara Pirivena was started by the Ven. Ratmalane Sri Dhammaloka Maha Thero and the Ven. Ratmalane Sri Dharmarama Nayaka Thero. This Seat of Learning has remained the Chief Centre of Theravada Buddhism and attracted many scholars from abroad. Although the Vidyalkara Pirivena was predominantly a Buddhist institution, it kept its doors wide open to students of any country irrespective of caste, colour or creed. It is worthy of record that two well-known members of the Anglican Clergy, one of whom has made lasting contributions to Sinhalese literature, were alumni of the Vidyalkara Pirivena.

The Act No.45 of 1958 by which the University was established was repealed by the Higher Education Act, No. 20 of 1966 and again it was repealed by the University of Ceylon Act, No.1 of 1972, which provided for the old Universities to be constituted as sections of a single integrated university under the title of the University of Ceylon. According to the provisions of this Act this institution was named as the Vidyalkara Campus of the University of Ceylon, with effect from 15th February 1972.

Act No.16 of 1978, which repealed the old act, again named the Institution as University of Kelaniya Sri Lanka.

INSTITUTE OF AESTHETIC STUDIES UNIVERSITY OF KELANIYA - SRI LANKA

46, Horton Place, Colombo 7. Tel. 693933

HISTORY

The origins of the present Institute of Aesthetic Studies go back to the year 1893 when the Ceylon Technical College was opened with Engineering, Commerce, Art and Crafts as its subjects. The 1940 - 41 handbook of the Ceylon Technical College mentions the names of J.D.A. Perera and David Paynter as the persons in-charge of the Art Section. During the period 1944 - 48 a high standard was achieved in the Art and Crafts Section. Consequently this section was removed from the Ceylon Technical College to premises No.46, Horton Place, under the name "The Government College of Art" with J.D.A. Perera as its first Principal. On October 1st 1952, two more new sections, Dancing and Music, were added to it. In the year 1953, the Government College of Art became an independent Institute under the new name, "Government Department of Art", free of the administration of the Technical College with J.D.A. Perera as its Head.

On October 1965, the Government Department of Art was converted into three divisions, namely, the College of Art, Music and Dancing, once again under the directorship of the Director General of Education. Lionel Edirisinghe became the Head of the Music Section and Pani Bharatha the Head of the Dancing Section.

In order to systematize Aesthetic Education with a view to meet the demands of a developing country and also to protect and foster national culture, the Government gave due consideration to the issue by raising this Institute to University Status under Section: 85(4)(u) of the University Act No:1 of 1972.

Accordingly, the School of Art, Music and Dancing and the Ramanathan Academy of Music came to be known as the Institute of Aesthetic Studies. While the Ramanathan Academy in Jaffna is affiliated to the Jaffna Campus of the University of Sri Lanka, the rest functioned as an independent Institute directly responsible to the Vice-Chancellor.

Subsequently, the Institute was re-established on 01.01.1980 by the Institute of Aesthetic Studies Ordinance, No.10 of 1979, made under Section 140 read with Section 18 of the Universities Act, No.16 of 1978. The Institute now functions under a Director with a Board of Management. It is affiliated to the University of Kelaniya.

The Open University of Sri Lanka enrolled its first batch of students in 1980. Established by the Sri Lankan government and functioning under the University Grants Commission it is an integral part of the university system of the country. The University's main campus is located on a 16-hectare site at Nawala, about three kilometres south-east from the centre of Colombo.

It is essentially a distance teaching university offering programmes of study leading to Certificates, Diplomas, Degrees and Postgraduate Degrees. It is also offers discrete or stand-alone courses in various fields.

The purpose of the Open University of Sri Lanka is to provide higher education through distance education methods, which enables the support of a large number of students, including those who are employed. Certain requirements have to be fulfilled by prospective students for enrolment in high level academic programmes. On the other hand exemptions from courses in academic programmes are offered for qualifications recognised by the university. It should be noted that, as an alternative to GCE (A/L) examination, each faculty has introduced a foundation programme of two years minimum duration. The successful completion of the foundation programme will enable students to register for Degree or Diploma programme in the same faculty.

The Open University of Sri Lanka consists of three faculties: the Faculty of Engineering Technology, the Faculty of Humanities & Social Sciences and the Faculty of Natural Sciences.

The Faculty of Engineering Technology conducts several Certificate programme in the area of Apparel Technology and Textile Technology; Diploma programme in Engineering Technology (Agricultural, Automobile, Civil, Communication, Computer, Electrical, Electronic, Manufacturing and Textile); Foundation programme in Technology; Degree programme in Engineering Technology (B. Tech.) (Agricultural, Civil, Computer, Electrical, Electronic and Mechanical); Postgraduate Diploma in (Agricultural Engineering, Construction Management and Industrial Engineering); Master of Technology Degrees in Construction Management and in Industrial Engineering: M.Phil. and Ph.D. programme.

The Faculty of Humanities & Social Science conducts Certificate programme in Pre-school Education, Entrepreneurship & Small Business Management, Professional English, Journalism, and Tourism Operations; Advanced Certificate in Pre-school Education; Foundation programme in Social Science; Diploma programme in Management and in English; Degree programme in Law (LL.B), in Legal Policy and in Social Sciences; Postgraduate Diploma programmes in Management and Education; Master's Degree programme in Education (M.Ed.)

The Faculty of Natural Sciences conducts Certificate programme in Wildlife Conservation & Management; Advanced Certificate programme in Laboratory Technology, Foundation programme in Science; Bachelor's Degree in Science, Education in Natural Sciences and in Nursing; M.Phil. programme and Ph.D. programme.

The system of education discourages direct lectures and utilises multi-media approach; a complete programme of study is primarily delivered through printed lesson materials, supported by discussion classes, audio-visual materials, assignments etc. and by examinations. This system of education demands a limited presence of students at the university and therefore is suited for employed persons.

The Open University of Sri Lanka reaches out to its students through its Regional, Study and Teaching Centres, located islandwide. These centres provide facilities for the issue of application forms for enrolment, registration, distribution of course material, counselling, discussion classes and examinations. In addition, the Regional Centres and some of the Study Centres have limited laboratory facilities, audio-visual resources, mini libraries and elementary computer facilities.

JAFFNA COLLEGE VADDUKODDAI

This name applies to an educational complex which started in 1823 following the arrival of Missionaries sent by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions in 1816. It started as the Batticotta Seminary, continued as High School from 1855 to 1872, and was named Jaffna College from 1872. From that time, it was engaged in higher education like its predecessor, The Batticotta Seminary. At first, it granted its own diplomas, later it was affiliated to the Universities of Calcutta and Madras.

In 1911, it shrank itself to a High School till 1919. However, in 1919, Intermediate classes were introduced and in 1946 B.A. and B.Sc. classes were started. At first, it prepared candidates for the External Examinations of London University and, later, when those were abolished, for the External Examinations of the Ceylon University. The Advanced Level Examination classes for the external examination of the London University have been re-introduced as from August, 1978. The College is also a centre for the external examinations of the Associated Examining Board of Hampshire, U.K.

In 1960, the Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society was set up in co-operation with the Christa Seva Ashram for the study of contemporary social and religious issues and to help the Christian Church in the region to meet its responsibilities.

In 1974, a Technical Institute was opened with Engineering Section at Vaddukoddai and the Agricultural Section at Maruthanamadam.

On 19th August, 1974 the Government took over a large portion of the buildings and activities of the College. At the time of take over there functioned a Junior School, a Senior School, Degree Classes, Classes in Business Studies, Engineering Classes in the Technical Institute at Vaddukoddai, Agricultural Classes at Maruthanamadam. The Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society is also at Maruthanamadam.

So, they now function as Jaffna College, the Junior and the Senior School as High School Department, the Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society and the Engineering and Agricultural Classes under the Technical Institute.

A Board of Directors is in overall charge and a Council in charge of the Technical Institute. The Christian Institute is managed by a separate Board.

The Evelyn Rutnam Institute for Inter-Cultural Studies : On the 13th June 1979, the Evelyn Rutnam Institute founded by Dr James T. Rutnam was vested in the College. It is managed by a separate Board of Council. The Board of Directors of Jaffna College is in overall charge of this Institute.

In June, 1990 the General Arts Qualifying (GAQ) Classes recommenced at Jaffna College. Students are prepared for the external examinations of the University of Peradeniya.

A branch School of Jaffna College was established at Paranthan on the 23rd May, 1990. It is a Primary School catering for the needs of the students in the Paranthan Kilinochchi areas.

The College

The College, at present, is mostly the High School Department, which is private and non fee-levying providing Junior and Senior Secondary education from Year 1 to Year 13 (Grade 1 - 12).

THE CHRISTIAN INSTITUTE FOR THE STUDY OF RELIGION AND SOCIETY

The Institute was established in 1960 for the study of contemporary social and religious issues. Managed by a Board in which the Board of Directors of Jaffna College, the Ashram, The Christian Theological Seminary of Sri Lanka and Institute for Lay People and the three major Protestant denominations are represented. The Institute organizes seminars, study conferences, consultations and public lectures on matters of vital, social and religious concern; provides opportunities for contact with people of other faiths (particularly Hinduism) and initiates discussions on common issues and undertakes social surveys to investigate traditional patterns, changes, new-needs and problems. Its Bulletin, Religious and Social, Issues has appeared regularly since 1962. The Institute is located at the Christian Theological Seminary at Chunnakam and has a library.

The Technical and Agricultural Institute

The schemes of the Technical Institute, Vaddukoddai and the Agricultural Institute, Maruthanamadam are the Tertiary Educational parts of the Jaffna College Educational Complex which were established in 1972 by the joint collaboration of the Board of Trustees, Boston, U.S.A. and the Board of Directors of Jaffna College, Vaddukoddai, Sri Lanka.

The garment industry has become Sri Lanka's main export oriented industry manufacturing a wide range of high quality apparel. According to the Ministry of Industrial Development and the Board of Investment, 687 garment factories were in operation by the end of 1994. Of these, 375 garment factories were registered with the Ministry of Industrial Development and 312 garment factories were serviced by the Board of Investment. The latter included 165 factories set up under the Two Hundred Garment Factory Programme. Of the BOI garment factories, 97 were approved under Section 17 of the BOI Law (Special Incentive Scheme). Fifty factories were in operation under Section 16 of the BOI Law (General Incentive Scheme).

The direct employment opportunities generated by the garment sector, largely for rural youth, amounted to about 225,000. Exports of garments, which amounted to Rs. 24,287 million or 31 per cent of Sri Lanka's total export earnings in 1990, rose to Rs. 68,945 million or 44 per cent of the total export earnings of the country in 1994. Tea, rubber and coconut together accounted for only 22 per cent of total export earnings in 1994. The expansion of the garment industry brought about a diversification of Sri Lanka's export structure, which had overwhelmingly relied on traditional agricultural exports for many decades. The industry has been the main gross foreign exchange earner, displacing tea to second place, since 1986.

The industry had demonstrated a degree of maturity with improved competitiveness, in the recent past. The challenge facing the industry at present is the urgent need to improve its ability to withstand increasing international competition with the possible phasing out of the Multifibre Agreement (MFA) under the Uruguay Round Agreement on Textiles and Clothing over a ten year period directed towards creating complete free trade in textiles and clothing by the year 2005.

Tea production reached a level of 242 million kg. in 1994 indicating an increase of 4 per cent over the production of the previous year. This was the highest ever production recorded so far. Favourable weather conditions that prevailed during the year under review coupled with better management, contributed to the improved performance. The output of low grown teas, which increased by 28 per cent to 112 million kg. in 1993, further rose by 5 per cent to 118 million kg. in 1994. The output of high grown teas rose by 6 per cent to record 77 million kg., while that of medium grown teas virtually remained at the 1993 level. Meanwhile, the CTC (cut, tear and curl) tea production expanded by 40 per cent to 11.2 million kg. in 1994. Consequently, the share of CTC teas increased to 4 per cent of the total production in 1994 from 3 per cent in 1993.

The quality and price competitiveness of Sri Lanka's apparel products have been reflected in their ability to enter sophisticated markets. About 92 per cent of Sri Lanka's garments are exported to the USA and EEC. The USA was Sri Lanka's largest importer with a share of 61 per cent of Sri Lanka's exports in 1994. The EEC's share was the second largest with 32 per cent. The other markets where apparel exporters have established a foot-hold included Canada, Japan and South Korea.

Country quota availability and utilization rates in respect of USA, EEC and Canada are given in Tables 1.25, 1.26 and 1.27 respectively.

Under the Two Hundred Garment Factory programme, 165 enterprises were in commercial operation providing employment for about 71,088 persons by the end of December 1994, while 9 enterprises were at various stages of implementation. Capital outlay committed to the programme by the private sector is estimated at Rs. 5,380 million. Export earnings of these enterprises amounted to Rs. 32,424 million or 54 per cent of the total textile and garment exports of the BOI industries during 1994.

TEA

Fertilizer usage in the tea sector which increased significantly to 147,200 metric tons in 1993, declined to 131,000 metric tons in 1994.

The subsidy rates for new planting in the three elevational categories remained at Rs. 36,000 per hectare during 1994. Meanwhile, replanting subsidy rates too remained at Rs. 57,000 per hectare for low elevation areas and at Rs. 67,000 per hectare for high and medium elevations. The total extent replanted and newly planted decreased by 5 per cent and 10 per cent, respectively, to 1,239 hectares and 1,450 hectares in 1994. The total subsidies disbursed by the Tea Small Holdings Development Authority (TSHDA) during the year for replanting increased by 13 per cent to Rs. 33 million, while subsidies for new planting declined by 16 per cent to Rs. 42 million. Meanwhile, disbursements under the Tea Factory Development Subsidy scheme declined further by 54 per cent to Rs. 21 million in 1994.

The Sri Lanka Tea Board continued to operate the subsidy scheme introduced in 1992 for factory modernisation for the production of CTC teas, under which 70 per cent (85 per cent in the case of factories located in medium elevation areas) of the cost of machinery is subsidised. In addition, an incentive of 15 per cent of the cost of CTC machines was granted to factories which installed such machinery and commissioned production of CTC teas on or before 1st October, 1994. The payment was made only after three months of continuous production from the date of commencement.

The average cost of production (COP) of made tea in 1994 has been estimated at Rs. 73.83 per kg., a decrease of 3 per cent over the COP of the previous year.

 (d) Tea Commissioner has terminated the registration of new extents under tea from 1st January, 1993 onwards.

The average gross price of all teas at the Colombo Auctions declined by 5 per cent to Rs. 65.12 per kg. in 1994 from Rs. 68.88 per kg. in 1993. However, the average export (f.o.b.) price increased marginally to Rs. 91.32 per kg., the low prices at the Colombo Tea Auctions and the resulting continuous negative profit margins for the fourth successive year were very much a cause for concern amongst tea growers and manufacturers. The private sector that dominated the low grown was affected the most. The Government in consideration of these unfavourable price trends, appointed a Special Presidential Commission of Inquiry to investigate into the declining prices realized at the Colombo Tea Auctions.

The tea cess remained unchanged at Rs. 2.00 per kg. during 1994. The total cess collected during the year increased by 5 per cent to Rs. 469 million, from Rs. 446 million in the previous year.

Rubber production in 1994 is estimated at 105 million kg. reflecting a 1 per cent growth over the previous year.

The output of sheet and crepe rubber increased during the year. Sheet rubber, which accounted for 42 per cent of the total output, increased by 1 per cent to 44 million kg. while the output of crepe rubber rose by 4 per cent to 35 million kg. In contrast, technically specified rubber production declined by 6 per cent to 13 million kg.

The total quantity of fertilizer used by the rubber sector amounted to 16,700 metric tons in 1994, indicating a decrease of 7 per cent over the previous year.

The total extent registered under rubber decreased marginally by 794 hectares to 191,554 hectares in 1994, while the extent under tapping increased by 4 per cent to 151,600 hectares. During the year, 1,374 hectares were replanted by the small holders, as against 2,084 hectares replanted in the previous year. The extent newly planted in 1994 also declined by 40 per cent to 538 hectares. Following the reduced extents replanted and newly planted during the year, the amount of subsidy disbursed for replanting fell by 38 per cent to Rs. 65 million while the subsidy disbursed for new planting declined by 32 per cent to Rs. 22 million when compared with 1993.

The average yield of rubber dropped from 714 kg. per hectare in 1993 to 692 kg. per hectare in 1994. The decline in the year yield was due to a loss of tapping days caused by a shortage of experienced tappers.

The average export (f.o.b.) price of all grades of rubber recorded an increase of 17 per cent from Rs. 44.34 per kg. in 1993 to Rs. 51.81 per kg. in 1994. The annual average price of RSS1 at the Colombo Auctions rose by 42 per cent to Rs. 50.48 per kg., while the average price of RSS2 increased by 47 per cent to Rs. 49.57 per kg. in 1994. Average monthly price started improving at the Colombo Auctions from September onwards and recorded an all time high of Rs. 66.17 per kg. in December, 1994.

According to the Rubber Development Department, the cost of production of rubber in the private sector including smallholdings is provisionally estimated to be Rs. 24.90 per kg. in 1994, an increase of 8 per cent when compared with the previous year.

The domestic consumption of rubber, which has been steadily increasing since 1985, recorded a further increase of 3 per cent to 34 million kg. in 1994 and accounted for 32 per cent of the total production during the year. A significant improvement in the activities of the rubber-based manufacturing sector was the major contributory factor for the higher level of local consumption of rubber during the year.

With a view to ensuring a more efficient service to rubber smallholders, the Rubber Development Department was established on 1st June 1994 by amalgamating the Rubber Control Department and the Advisory Services Department of the Rubber Research Board of Sri Lanka.

COCONUT

Coconut production provisionally estimated at 2,610 million nuts in 1994, was 21 per cent higher than the production in the previous year. This is the highest level of production recorded since 1986. The increase in nut production may be attributed to the lagged effect of the favourable weather conditions that prevailed during 1993.

Following increased nut production, the nut equivalent of desiccated coconut production increased by 41 per cent to reach 380 million nuts, the highest on record since 1986. The nut equivalent of coconut oil production, which has followed a declining trend since 1990, improved significantly with a near three-fold increase to register 480 million nuts in 1994. The nut equivalent of copra exports and the exports of fresh nut too increased by 29 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively to 31 million and 26 million nuts in 1994. Domestic nut consumption has been estimated to have increased by 1 per cent to 1,687 million nuts, accounting for 65 per cent of the total production in 1994.

All planting activities carried out under the various subsidy schemes, except new planting, experienced a setback for the fourth consecutive year. The extent newly planted in 1994 increased by 45 per cent to 657 hectares. In contrast, the extents rehabilitated and replanted declined by 53 per cent and 46 per cent, respectively, to 1,062 hectares and 842 hectares.

According to the regulations imposed in the second half of 1993, the extents under-planted do not qualify for the replanting subsidy unless the old stand of coconut trees is completely uprooted within the first stage of establishing the new stand. The reluctance on the part of growers to uproot the old stand led to a decline in the extents qualifying for the replanting subsidy.

The extent of coconut land inter-cropped during the year showed a five-fold increase to 854 hectares. This phenomenal increase was achieved as a result of an increase in the range of crops which qualify for the inter-cropping subsidy.

Fertilizer used in the coconut sector declined by 14 per cent to 30,200 metric tons in 1994. However, the issues by the fertilizer stores of the Coconut Cultivation Board (CCB) increased by 22 per cent to 2,085 metric tons during the year. The number of nurseries maintained by the CCB remain unchanged at 29. The number of coconut seedlings issued by these nurseries, which recorded an increase of 7 per cent in 1993, rose by a further 37 per cent to 2.36 million seedlings in 1994.

The average wholesale price of fresh coconuts in the Colombo market dropped by 22 per cent to Rs. 3.67 per nut in 1994 in response to the increased nut production. The average export (f.o.b.) price of the three major kernel products, which dropped by 2 per cent in the previous year, recorded a further 10 per cent drop to Rs. 5.67 per nut in 1994. However, export earnings from kernel products increased by 30 per cent to SDR 35 million compared with SDR 27 million earned in 1993. The export earnings from other coconut products too increased by 29 per cent to SDR 18 million in 1994. Meanwhile, the average cost of production which increased by 3 per cent in 1993 rose by a further 3 per cent to Rs. 2.09 per nut in 1994.

Under the D.C. Mill Development Programme, a further sum of Rs. 3 million was disbursed among eight millers during the year. In 1994, another 480 hectares of newly planted coconut were insured under the insurance scheme initiated by the Agricultural Insurance Board in collaboration with the CCB in 1993.

SPICES

World trade in Spices was around 750,000 tonnes. Around 90% of spices is traded in whole form and the rest as essential oils, oleo resins and ground spices. Essential oils are generally in perfumery, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals, and to flavour food and drinks. The spice sector has been continually facing competition from synthetics, but demand is sustained due to the growing consumer preference for natural products.

Spice consumption continues to grow, influenced by population growth, increased disposable incomes, changed culinary and social habits, the development of new end uses and the spread of knowledge of the uses of spices for medical and other purposes. In the United States the biggest consumer of spices in the world, consumption increased from 223,000 tonnes in 1980 to 346,000 tonnes in 1990, an increase of 35%.

While spice consumption in the Middle East and Japan showed an increasing trend, the USA and the EEC continued to be the most important markets for spices.

Due to the continuing difficulties on obtaining reliable data on production of spices, export statistics are often used as an indicator of production. Domestic consumption in spice producing countries is generally low, with the exception of India for most spices and Indonesia for cloves.

Sri Lanka's main spice exports are cinnamon, cloves and pepper. Spices accounted for export earnings of around Rs. 1,570 million in 1990.

According to the data provided by the Department of Export Agriculture, the extends under spices with the exception of nutmeg recorded increases during 1990. The area under pepper increased substantially by 9% to 9,069 hectares in 1990.

The Mid-Country Perennial Crops Development Project (PERCRODEP) which was initiated in late 1989 with the assistance of the Asian Development Bank commenced its operations in 1990. The project intends to promote commercial production and improve marketing facilities of perennial crops which includes pepper, nutmeg, cocoa, coffee and cardamoms.

The performance of planting activities carried out under the Export Agriculture Crop Assistance Scheme (EAC) was rather mixed in 1990. Under the EAC the total extent replanted increased by 56% to 53 ha. while the total extent newly planted declined by 8% to 903 ha.

CINNAMON

Sri Lanka continued to be the world's largest producer of cinnamon. The quantity exported fell by 12% from 7,417 tonnes in 1989 to 6,512 tonnes in 1990. However, the value increased by 10% from Rs. 1,058 million in 1989 to Rs. 1,188 million in 1990. Mexico continued to be the largest market for Sri Lankan cinnamon accounting for 3,115 tonnes or around 47% of all cinnamon exports. The USA was the second largest market with 691 tonnes which represented a marginal increase over the 1989 figure of 688 tonnes.

The quantity of cinnamon quills exported declined marginally from 5,847 tonnes in 1989 to 5,289 tonnes in 1990. However, the export earnings from this item increased from Rs. 935 million in 1989 to Rs. 1,061 million in 1990.

The export of cinnamon quillings fell drastically from 1,040 tonnes in 1989 to 163 tonnes in 1990. Export earnings also declined from Rs. 107 million to Rs. 19 million.

The Board of Investment (BOI) of Sri Lanka : Spearheading Export-led Economic Policies

The Board of Investment (BOI) of Sri Lanka - the successor to the Greater Colombo Economic Commission (estb. 1978), is the principal, foreign direct investment approving agency in Sri Lanka. The BOI which is responsible for the location of foreign and specific local investments, both within and outside the Export Processing Zones, is a special autonomous and statutory body functioning directly under the President of Sri Lanka.

In keeping with the policy of the government, the BOI has geared itself to the task of assisting not only foreign investors - but local investors, too, who are engaged in export-oriented industries, in projects designed to develop the infrastructure of the country, for enterprises prepared to move into the provincial and rural areas, and for projects related to the development of tourism and recreation, agriculture, dairy and livestock development services and electronics.

The BOI obtains its powers from the BOI Act No.4 of 1978 Section 17 of the Act which empowers the BOI to grant special concessions, modifying or varying the provisions of the Inland Revenue and the Exchange Control Acts and the Customs Ordinance. Although the scope of the BOI is now considerably expanded, approvals granted under Section 17 still denote special significance for investments.

The above act and subsequent legislation have vested the BOI with wide-ranging powers and its main objectives being:

- to foster and generate the economic development of Sri Lanka
- to widen and strengthen the base of the economy
- To encourage and promote foreign investment within Sri Lanka
- to diversify the sources of foreign exchange earnings and to increase export earnings
- to encourage and foster the establishment and development of industrial, agricultural and commercial enterprises in Sri Lanka
- to administer the affairs of the Area of Authority - an area of 425 sq. km. in extent, to the north-east of the commercial capital of Colombo

One-Stop Service Centre

The BOI acts as a "One-Stop" service centre for the investor, providing advice and assistance at every stage of the investment process. It is the only organization an investor need contact. The BOI assists in;

- Providing information and guidance prior to submission of a project application.
- Providing incentives to manufacturers of industrial products, exporters of goods - both industrial and agricultural services and for infrastructure and tourist-related projects.
- Providing assistance with the start up of a project, Site selection, advice on factory building, provision of telecommunications, electricity and water supply facilities.
- Liaising and assisting the investor, after the start-up of the project with services such as import/export clearance, recommendation of visas, provision of labour, etc.
- Assisting/advising investors when establishing expansion units.

Export Processing Zones and the Export Effort

Initially, in order to promote exports and develop the area just outside Colombo, the BOI has established two Export Processing Zones at Katunayake and Biyagama. Both zones are well-developed industrial estates, with good access roads, telecommunications - fax, telephone, telex - stable electricity and a good water supply. Most importantly, a labour-force which is intelligent, literate, hard-working and comparatively inexpensive lives in close proximity to the zones.

After the success of the first two zones, with a view to taking the development process into the provinces, the BOI, in June 1991, inaugurated its third zone at Koggala in the south of Sri Lanka close to the Port of Galle.

The Kandy Industrial Park, located 123km away from Colombo is being developed as a "Science Park" for the location of electronic industries. The Malwatta Export Processing Park, sited 35Km. from Colombo in Attanagalla was established in 1997.

The Industrial Townships Development Programme is being initiated by the BOI to meet the growing demand for modern industrial facilities by existing & potential investors. Construction activity for the establishment of the Mirigama EPZ (104 ha.) is currently in progress. The new EPZ at Mirigama will involve the development of the triangle linking Biyagama, Kelaniya & Mirigama as an Industrial township.

INDUSTRIES SECTION

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IN SRI LANKA 1998

OVERALL TRENDS

Industrial output grew by 7.5 per cent in 1998 as against 10.2 per cent in 1997, reflecting a strong performance of domestic market oriented industries, such as refined petroleum products, cement, building materials, wheat flour, animal feed, liquor, milk products, pharmaceuticals, beverages and chemicals. Export oriented industries experienced a mixed performance. Fish and rubber products maintained positive growth rates, while diamonds, gems and jewellery indicated export declines. Exports of the apparel industry, which continued to expand in the face of global competition, tended to slow down towards the end of the year. Factory industries, which accounted for 84 per cent of the manufacturing sector, contributed 28 per cent to the overall economic growth in 1998. Capacity in the industrial sector increased by 4 per cent in 1998. The labour productivity in the non-BOI sector is also estimated to have increased by 4 per cent in 1998.

The growth in the industrial sector was achieved in the midst of a depressed global trading environment where the growth of international trade had declined by about two thirds following the East Asian financial crisis and subsequent economic problems in many countries including Russia, Japan and South and Central America. The larger devaluations of East Asian currencies caused by the crisis, lower labour costs and moderate inflation in the rest of the world intensified competition. But the faster depreciation of the rupee helped to maintain the competitiveness of domestic industry. The economic downturn in the Asia-Pacific region depressed the demand for exports of processed diamonds, jewellery and ceramic products. However, several key export oriented industries continued to perform reasonably well, as the major buyers, who looked for product quality and reliable supply sources, continued to place orders with Sri Lankan manufacturers. Several large exporters had strong marketing links with the major international buyers through their joint ventures. Nevertheless, industrialists had to offer higher discounts to remain competitive.

The series of policy measures introduced by the successive budgets, including fiscal incentives for advanced technology in industries, provision of foreign currency loans to non-BOI exporters and the liberalisation of textile imports, together with relatively low interest rates compared to the high rates in the past, had a favourable impact on industrial growth. Production capacity has expanded and the industrial base has become more diversified. Benefiting from a removal of the duty on capital goods, imports of investment goods increased by 12 per cent to refurbish existing factories and to start new industries during the year. The increased spending on advanced technology has improved productivity in many industries, which has helped to off-set a modest acceleration of wages and salaries.

Some industrialists have adopted strategies through awareness programmes, waste reduction methods and skills development programmes to improve productivity. The moderate depreciation of the Sri Lanka rupee, reduction of domestic inflation and the relatively low cost of bank borrowings have also helped to improve external competitiveness. As considerable amounts of raw materials for manufacturing industries are imported from East Asian countries, the larger devaluation in some East Asian currencies has helped to reduce the cost of intermediate inputs. An improvement in labour relations in the manufacturing sector was also a favorable development in 1998. The significant improvements in basic industrial infrastructure such as electricity, telecommunication and port facilities and the progress made in improving infrastructure under the Industrial Parks Programme encouraged new entrants to industrial activities. A total of 201 large enterprises registered under the BOI and Ministry of Industrial Development commenced commercial operations during the year. Meanwhile, 37 enterprises ceased commercial operations temporarily owing to management problems and various other difficulties. Further development of the road and transport systems, port facilities and the communication network, in addition to timely upgrading of human skills and equipment, would be necessary for faster growth in this sector. The mismatch between demand for and supply of labour, and rigidities in the labour market have been a constraint to faster industrial expansion.

PRODUCTION

Based on the Industrial Production Survey - 1998 of the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (which covers 475 non-BOI enterprises), the industrial production of public sector enterprises and export data of BOI enterprises, the growth of industrial output in 1998 has been estimated at 7.5 per cent. According to the survey, the overall industrial output at current prices increased by 14 per cent. This gives an implicit price deflator of 6 per cent for factory industries. This reflected the rate of increase in cost of production in the industrial sector. The growth in industrial output in 1998 came mainly from the industrial categories of food, beverage and tobacco; chemical, rubber, petroleum and plastic products and textiles, wearing apparel and leather products. These categories contributed 86 per cent of the growth in industrial output.

PRIVATE SECTOR INDUSTRIES

Private sector industrial output grew by 6.9 per cent, down from the 12.1 per cent growth in the previous year and accounted for 93 per cent of total industrial production in 1998. The output growth of BOI industries is estimated at 6.4 per cent in 1998, compared to 19 per cent in the previous year. The domestic market oriented non-BOI industries expanded by 7.5 per cent compared to a 5.2 per cent growth in 1997. The expansion of private sector industries was in food, beverage and tobacco; chemicals, rubber, petroleum and plastic products; textiles, apparel and leather products and fabricated metal products. Employment in the non-BOI sector increased by 2.7 per cent during the year. The capacity utilisation of this sector was around 84 per cent, as in the previous year, while profitability declined from 14.9 per cent in 1997 to 12.5 per cent in 1998.

TEXTILES, APPAREL AND LEATHER PRODUCTS

The growth of the textiles, wearing apparel and leather products category (TWLP) in 1998 is estimated at 4.5 per cent, a significant slowing down from the 18.7 per cent in the previous year. This category contributed to 24.4 per cent of the growth in private sector industrial production in 1998. Shipments in excess of quotas, in the case of some quota items, to the USA became a matter for concern in quota administration and some manufacturers had to defer their exports until 1999. Hence, there was a stock build up at the end of the year. Year end stocks with the BOI firms increased by 12 per cent. The BOI apparel and textile industries registered a moderate output growth of 4.6 per cent during the year. The availability of apparel and textile quotas increased by 4.5 per cent in 1998. The rate of quota utilisation increased from 73.6 per cent in 1997 to 74.1 per cent in 1998. The elimination of duties on imported textiles helped to reduce customs delays and price increases of clothing in the domestic markets, but exposed the textile industry to open import competition. The problems of some factories were compounded, leading to the stoppage of operations and the redundancy of about 3,000 employees (Veytex and Pugoda). However, salaries continued to be paid to these employees.

Exports of textiles and apparel from Sri Lanka to the USA accounted for 2.1 per cent of the USA requirement and 60 per cent of total apparel and textile exports by Sri Lanka in 1998. Exports of apparel to the USA increased by 3.4 per cent from 322 million square meter equivalents (SME) in 1997 to 333 SME in 1998. Of these, 77 per cent are under quota. The value of these exports increased by 8.7 per cent, from US dollars 1,204 million in 1997 to US Dollars 1,308 million in 1998. There was a price gain of 5.5 per cent. This is a favorable development compared with a decline in the overall import price of apparel to the USA from all countries. Manufacturers were moving to higher value added items and Sri Lanka's apparel attracted higher prices in the USA under a highly competitive market environment. Other textile exports to the USA increased from 157 SME in 1997 to 195 SME, indicating 24 per cent growth. Exports of non-quota items increased by 25 per cent.

The total availability of quotas in 1998 increased by 4.5 per cent with a 3.2 per cent increase in the US quota, 13.3 per cent increase in the EU quota and 7.8 per cent increase in the Canadian quota. The quotas in respect of shirts and blouses, nightwear, underwear, terry and other pile towels, shop towels and fabrics, such as spun cell, woven and poplin, to the USA increased significantly during the year. In the EU market, the availability of quotas, except for men's and boys' woven shirts, increased in 1998. The reduction of quotas in the men's and boys' woven shirt category did not have significant impact on apparel exports because the utilisation rate of this category has been below 50 per cent. There were significant increases in the quotas for coats, jackets and rainwear, underwear, sleepwear and bath robes and bed sheets to the Canadian market. However, the quota in respect of high value added items such as coats for women and men, dressing gowns and trousers, did not reflect an adequate growth in 1998.

As in the previous year, the rate of utilisation of quotas shifted from low value added items to higher value added items. The quotas in the US market were fully utilised in respect of some items of coats, men's and boys' non-suits, women's and gents' coats, dresses, knit shirts and blouses, men's and boys' not-knit shirts, trousers and dressing gowns. In the Canadian market, the utilisation rates were high in the case of quota items of trousers, overalls and shorts. The largest demand for other quota items in 1998 was in the categories of skirts, nightwear, underwear, shop towels and trousers. The utilisation rates in respect of low value added items such as pillowcases, dish towels, not-knit shirts and blouses were low as manufacturers shifted into high value added items. However, the lower utilisation rates in respect of parkas, anoraks, windcheaters and fine suits has been mainly due to the inadequacy of the necessary technology and skills in Sri Lanka to manufacture these items with the required quality at competitive prices.

When the quota system is fully phased out by 2005, international competition is likely to be intense. In order to face this future challenge successfully, the industry needs to invest in new technology and enhance its skills to improve productivity. Improved information systems, would help the industry respond quickly to changing market conditions, particularly in preferences and designs.

FOOD, BEVERAGE AND TOBACCO

The food, beverage and tobacco sub-sector grew by 9.6 per cent and contributed 28 per cent to private sector industrial growth in 1998. Sub sectors such as food, liquor and beverage in this category registered higher output levels. The food sub sector grew further, reflecting higher production of wheat flour, milk products, animal feed, biscuits, sweets and desserts, sugar and processed meat products. The demand for wheat flour increased due to the increased price of rice and growth in food preparation industries. Improvement in quality and more effective distribution channels helped the milk products industry to grow. Some leading manufacturers in this industry operated three production shifts in order to meet the growing demand. The expansion of small scale poultry farming throughout the country increased the demand for animal feed. The introduction of a range of new products in chocolates, biscuits, confectioneries and processed meat were well received by the consumers. Effective advertising and improvements in packaging also helped to raise the demand for these products. With the expansion of capacity, the output of liquor grew by 9 per cent in 1998. A capacity expansion in the beer industry in 1998 enabled it to meet the growing demand effectively. Several new brands and varieties of beer were introduced during the year. Even though prices increased, this did not depress the demand for beer significantly. In Sri Lanka, beer consumption accounts for less than 10 per cent of the total alcohol consumption, whereas in developed countries this ratio is around 80 per cent. Hence, there appears to be untapped potential in the beer industry in Sri Lanka. The growth of this industry can be facilitated by issuing more licences to increase the network for retail sales of beer.

The beverage sub sector grew by 9 per cent, reflecting the growth of the tea processing and soft drinks industries. The tea processing industry benefited from attractive prices, particularly during the first half of the year. The output of the soft drink industry grew by 29 per cent. Effective advertising campaigns, introduction of new products and improvements in product packaging led to increased demand. The industry also saw improvements in productivity and in the distribution network. Improvements in refrigeration facilities and an increase in the vehicle fleet strengthened the distribution network. An improvement in the supply of fruits due to favourable weather conditions helped the fruit processing industry. With the introduction of new technology and the expansion of production capacity, the production of cordials, canned fruits and jams for export markets increased in 1998. However, the growth potential of this sector has not been fully exploited due to insufficient storage facilities, lack of commercial cultivation, quality seeds and closer integration between agriculture and industry. Tobacco processing remained sluggish for the second consecutive year. Smuggled cigarettes continued to be a major threat to this industry. The legal restrictions on advertising tobacco products and the greater awareness of tobacco related health problems also reduced the demand for cigarettes especially among the youth. The value of cigarette sales declined by 3.7 per cent, while production declined by 1.5 per cent in 1998.

CHEMICAL, PETROLEUM, RUBBER AND PLASTIC PRODUCTS

The Chemical, rubber and plastic products industry continued to grow, with a 11 per cent increase in output in 1998. Both BOI industries and domestic market oriented industries in this sector grew appreciably. In pharmaceuticals, the high quality and lower prices of domestic products helped the domestic industry to maintain its advantage over imports. Improvements in quality, better packaging and aggressive advertising campaigns helped to increase the demand for consumer products such as detergents, soaps, cosmetics and toothpaste.

The expansion of construction activities in 1998 raised the demand for paints, varnish, PVC and chemical products. The plastic products industry grew as an ancillary industry, supplying packaging materials to the other growing industries and trade. In addition, the domestic production of plastic furniture also increased in 1998. The demand for ayurvedic drugs continued to increase during the year.

OTHER PRODUCTS

The fabricated metal product category grew by 11 per cent. Despite the price competition in international markets, BOI manufacturers were able to sell their products in western markets due to the strong marketing links they had with major buyers. The domestic oriented industries, such as those manufacturing furniture and light engineering products, grew further in 1998. The increased substitution of steel based furniture for wooden items due to the scarcity of supply and high price of wood helped the steel furniture industry. Similarly, in construction activity, the use of aluminium instead of wood for products such as door and window frames and partitions increased owing to advantages of price, durability and appearance. The output of building materials increased by 9 per cent in 1998. The demand for electrical items and cables also increased with the growth in construction activities. The manufacture of boats and boat repair activities continued to increase in 1998 owing to increased orders placed by the government. However, as in the previous year, the fabrication of motor coaches and lorries and the manufacture of bulbs declined owing to competition from imports.

The output of non-metallic mineral products increased by 5 per cent, a slightly higher rate than the 4.4 per cent in 1997. The output of processed diamonds, gems and diamond studded jewellery and some ceramic products continued to decline due to depressed demand for these products from the Asia-Pacific region. The output of cement, concrete works, terra-cotta products, ceramic products and asbestos roofing and ceiling sheets increased in 1998. The production capacity of the cement industry expanded in 1998. The growth in building construction increased the demand for asbestos, concrete products and ceramic product such as wall and floor tiles, mosaic wall tiles, sanitaryware and insulators. Productivity in the ceramic sector improved with the use of new machinery. The domestic sales of ceramic tiles increased with intensified sales promotion. Sri Lanka at present supplies less than 2 per cent of the total requirement in the world market. There is substantial growth potential in this industry and attempts should be made to improve Sri Lanka's market share by improving its capacity to meet the requirements of a growing and competitive market.

The output of paper and paper products showed a significant growth owing to growing demand for printed materials, labels, exercise books and calendars, the increase in the circulation of newspapers and the introduction of new magazines. The expansion of other industries stimulated the demand for labels, corrugated cartons and paper boxes. Despite the increased supply of imported items, exercise book production increased owing to the improvement of quality as well as the price advantage over imported exercise books. The output of the wood and wood product category showed a slight decline in 1998, despite the total elimination of import duty on timber in 1996. The export oriented manufacturers were not able to reap the full benefit of this measure owing to increased competition in the international market for wood products. Although the domestic oriented wood products category registered a moderate growth during the year, the growth potential of the industry is severely constrained by the shortage in the domestic supply of timber.

PUBLIC SECTOR INDUSTRIES

The public sector industrial output grew by 16 per cent in 1998 compared to a contraction of 15 per cent in 1997. The higher growth reflected the contribution from the Ceylon Petroleum Corporation, which accounts for over 90 per cent of total public sector industrial output. The uninterrupted operation of the petroleum refinery resulted in a 18 per cent increase in the output of the Ceylon Petroleum Corporation in 1998. All public sector manufacturing enterprises, except Lanka Salt Ltd. and the National Paper Co. Ltd., have registered higher output levels during the year. Non-metallic mineral products registered the highest growth (30 per cent) followed by wood and wood products (23 per cent), chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products (18 per cent) and food, beverages and tobacco (5 per cent). However, production in the public sector paper and paper products category declined by 23 per cent.

With the establishment of latex collecting centers in rubber growing areas in 1997, the Sri Lanka Rubber Manufacturing and Exports Corporation Ltd. was able to purchase an increased volume of raw rubber, which enabled it to increase its output by 10 per cent in 1998. The output of the State Timber Corporation rose by 23 per cent. The Forest Department allocated more forest areas for felling operations during the year. The output of Sevanagala Sugar Industries Ltd. rose by 16 per cent in 1998, reflecting the increased supply of sugarcane. The area harvested by the Sevanagala factory increased to 2,422 hectares in 1998 from 2,377 hectares in 1997, while the quantity of cane crushed rose to 197,000 metric tons from 169,000 metric tons. The output of Lanka Mineral Sands Ltd. rose by nearly 51 per cent owing to the availability of more storage facilities and uninterrupted production in 1998, compared to the previous year in which production had been suspended for more than seven months due to the security related problems in the East. The output of Lanka Phosphate Ltd. increased by 24 per cent, mainly due to growing demand for phosphate, particularly from the domestic agricultural sector.

The output of Lanka Salt Ltd. declined by 22 per cent in 1998 mainly due to bad weather conditions. Output of the National Paper Co. Ltd. declined by 23 per cent due to the disruption to the power supply in the Valachchenai mill and the frequent breakdown of machinery at Embilipitiya.

VALUE ADDED AND CAPACITY UTILISATION

The value added in the industrial sector increased in nominal terms by 15.4 per cent in 1998 owing mainly to a reduction in the cost of imported raw materials. Value added, in real terms, increased by 7.5 per cent during the year. The value addition, as a percentage of total value of production, increased marginally to 37.5 per cent in 1998. The value added ratios in wood and wood products, non metallic mineral products and fabricated metal products were above 50 per cent. In the chemicals, petroleum, rubber and plastic products it was 24 per cent. In basic metal products it was 25 per cent. The value added ratios were relatively high in food, beverages and tobacco products; paper and paper products and other industrial products. Domestic value addition in the textiles, wearing apparel and leather products was 34 per cent. This has been increasing over the last five years.

The installed capacity of the non-BOI industrial sector expanded by a further 4.0 per cent in 1998. Benefitting from the removal of import duties on machinery and equipment under the Advanced Technology Incentive Programme and the continuation of the policy of a lower National Security Levy (0.5 per cent), the non-BOI industries have imported a considerable amount of machinery. As in the previous year, the highest capacity expansion (of 5.5 per cent) was in the textile, apparel and leather product sub sector. The installed capacity in many industrial categories showed improvements during the year. The major improvements were in food, beverage and tobacco products (3.9 per cent); paper and paper products (4.3 per cent); chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products (2.8 per cent); non-metallic mineral products (2.3 per cent) and basic metal products (3.1 per cent). The overall capacity utilisation ratio of the industrial sector remained unchanged at 84 per cent in 1998.

COST OF PRODUCTION, PROFITABILITY AND EMPLOYMENT

The average ex-factory profit ratio (profits as a percentage of ex-factory value of industrial production) of the 475 non-BOI firms declined from 14.9 per cent in 1997 to 12.5 per cent in 1998. This is due to the increase in cost of production as well as slow growth or decline in output prices. In absolute terms, wages, energy, raw material and other costs increased in 1998. The cost of imported raw materials as a percentage of total cost of production, declined marginally to 42.5 per cent in 1998 from 43.0 per cent in 1997. Many exporters had offered higher discounts to retain their export orders. The increase in the electricity cost following the imposition of GST also affected the profitability of the industrial sector. The profitability declined in many industrial categories during the year. Improvements in labour productivity in many industrial categories helped to avoid larger decline in profitability in the face of increased costs. The highest profitability was in the textile, apparel and leather product category (20.7 per cent). However, this was a decline from the 23.9 per cent in 1997. Profitability of the nonmetallic mineral products category declined from 14.8 per cent in 1997 to 9.4 per cent in 1998. The profitability of the paper and paper products category improved from 10.9 per cent in 1997 to 11.5 per cent in 1998 owing to a reduction of cost.

The labour cost, as a percentage of total cost of production, declined slightly from 11.8 per cent in 1997 to 11.6 in 1998. The share of energy costs increased from 4.5 per cent in 1997 to 4.7 per cent in 1998. The energy cost, in nominal terms, increased by 24.2 per cent during the year. Energy formed the principal element in the total cost of production of non-metallic mineral products; wood and wood products and basic metal products. The share of energy in the total cost of production is low in food, beverage and tobacco products and paper and paper products. The proportion of expenditure on interest declined slightly in 1998, from 3.0 per cent in 1997 to 2.5 per cent in 1998. Some companies however had obtained capital for investment in new projects at comparatively high costs and this share of interest cost in the total cost of production was relatively higher.

LABOUR PRODUCTIVITY IN INDUSTRY

The industrial production Survey of the Central Bank of Sri Lanka indicated an improvement of labour productivity by 4.1 per cent. Increases were seen in all major industrial categories. Measures have been put in place to improve labour productivity. These took the form of skills development programmes for workers. Upgrading of machinery, improved work conditions and improved management which have contributed to labour productivity. The labour productivity improved in food, beverage and tobacco products (5.3 per cent); textile, apparel and leather products (3.7 per cent); non-metallic mineral products (5.0 per cent) and paper and paper products (3.1 per cent).

EMPLOYMENT IN INDUSTRY

Employment in the industrial sector increased by 10.5 per cent in 1998, reflecting increased labour absorption in BOI and non-BOI industries. Employment in BOI industries increased by 14 per cent, while the employment in the non-BOI sector increased by 2.7 per cent. According to BOI sources, although employment opportunities for skilled labour were available in the export processing zones, the vacancies could not be filled due to the shortage of workers with the required skills. Some industries were able to reduce their casual labour without affecting the production during the year. The introduction of capital intensive new technology also helped to reduce the less productive workers. Employment in the industrial categories of wood and wood products and fabricated metal products increased by over 7 per cent. Employment increases were also seen in food, beverage and tobacco products (3.4 per cent), textile, apparel and leather products (3.7 per cent) and basic metal products (4.5 per cent). There has been a reduction of employment in non-metallic mineral products by 2.3 per cent in 1998.

INVESTMENT

FOREIGN INVESTMENT

The international environment for foreign private investment in the Asian region remained depressed. Nevertheless, Sri Lanka continued to attract a slightly higher amount of foreign private investment in 1998. The Board of Investment of Sri Lanka (BOI), which functions as the main government agency for the promotion of foreign investment, undertook several investment promotion missions, to the USA, India, Singapore, Germany, Italy, Thailand and Belgium in 1998. Business delegations from the Indian Chamber of Commerce and Industry, and the Confederation of Asia Pacific Chambers of Commerce visited Sri Lanka to search for new investment opportunities. Special missions from Australia, Germany and China also visited Sri Lanka to look for investment opportunities. The realised investment of the BOI industries increased by 17.6 per cent in 1998, from Rs. 27,375 million in 1997 to Rs. 32,209 million in 1998.

The BOI, under Section 17 of the BOI Law, approved 400 new investment projects, as compared to 328 projects approved in the previous year. The total investment commitment of approved projects increased from Rs. 73,607 million in 1997 to Rs. 158,107 million in 1998. Of the projects approved in 1998, 82 were entirely foreign owned, 108 were joint ventures and 210 were entirely domestically owned. The expected employment generation of these projects was estimated at 92,012 persons. The foreign component of these projects was about 72 per cent of the total approved investment in 1998. Australia, China, France, Hong Kong, Japan, Korea, the Netherlands, and the USA were the source countries for this investment. Among the approved projects in 1998, 131 projects were in the textile, apparel and leather product category, 34 in the food, beverage and tobacco category and 25 in the chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic product category, while the balance was in various other categories including services.

As in the previous year, the number of contracted projects also registered a considerable improvement. The BOI signed agreements in respect of 229 projects with an investment commitment of Rs. 48,635 million in 1998 compared to 185 projects with an investment commitment of Rs. 39,820 million in 1997. The foreign component was estimated at Rs. 25,847 million or 53 per cent of the total investment of the contracted projects. Of the 1,693 projects contracted up to end 1998, 927 enterprises with an investment commitment of Rs. 118,207 million were in commercial operation by end 1998. The foreign investment component of these projects was estimated at Rs. 73,836 million or 62 per cent of the total investment. The potential employment of these projects is estimated at 254,505 persons. By the end of 1998, there were 96 projects in the Export Processing Zone (EPZ) in Katunayake, 58 in the Biyagama EPZ, 11 in the Koggala EPZ, 2 in the Mirigama EPZ, 4 in the Malwatta Export Processing Park, 4 in the Kandy Industrial Park and 752 enterprises outside the export processing zones, of which most are in the garment sector.

During 1998, the BOI had approved 90 projects under Section 16 of the BOI Law (normal Law). The total investment commitment of these projects amounted to Rs. 5,205 million, while the foreign component was Rs. 2,645 million or 50 per cent. The estimated employment of these projects was 3,164 persons, compared to 4,046 persons in the projects approved in the previous year. Of the total approved projects, 42 projects were entirely foreign owned and 47 projects were joint ventures

Under Section 16 of the BOI Law, 397 projects were in commercial operation by end 1998. The total estimated investment in these projects was Rs. 18,416 million, of which Rs. 9,689 million or 52 per cent was from foreign sources.

LOCAL INVESTMENT

The domestic investment commitment of the 400 projects approved under Section 17 of the BOI Law during 1998 was Rs. 44,122 million and accounted for 28 per cent of the total investment commitment. The estimated local investment of the projects that signed agreements in 1998 was Rs. 19,787 million or 40 per cent of the total investment. The share of the local investment in 927 commercially operated projects under the BOI amounted to Rs. 44,370 million or 38 per cent of the total investment by end 1998. A significant portion of the investments was in enterprises located outside the EPZs.

The total investment in 1,731 enterprises registered under the Ministry of Industrial Development amounted to Rs. 89,728 million as at end 1998. The employment potential of these industries is estimated at 292,841 persons. These investments were mainly in the industrial categories of textile, apparel and leather products; chemical, rubber and plastic products; food, beverage and tobacco products and non-metallic mineral products.

AVAILABILITY OF CREDIT TO THE INDUSTRIAL SECTOR.

The amount of credit available to the industrial sector from commercial banks and long-term lending institutions increased during the year. The National Development Bank (NDB) and DFCC Bank continued to provide long-term financial facilities in the form of direct loans and equity participation, while the commercial banks provided mostly short-term financial facilities as working capital. In addition, the NDB provided refinance under the Small and Medium Enterprise Assistance Project (SMAP), which was launched in 1997, using the funds raised by the NDB jointly from foreign commercial sources and the Asian Development Bank (ADB).

During 1998, the NDB and DFCC Bank together have approved financial facilities amounting to Rs. 22,016 million to the industrial sector compared to Rs. 15,575 million approved in 1997, an increase of 41 per cent. The food, beverages and tobacco product category and chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category received a large portion of these financial facilities. Rs. 3,864 million has been approved in respect of 439 projects in the food, beverages and tobacco category, while Rs. 2,743 million has been approved in respect of 277 projects in the chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category. During the first nine months of the year, commercial banks provided credit facilities amounting to Rs. 27 billion to the industrial sector, as against Rs. 25 billion lent during 1997. The rate of growth of industrial credit granted by commercial banks during the first three quarters of 1998 was approximately 12 per cent.

During the year, the NDB approved Rs. 1,336 million of refinance under the SMAP in respect of 1,313 projects. Of this, credit amounting to Rs. 263 million was approved in respect of 225 projects in the food, beverages and tobacco products category, Rs. 170 million in respect of 127 projects in the chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category and Rs. 107 million in respect of 97 projects in the wood and wood products category. The NDB provided equity finance amounting to Rs. 1,229 million for 12 projects in 1998, compared to Rs. 418 million for 8 projects last year. Of this Rs. 1,229 million, about Rs. 530 million was provided for 3 projects in the chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category. Direct financial assistance remains the major source of industrial credit from the NDB. During the year, the NDB approved Rs. 14,963 million worth of direct financial assistance in respect of 809 projects, up from Rs. 11,647 million approved in respect of 733 projects in the previous year. The amount of loans approved increased by 29 per cent over the previous year, while the number of projects approved increased by 10 per cent. A large number of projects in the food, beverages and tobacco products category and chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category have absorbed a significant amount of this financial assistance.

The number of projects and the amount of credit approved by DFCC Bank increased considerably in 1998. During the year, DFCC Bank approved credit amounting to Rs. 4,488 million in respect of 430 industrial projects compared to Rs. 3,380 million approved in respect of 337 projects in 1997. Of the Rs. 4,488 million, Rs. 1,559 million was approved in respect of 148 projects in the food, beverages and tobacco products category, Rs. 1,039 million was approved in respect of 66 projects in the textiles, wearing apparel and leather products category and Rs. 824 million was approved in respect of 53 projects in the chemical, petroleum, rubber and plastic products category.

INDUSTRIAL POLICY

The main objective of the industrial policy of the government are expansion, diversification and upgrading of the domestic industrial base, efficient management of physical and manpower resources, creation of new employment opportunities in both rural and urban sectors, export promotion and the promotion of industrialisation at the regional level. These objectives are expected to be achieved by making the macro economic environment conducive to rapid industrial growth, encouraging private sector participation, promoting direct foreign investment, facilitating the expansion of small and medium sector industries, promoting regional industrialisation, encouraging commercialisation of research and development and promoting linkages between large and small firms.

A Presidential Trade and Tariff Commission was appointed to rationalise the existing tariff structure. The Commission recommended a reduction of the prevailing tariff rates and a move towards a two band tariff structure in two stages. The government Budget for 1999 also indicated that a two band tariff structure would be introduced in the year 2000. The standard duty rates of 10, 20 and 35 per cent were replaced with 5, 10 and 30 per cent, respectively. Accordingly, all imported industrial raw material and machinery were brought under a duty rate of 5 per cent. This measure is expected to reduce the cost of production and thereby enhance the competitiveness of Sri Lankan products.

The Presidential Trade and Tariff Commission has also recommended a complete review of the Customs Ordinance and systems and procedures to improve Customs administration. The improvement of the efficiency of the Customs would assist export oriented industries by way of timely delivery of finished products and quick access to raw materials, which are crucial to maintaining competitiveness in the global market. In this regard, the 1999 Budget proposed the appointment of a committee of experts from both the public and the private sector to undertake a complete review of the Customs Ordinance and systems and procedures. The 1999 Budget also proposed extending the servicing hours of Sri Lanka Customs and the Ports Authority without any additional cost to the exporters.

The government took several measures to improve industrial and social infrastructure facilities. The expansion of telecommunication services, power generation, port development, industrial parks and industrial township are expected to encourage industrial investment. In order to overcome the problem of a lack of skilled labour, the 1999 Budget proposed to set up a Skills Development Fund to encourage employers to conduct job entry training, upgrading and retraining of their employees, as well as to improve enterprise based training. In addition, measures are needed to make the labour market more flexible. This would include the introduction of necessary reforms to the existing labour laws, which are often viewed as discouraging private investment.

The duties on textiles and other related raw materials were abolished in the 1998 Budget to overcome the Customs related problems faced by the export oriented garment manufacturers who rely heavily on imported raw materials. Accordingly, the import of yarn, fabrics and all related intermediate and capital goods was made duty free from November 1997. This measure is expected to eliminate customs delays, smuggling and under invoicing and also to reduce the lead time of exports. A 10 per cent Customs duty was imposed on imports of ready-made garments to encourage the domestic garment industry, while a restructuring programme for the textiles industry was launched to assist the industry to modernise its mills and to introduce new generation technology.

INCENTIVES TO THE INDUSTRIAL SECTOR

The fiscal incentives offered through the 1996 Budget were extended for a further period of two years in the 1998 Budget in order to encourage the use of advanced technology. This scheme offers duty free importation of approved machinery and equipment for new enterprises investing over Rs. 4 million and Rs. 1 million for existing enterprises and a five year tax exemption on incremental profits. The minimum investment requirements relating to the importation of approved machinery and equipment were removed in the 1999 Budget with a view to encouraging small scale enterprises to acquire advanced technology. However, income tax concessions are extended only if the investment proposals are above the prevailing minimum level of investment. Under this scheme, approvals have been given for 142 new enterprises with a total investment commitment of Rs. 10,883 million, and for 378 existing enterprises with a total investment commitment of Rs. 23,270 million as at end 1998. During this period, Rs. 22,465 million worth of machinery and equipment has been imported under this scheme. The potential employment of these projects is estimated to be 31,771 persons.

With a view to encouraging private sector involvement in training facilities in priority sectors such as gems and jewellery, electronics, computer software and garments, the 1999 Budget proposed to amend the BOI incentives to grant a 5 year tax holiday, provided that each training institute undertakes training for a minimum of 300 persons. Prior to this amendment, the BOI provided a preferential tax rate of 15 per cent and duty free facility to establish training facilities. It was also proposed to provide financial assistance to expand and improve existing training institutions and to establish new training facilities. The proposed Skills Development Fund is expected to support employers to conduct job entry training, upgrading and retraining of their employees as well as to improve enterprise based training.

Following the recommendations made by the Development Review Committees of the Advisory Councils for Industry, certain industries such as electronics and components for assembling, ceramics and glassware, rubber based industries, light and heavy engineering, cutting and polishing of gems, diamonds and manufacture of jewellery were declared as "thrust industries". Special incentives were made available to promote such industries in 1998. New enterprises, which establish such industries in designated zones with a minimum investment of Rs. 50 million, create 50 new employment opportunities and export over 90 per cent of output, are eligible for a 10 year tax holiday with other BOI incentives and concessions. Non-BOI enterprises that have already engaged in a thrust industry are permitted to import plant and machinery on a duty free basis to modernise existing factories. In addition to these duty free concessions, a 5 year tax holiday is granted to those enterprises which reach the 50 per cent export requirement within a period of 5 years, while a 10 year tax holiday and full BOI status would be granted to those enterprises which comply with the 90 per cent export requirement. Further, investors investing their undisclosed accumulated income in thrust industries were declared eligible for a tax/exchange control amnesty. Those engaged in the gold, gem and jewellery industry were also given a host of other incentives, including exemption from income tax and National Security Levy and duty free import of gems and gold.

The 'restructuring Programme for the Textile Industry', introduced after the liberalisation of textile imports in 1998, is expected to encourage domestic textile manufacturers in introducing new generation technology to increase efficiency and competitiveness. A special fund known as the Textile Debt Recovery Fund was set up to transfer all outstanding loans, together with accrued interest of the textile manufacturers. Upon transferring the outstanding debt to the Fund the enterprises become eligible to obtain new financial assistance for modernisation and restructuring of the mills against the collateral/mortgage already furnished as security for previous loans. By end 1998, about 128 entrepreneurs had submitted applications to avail themselves of relief offered under this restructuring programme. Of these, 101 applications have been considered favourably and their total debt outstanding, amounting to Rs. 3,781 million, has been transferred to the Textile Debt Recovery Fund (TDRF). Of the claims relating to these 101 entrepreneurs, five have already been finalised and the rest are being processed. The government has already paid Rs. 204.2 million to the banks (Rs. 97.6 million principal and Rs. 106.7 million interest) in respect of the debts transferred to the TDRF. By the end of 1998, one entrepreneur had already undertaken a modernisation project and it is expected that more will start modernisation of their factories, once the relevant agreements are signed. A full interest subsidy for those textile manufacturers who are classified as good customers of the banks was also introduced. These manufacturers were also allowed to import project related machinery, equipment, parts and inputs, including raw materials and accessories for the textile industry, on a duty free basis. The government has also decided to procure from these manufacturers the requirements of fabric materials for school uniforms, uniform requirements of service personnel and items such as bandages and gauze for the health sector and uniform requirements of the Postal and Railway Departments etc., commencing from January 1999, until their products reach the quality standards demanded by international markets. For the purpose of implementing this procurement plan, a Domestic Textile Allocation Committee (DTAC) has been set up in the Ministry of Industrial Development to assess the fabric requirements of government institutions and to identify the manufacturers eligible to receive these orders on a quota basis.

To promote regional industrialisation the government has also introduced an incentive scheme aimed at promoting geographical dispersion of industries. Accordingly, any BOI or non-BOI enterprise in commercial operation would be entitled to receive incentives offered by the BOI, provided that such enterprise sets up an expansion unit or relocates in a zone designated as a 'difficult area' or a 'most difficult area' before 31 December 1998, employs a minimum of 150 persons and exports a minimum of 50 per cent of the output. The minimum export requirement will be 90 per cent in the case of the garments industry. An enterprise in commercial operation setting up an expansion unit or relocating to 'difficult area' or a 'most difficult area' will be entitled to 5 year and 8 year tax holiday periods, respectively, along with other BOI incentives. It was also proposed to grant an additional 5 year tax holiday and other incentives to existing BOI enterprises currently located in difficult and most difficult areas for expansion at the same location for the manufacture of garments, ancillary products or other related items for the garment industry and for setting up of specialised training centres in advanced technology, provided that such enterprises are commissioned before 31 December 1998 and the enterprise provides employment for a minimum of 100 persons. Although this incentive scheme was to expire in 1998, it has been extended till 31 December 1999, in the 1999 Budget.

NATIONAL PRODUCTIVITY DECADE PROGRAMME

The National Productivity Decade Programme, launched in 1997 with the objective of improving productivity in both the private and public sectors, continued in 1998. The year 1998 was considered an important year in the implementation of the productivity programme, in view of the emphasis placed on productivity improvement in the public sector, carrying the message of productivity to peripheral areas and formulating a strategic Five Year Plan for productivity improvement. The Five Year Plan aims to improve productivity in the public, private and non-corporate sectors through leadership improvement, human resource development, information technology (IT) improvement, improvement of utilisation of finances and introduction of reforms to rules, regulations and procedures. According to the Ministry of Industrial Development, the Five Year Plan will be implemented from 1999. The Ministry of Industrial Development paid special attention to popularising worker participation techniques and enhancing awareness on productivity themes among employees, manufacturers and the general public. Productivity cells have been set up in almost every ministry and liaison officers have been appointed to co-ordinate the productivity improvement activities of the respective ministries, departments and public sector organisations. Radio discussion programmes that stressed the need for awareness creation among the public on productivity improvement themes were given priority. During 1998, 50 English programmes, 50 Sinhala programmes and 52 children's programmes were broadcast.

INDUSTRY LOCATION

Many industrialists prefer to locate their factories in the Colombo and Gampaha districts, owing to the availability of relatively better infrastructure facilities in these districts and the close proximity to the sea and airport. The concentration of industries in these districts has created several economic and social problems, including congestion in the capital city, scarcity of labour for industries, environmental pollution and escalation of real estate prices. The government has taken several policy measures in the recent past to minimise excessive concentration of industries in these areas and to discourage migration of people to those areas for employment and investment purposes. The most important measures taken by the government in this regard include the introduction of the Two Hundred Garment Factory Programme and the Fifty Garment Factory Programme, the establishment of mini Export Processing Zones or Parks in Kandy, Malwatta, Watupitiwala, and Mirigama, the introduction of the regional industrial parks, industrial estates and industrial township programme, the implementation of the Southern Development Programme and the provision of fiscal incentives to set up industries in designated difficult and most difficult areas of the country.

To overcome inadequate infrastructure facilities in the regions, the government launched the regional industrial parks programme. The Seethawaka Industrial Park established under this programme has completed its construction work in 1998 by providing infrastructure facilities such as factory buildings, access roads, electricity, water, telecommunication and waste disposal facilities. Selling of factory lots in the Seethawaka Industrial Park commenced in July 1998. The more environment friendly industries such as food processing, gems and jewellery, garments, electronic and electronic products, wooden furniture, rubber based industries and assembling of electronic components are encouraged in this park. A preliminary report on the construction of the Matugama Industrial Park, covering 300 acres, has already been prepared. State land, 105 acres in extent in Bata-atha in the Southern Province, is being developed to set up an industrial park for the tanning industry, with the necessary infrastructure facilities including waste water disposal plant, chrome recovery units and a solid waste disposal system.

The BOI has taken steps to set up mini Export Processing Zones in Malwatta, Mirigama and Watupitiwala by providing the required infrastructure facilities. The Malwatta mini EPZ will accommodate 11 industries, after completion of its construction work. The potential employment of this project is estimated at 5,000 persons. The Mirigama mini EPZ, extending over 40 hectares has a capacity for 15 industrial units. The first phase of the construction of this park is expected to be completed in mid 1999. The Watupitiwala mini EPZ consists of 27 hectares for 20 industrial plots.

Under the regional industrial estate development programme, construction work in twelve industrial estates at Homagama, Minuwangoda, Karandeniya, Beliatta, Pannala, Udukawa, Matale, Dankotuwa, Ampara, Kuruwita, Kalutara, and Thamankaduwa commenced in 1997 and 1998. These parks will cover 324 acres and will have the capacity to accommodate around 225 industrial units. At end 1998, 80 blocks of land had been allocated to potential investors and 17 industrial projects in these sites were in commercial operation, employing, 3,460 persons. Setting up of 15 more industrial estates in the Kurunegala, Anuradhapura, Nuwara-Eliya, Ampara, Trincomalee, Batticaloa, Vavuniya, Jaffna, Moneragala and Kandy districts was being considered. The total extent of land to be developed under this programme has been estimated at 335 acres. The envisaged employment opportunities in these industrial estates were estimated at 15,000 persons. The 1999

Budget also proposed to set up several 'Dedicated Economic Centres' in regions in order to promote economic activities giving more consideration to area specific problems. The construction of the Divulapitiya and Dambulla Dedicated Economic Centres commenced in 1998.

There were 160 garment factories registered under the Two Hundred Garment Factory Programme in 21 districts at the end of the year. The location of these factories shows wide regional distribution with 138 factories or 86.2 per cent of the total of 160 factories being located in districts other than Colombo and Gampaha. There were factories in difficult districts such as Moneragla, Batticaloa, Trincomalee and Ampara. Under this programme, the Ratnapura and Anuradhapura districts had 15 factories each, while the Puttalam and Kandy districts had 12 factories each. However, of the 1,274 enterprises registered under Section 16 and 17 of the BOI Law, 939 or 73 per cent were located in the Colombo and Gampaha districts. Of the 1,747 factories registered with Ministry of Industrial Development under the Industrial Promotion Act of 1990, 1,511 factories were also located in these two districts.

AGRICULTURE SECTION

PADDY

Paddy production in 1998 rose by 20 per cent, on top of a 9 per cent increase in 1997. The output reached a level of 2.7 million metric tons (129 million bushels). This is the second highest level of production ever recorded and only 4 per cent less than the peak production registered in 1995. There have been production improvements during both the Maha and Yala seasons. An increase in the area under paddy by 16 per cent, as well as significant increase in the average yield in Yala 1998, contributed to this improvement in output.

Paddy output in Maha 1997/98 increased by 22 per cent to 1.78 million metric tons (85 million bushels), which was almost similar to the peak production level reported during the Maha 1982/83 season. The improvement in the Maha output could be attributed to the increased area cultivated, especially in the dry zone districts of Anuradhapura, Batticaloa and Kurunegala, following normal rainfall during the North East monsoon. These three districts together accounted for over 90 percent of the increase in production. The most notable improvement in production was in the Anuradhapura district, which showed a more than fourfold increase to 230,000 metric tons. The major paddy producing districts of Anuradhapura, Ampara, Kurunegala and Polonnaruwa accounted for 48 per cent of the total Maha output. Paddy output in the Yala season, after showing a partial recovery in 1997, increased by 16 per cent to 911,000 metric tons (44 million bushels) in 1998. A substantial production increase in the low country dry zone districts more than offset the decline in production in wet zone paddy areas during Yala 1998.

The annual average paddy yield improved by a further 1 percent in 1998 to 3,636 kgs. per hectare. This improvement was recorded purely on account of significant improvement in the Yala yield as the yield in the Maha season indicated a decline. The average yield during 1997/98 Maha declined by 3 per cent to 3,555 kgs. (69 bushels per acre) per hectare, mainly as a result of increased extents of marginal paddy lands being brought under cultivation, promoted by the better rainfall experienced during the season. In contrast, the average yield during Yala 1998 increased significantly by 8 per cent, to reach the best ever Yala yield of 3,806 kgs. per hectare (75 bushels per-acre). The average yield under all three types of irrigation improved considerably during the Yala season. Yields in the rain fed areas showed a 10 per cent improvement compared to the previous Yala season. Favourable rainfall reduced crop damage to 2 per cent compared to 5 per cent in 1997. The Uda Walawe area recorded the highest average yield of 4,787 kgs. per hectare during the Yala season. For the second consecutive Maha season, the Mahaweli 'H' area recorded the highest average yield, which was 7 percent higher than in the previous Maha season.

The total extent of paddy lands that were insured against crop failure by the Agricultural Insurance Board (AIB) during the cultivation year stood at 14,000 hectares, while the premia collected amounted to Rs. 9.25 million. Indemnities paid during the year amounted to a sum of Rs. 1.5 million. According to the Agricultural Insurance Act No. 27 of 1973, it is compulsory to insure all paddy lands against crop failure. However, the extent insured is less than 2 percent of the gross extent sown. The AIB attributes this low rate of participation in the scheme to practical difficulties in enforcing the law and the reluctance of farmers in less risky areas to join the scheme voluntarily.

Fertiliser issues to the paddy sector during both the Maha and Yala seasons increased by 4 per cent. The total quantity of fertiliser issued was 251,000 metric tons, compared to 242,000 metric tons issued during the previous cultivation year. Fertiliser issues during the Maha season increased by 5 per cent to 162,000 metric tons, while the issues during the Yala season increased by 2 per cent to 89,500 metric tons.

Under the New Comprehensive Rural Credit Scheme (NCRCS), a sum of Rs. 178 million was granted to the paddy sector during the Maha 1997/98 season. This was 35 per cent less than the credit granted during the corresponding season of the previous year. The amount of credit granted during Yala 1998 also declined from Rs. 108 million in Yala 1997 to Rs. 99 million in Yala 1998.

The average producer price of paddy declined by 7 per cent to Rs. 215 per bushel (Rs. 10.32 per kg.) compared to the previous year owing to the increase in output. However, the producer price remained well above the Guaranteed Price of Rs. 155 per bushel (Rs. 7.42 per kg.) which has not been revised since 1993. The Paddy Marketing Board has not actively participated in purchasing paddy since 1996. However, paddy purchases made by the Co-operative Wholesale Establishment (CWE) and the farmer organisations at prices ranging from Rs. 9 to Rs. 12.40 per kg. helped to stabilise prices during the glut period.

One of the problems faced by the paddy sector is the increasing cost of production and reduced profitability. The average cost of production (COP) of paddy has risen over the years owing to the increased costs of inputs, especially labour wages, tractor hiring fees and agro-chemicals. This has made the cultivation of paddy in certain districts, especially in the Wet Zone, unremunerative. The government has recognised this problem and made a special allocation for the Department of Agriculture in the 1998 Budget to identify such areas, conduct research and make recommendations to persuade these paddy farmers to diversify into other food crops.

The Extension Division of the Department of Agriculture continued the special 'Yaya' demonstration programme for the third consecutive year to improve farmer awareness of scientific methods of cultivation among 13,000 farmers. Sri Lanka's paddy yields are higher than those of all SAARC countries as well as other major paddy producing Asian countries such as Thailand, Myanmar and Philippines. However, the yield levels achieved by countries such as China, South Korea and Japan are over one and a half times the paddy yield obtained in Sri Lanka. Hence, it is apparent that there is a potential for further increases in paddy yields in Sri Lanka.

According to the 1996/97 Consumer Finances and Socio Economic Survey of the Central Bank of Sri Lanka, the annual per capita consumption of rice is 106 kgs. After adjusting for wastage and seed paddy requirements, what was available for consumption reflected a self-sufficiency ratio of 83 per cent. The deficit in local supply was met through imports. In 1998, 168,000 metric tons of rice were imported. Of the total rice imports, 75 per cent or 125,000 metric tons were imported during the month of January, when a duty waiver on rice imports was introduced to reduce the escalating price of rice in the domestic market. Although there was a strong lobby by rice importers to enforce a duty waiver on rice imports during the latter part of 1998, the government did not accede to their request with the intention of stabilising paddy prices at a reasonable level, considering the farmers' interests as well.

TEA

Tea production, which recorded an upswing during the last few years, continued the same trend during 1998 as well. For the fifth consecutive year, tea production recorded a new high production level surpassing the previous year's production by 1 per cent to reach 280 million kg. The record output was reached in spite of a drop in production in the high and mid elevational areas and came through the improved performance recorded in the low elevational areas. Well distributed rainfall, coupled with attractive prices for tea that prevailed during the first half of the year, which facilitated the increased application of fertiliser, contributed towards the overall improvement in tea production. The buoyant price of tea enjoyed by the Sri Lankan tea industry continued through the first half of 1998, but took a downturn from the beginning of the second half with the increased economic problems in Russia after the rouble crisis and the decline of world tea prices due to the substantial increases in production in major tea producing countries such as India and Kenya. Tea exports to Russia during the last three years accounted for 20 per cent of Sri Lanka's tea exports, Direct tea exports to Russia in 1998 declined to 38 million kgs. from 49 million in 1997.

The increase in tea production came from the low elevation areas. Output in the low elevational areas which showed a decline in 1997 due to the effect of the El-nino phenomenon, increased by 11 per cent in 1998 to reach an all time high of 150 million kgs. This accounted for 54 per cent of the total tea output. Meanwhile, the output in both high and mid elevation, which showed improvements last year, suffered a setback. The production in the high elevation areas dropped by 9 per cent, while that of the mid elevational areas declined by 6 per cent, compared to 1997.

Tea production in the small holder sector continued to increase steadily, registering a further 11 per cent increase in 1998. The small holders' share in the national output increased to 61 per cent from 54 per cent in 1997. The average yield of the smallholder sector increased by 11 per cent to 2,192 kgs. per hectare in 1998. Meanwhile, the yield level in the estate sector has been stagnant and far from satisfactory. It is approximately half (48 per cent) the yield level in the small holder sector.

The average national yield was 1,559 kgs. per hectare. This was much lower than the yield levels of other competing countries such as Kenya and India, which were 2,284 kgs. per hectare 1,850 kgs. per hectare, respectively. The poor yield level in the estate sector is attributed to the large extent of tea under poor yielding seeding tea compared to almost 100 per cent of the extent under vegetatively propagated (VP) tea in the smallholder sector. If the tea industry is to remain viable and competitive, even with a downturn in prices, the yields will have to be increased steadily. To improve yields, the plantation companies, in particular, will have to replace their poor yielding seeding tea with VP tea.

Fertiliser application in the tea sector has shown a steady increase since 1995. The fertiliser application during 1998 increased by 12 per cent and reached an all time high level of 181,800 metric tons. Fertiliser distribution under the fertiliser loan scheme implemented by the Tea Small Holdings Development Authority (TSHDA), which increased by 60 per cent in 1997, showed a further 9 per cent improvement during 1998.

The upward trend in tea prices, which commenced during the latter part of 1995, continued until August 1998. Thereafter, the prices tumbled from an average of Rs. 136.52 per kg. in August to Rs. 117.47 per kg. in December. In addition to the economic problems in Russia, which affected the direct tea exports to Russia, the global tea supply also improved considerably with the recovery of production especially in Kenya by nearly 30 per cent after the setback suffered owing to a drought in 1997. Production in India also increased, contributing to the downward pressure on world tea prices. The annual net sales average for all teas at the Colombo Auction, however, showed an increase of 13 per cent to Rs. 134.35 per kg. to reach a record price in rupee terms, owing to the extremely buoyant prices that prevailed in the first half of the year. The annual average export price also improved by 17 per cent to reach a record price level of Rs. 184.94 per kg.

The quantity of tea exported increased by 1 per cent to 272 million kgs. This, coupled with improved prices, resulted in an improvement in the export earnings by 18 per cent to Rs. 50,300 million. For the third consecutive year, countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS) continued to be the leading buyer of Sri Lanka tea and accounted for 16 per cent of the total share of exports. The three leading buyers, viz., CIS, UAE and Turkey, purchased almost 40 per cent of the total exports.

The tea sector in Sri Lanka still faces some structural problems. The rapidly increasing cost of production continued to be a problem in 1998. The weighted average cost of production (COP) of made tea of the state owned plantations and the 21 plantation companies increased by 14 per cent to Rs. 106.72 per kg. The increase in the daily wage rate from Rs. 83 (and a maximum price, share bonus (PSB) of Rs. 10) to Rs. 101 (daily wage rate of Rs. 95 plus PSB of Rs. 6) during the year, raised the COP. The share of labour cost in the COP increased further to over 66 per cent from 59 per cent in 1997. Payment for bought leaf (green leaf) also increased owing to the average price increases at the Colombo Auction for made tea, as the payment for green leaf is based on a formula linked to the Colombo Auction prices.

Though the value addition in tea in Sri Lanka is relatively high compared to other major tea producing countries, still a major share of the tea is exported in bulk form. Bulk tea exports during 1998 accounted for 59 per cent of the total export volume, Sri Lanka, which has over 130 years of experience in growing tea, does not appear to have concentrated adequately on the marketing aspects. This is reflected in the fact that there are only two internationally popular local brands of tea. Hence, it is very important to pay greater attention to the promotion of brand names, especially to penetrate and establish a special market for 'Ceylon Tea' in an internationally competitive environment.

The extent replanted has declined over the years due to the loss of income due to uprooting. As an incentive to increase the extents replanted, the replanting subsidy was increased with effect from 01 July 1998. The replanting subsidy rates in the mid and high elevations were increased, after three years, from Rs. 67,000 per hectare to Rs. 110,000 per hectare, while in low elevations it was increased from Rs. 57,000 per hectare to Rs. 100,000 per hectare. The extent replanted during the year was 635 hectares and the subsidy disbursed for the same by the TSHDA increased to Rs. 58 million as against Rs. 30 million disbursed during the previous year.

There has been no change in the new planting subsidy for the last 4 years. It remained at Rs. 36,000 per hectare for all three elevations. The extent newly planted during the year was 381 hectares while the subsidy disbursed by the TSHDA amounted to Rs. 19.2 million. The other activities carried out by the TSHDA for the benefit of the smallholders included a special input subsidy scheme, provision of advisory and extension services, a fertiliser credit scheme and the 'Tea Shakthi', a special savings investment insurance scheme. The 'Tea Shakthi' scheme for smallholders was introduced in 1997. The total number of members at end 1998 was 77,899 as against 55,648 members at end 1997. A total of 100 vehicles has been distributed among smallholder societies for the transport of green leaf under a special loan scheme using funds in the 'Tea Shakthi' Fund and special allocations made to the TSHDA in the 1998 Budget.

During 1998, nearly 60 colour separators had been purchased by the private factory owners and the plantation companies with a view to improving the quality of made tea. The buoyant prices for tea that prevailed during the first half of the year helped the companies to make these investments.

The tea industry is facing a severe shortage of labour, especially in the low elevational areas. With a view to overcoming this scarcity, the Tea Research Institute (TRI) recently introduced a harvesting shear in place of hand plucking. This shear is gaining popularity, especially in areas where the labour shortage is severe. The TRI claims that the skill required to operate the shear is simple, that no special training is required and that it is much easier than hand plucking.

The London Tea Auction, which was in operation for over 300 years, ceased to function with effect from 29 June 1998. It is said that the London Auction fell victim to a steady decline in trade volumes, which was a consequence of the growth in direct trade between producers and importers using modern technology, such as the Internet, to convey bids and offers and confirmation of contracts. At present, Colombo is the biggest tea auction centre in the world. Colombo has a vast potential to become the world's biggest tea trade centre. Other countries such as Pakistan and Dubai are also considering the possibility of opening up tea auction centres in their countries, to fill the void created by the closure of the London Auction.

Sri Lanka maintained its status as the largest tea exporter in the world accounting for 271 million kgs. of world exports in 1998, followed by Kenya (264 million kgs.)

Rubber production, which has shown a declining trend since 1996, recorded a further decline of 9 per cent to 96 million kgs. in 1998. A decline in yield per hectare and loss of tapping days due to heavy rain in the last quarter of 1998 were the major reasons for the lower level of production. Unattractive prices also led to the abandoning of tapping in certain rubber lands and discouraged the application of fertiliser, thereby reducing the yield levels further.

The declining price trend in international rubber markets in 1998 was also reflected in the domestic market. The Colombo Auction price of Ribbed Smoked Sheet (RSS) rubber declined to a very low level. The annual average price of RSS at the Colombo Auction declined sharply by 12 per cent to Rs. 49.76 while other grades of RSS prices declined by 15-17 per cent. The average export price (FOB) of all grades of rubber further declined by 10 per cent to Rs. 67.72 when compared with 1997. The average cost of production of rubber (in large plantations as well as in the smallholder sector), as estimated by the Rubber Development Department (RDD), has increased by 10 per cent to Rs. 44.41 per kg. This has led to an erosion of the profit margins of rubber smallholders.

Several factors accounted for the recent decline in natural rubber prices in the international market. The release of a large quantity of buffer stocks held by the USA and larger depreciations in 1997 of the currencies of the major rubber producing countries such as Thailand, Indonesia and Malaysia (which account for 72 per cent of the global natural rubber production) triggered the decline in prices. The price decline was further aggravated by the release of natural rubber stocks by the Thai government in early 1998. The prices of synthetic rubber, which is a close substitute for natural rubber, also declined sharply owing to the drop in petroleum prices and contributed to the decline of the price of natural rubber. The recession in East Asia has led to a large reduction in the demand for vehicles in these countries. The major portion of the demand for natural rubber is a derived demand arising from the demand for vehicles. Hence, the East Asian crisis has greatly affected the demand for rubber. The present weak demand could have a continuing depressing effect on rubber prices in the short-run.

The International Natural Rubber Organisation (INRO), which represents both natural rubber producers and consumers, usually intervenes in the market to stabilise rubber prices. However, such intervention did not take place in 1997/98 on the Daily Market Indicator Price (DMIP) as the prices did not come down below the threshold level. INRO has been attempting to find measures to solve the problems caused by the distortion to the DMIP due to depreciation of the currencies on which it is based. All in all, the natural rubber treaty, the world's only surviving traditional commodity price stabilisation agreement, could not stabilise rubber prices in the present context. The future of INRO is uncertain as Malaysia has already intimated its intention to withdraw from INRO with effect from 15 October 1999, while Thailand is also contemplating leaving INRO.

The impact of deteriorating prices was initially felt on the smallholder sector, where the production of (RSS) is dominant. The decline in rubber prices has led certain producers, particularly sheet rubber producers, to shift from the production of sheet rubber to the sale of liquid latex for the processing of centrifuged latex and to the production of crepe rubber. As a result, the production of sheet rubber during 1998 decreased by 36.5 million kgs., 21 per cent less than in 1997. The share of sheet rubber in total rubber production decreased from 44 per cent in 1997 to 35 per cent in 1998. The negative price trend slowed down in the early part of 1998 to some extent, due to the favourable prices for crepe rubber. Sri Lankan exporters enjoy a reasonable share of the world market for crepe. Further, the crepe rubber market is dominated by forward contracts. The production share of crepe rubber increased from 39 per cent to 47 per cent during this period.

With a view to arresting the deteriorating prices, the government removed the cess on rubber exports, which was Rs. 5.40 per kg. in May 1998, and that had a positive impact on the prices obtained by the producers.

The use of rubber as an intermediary input in the manufacturing sector continued to increase. The increase in 1998 was 23 per cent, from 44 million kgs. in 1997 to 54 million kgs. in 1998. Accordingly, more than half (56 per cent) of the rubber output was used locally by the industrial sector.

Concessions granted to the rubber product manufacturing sector in the 1998 Budget also helped to increase the domestic demand for rubber.

The reduction in prices and the lack of funds caused the extents newly planted and replanted to decline by 35 per cent and 1 per cent respectively to 515 hectares and 1,160 hectares, respectively, in 1998. Replanting and new planting subsidies are financed through the funds generated by the cess collection. The replanting subsidy has played a vital role and acted as a catalyst in encouraging the replanting of rubber. Almost all the rubber smallholders have either availed themselves of the replanting or the new planting subsidy to establish their rubber stands. Hence the continuation of these subsidy schemes is very important. Therefore, even in the absence of a cess collection, the replanting and new planting subsidy programme should be continued to ensure the long-term sustainability of the industry. Inter cropping of rubber land with short-term crops such as passion fruit and pineapple would enhance the rubber growers' income during the gestation period of rubber cultivation.

The low rubber yield in Sri Lanka is one of the major problems faced by the industry. The present yield levels are far below the yield levels obtained in India and Malaysia. India's average yield level is about 50 per cent higher than that of Sri Lanka due to the high use of rain guards and proper management. The low yield levels are associated with the abandoning of fertiliser application, particularly by smallholders. A recently conducted sample survey of smallholders by the Central Bank in the Ratnapura and Kalutara Districts revealed that the regular application of fertiliser has helped some of the smallholders to remain viable even after the recent decline in prices.

The survey further revealed that there is a shortage of experienced tappers. It has been observed that most of the present tappers are old and that members of the younger generation are reluctant to be employed as tappers, owing to the relatively lower wage and dignity attached to the occupation. In particular, young females prefer employment in garment factories, which is considered a more dignified occupation compared to being rubber tappers. However, with a view to overcoming the shortage of tappers, the Rubber Development Department has trained about 180 tappers in 1998, with the assistance of the Vocational Training Sector of the Vocational Training Ministry.

COCONUT

The total coconut production in 1998 showed a slight decline compared to the 1997 level. This decline has been attributed to the lagged effect of the drought that prevailed in the coconut triangle in the previous year. Coconut production in 1998 is estimated to have declined by 3 per cent. Production of desiccated coconut (DC) declined due to weak international market conditions, by 31 per cent in terms of nut equivalent. DC exports showed a substantial decline during the first half of 1998 when compared with the corresponding period in the previous year. However, some signs of recovery in the sector were observed during the second half. The nut equivalent of coconut oil production increased by 16 per cent, to 334 million nuts during 1998. Coconut is largely a domestically consumed item. Domestic use of coconut accounted for 69 per cent of total production in 1998. In addition to household use, coconut is used as an industrial raw material in areas such as confectionaries and biscuits. The use of coconut has been growing fast in recent years.

The price of fresh nuts remained fairly high throughout the year reflecting an overall supply shortage. It declined gradually with an improvement in supply and an easing of competition for procurement of nuts for DC and for the coconut oil industry. However, during the fourth quarter of 1998, with the onset of the lean season, price levels surged up again and at the end of the year reached a record level of Rs. 7,842 per 1,000 nuts against Rs. 6,495 per 1,000 nuts at the end of 1997. Though the average export price (f.o.b.) of DC dropped by 2 per cent, the average export price (f.o.b.) of the three major coconut kernel products increased marginally from Rs. 9.63 per nut in 1997 to Rs. 9.73 per nut in 1998. However, in US dollars, the export price declined by 9 per cent in 1998. A substantial decline of 25 per cent (in rupee terms) was observed in kernel product exports. The fall in nut production, coupled with devaluation of currencies in the East Asian region, had a marked impact on the export performance. The export price of major coconut products such as DC and copra remained at low levels in 1998 consequent on the devaluation of currencies in the major coconut exporting countries, viz., the Philippines and Indonesia. Although export earnings from non-kernel products increased by 19 per cent from Rs. 2,075 million in 1997 to Rs. 2,478 million in 1998, export earnings from all coconut products declined by 12 per cent from Rs. 6,939 million in 1997 to Rs. 6,110 million in 1998.

However, the international price of coconut oil remained steady throughout the year, following a shortage in supply from major producer countries and a drop in the supply of substitutes such as palm oil and palm kernel oil. The major coconut oil producing countries, such as the Philippines and Indonesia, experienced difficulties in obtaining copra to manufacture coconut oil due to the impact of the El nino weather phenomenon which affected those countries during the second half of 1997. Anticipating a shortfall in production, international prices of coconut oil surged up during 1998. The same price trend was more or less reflected in the local market. However, in the local market, a severe shortage of nuts was experienced immediately after the onset of the lean season. This aggravated the situation and the prices of copra and coconut oil increased sharply towards the end of 1998.

The total extent under coconut is estimated at about 439,000 hectares. The extent in bearing was around 363,000 hectares in 1998, the same as in 1997. The Coconut Cultivation Board (CCB) continued its productivity improvement programme through its extension services. Meantime, the CCB took the initiative, with the help of the Ministry of Public Administration, Home Affairs and Plantation Industries, to introduce legislation to regulate fragmentation of coconut lands. Draft legislation has been forwarded to the Legal Draftsman's Department for approval.

A joint venture company, Mahaweli Coconut Plantations Ltd., (MCPL) was formed by the Mahaweli Authority of Sri Lanka (MASL) and the DC Millers Association in 1998. The company expects to cultivate coconut in the Mahaweli area to offset production losses arising from the fragmentation of coconut lands in major coconut growing areas. The Mahaweli System B area has been identified by the company for cultivation of coconut using advanced technology (such as drip irrigation) with the help of foreign expertise. The cost of the project is estimated at Rs. 279 million. Upon completion of the three phases of this project, around 1,500 hectares would be brought under coconut. The company also plans to promote intercropping (with banana, maize etc.) in these new coconut lands.

Except for DC, the other cess rates for coconut product exports remained unchanged in 1998. The cess on DC exports was increased from Rs. 1.00 per kg. to Rs. 2.00 per kg. with effect from 1 March 1998 for a three year period ending 1 March 2001. The upward revision of the cess on DC was to mobilise adequate financial support for the new joint venture company (MPCL). The total cess collection in 1998 was about Rs. 147 million, a 34 per cent increase over the previous year. During the year, the CCB utilised some of these cess funds to continue its support programmes such as new planting (Rs. 13.5 million), replanting (Rs. 10 million), home garden (Rs. 15 million) and the 'Kapruka Ayojana' Credit Scheme (Rs. 8 million) to develop coconut lands.

The high domestic consumption of more than 70 per cent of total coconut production has constrained the exploitation of the export market for coconut products to a great extent. In addition, methods used in domestic consumption of fresh nuts results in considerable wastage. In order to reduce such wastage, coconut kernel based products such as coconut milk powder and coconut cream should be promoted and made readily available to the consumer at an affordable price. Therefore, incentives should be given to the manufacturers of such products, while market promotion also needs to be encouraged to popularise their local use. Apart from that, being a leading exporter of non-kernel products, such as coconut shells and activated carbon, Sri Lanka should further exploit the potential uses of coconut shells. Studies have revealed that coconut shell powder has great potential as an industrial raw material, e.g., as feed ingredients (fibre supplement), base material for mosquito coils, etc.

The Minister of Public Administration, Home Affairs and Plantation Industries, acting under Section 58(1) of the Coconut Development Act No. 46 of 1971, established the Coconut Research Board by an order published in the Gazette of March 30, 1972.

In 1978, interest in coconut was further accentuated by the creation of a separate Ministry of Coconut Industries. In 1972 under the Ministry of Plantation Industries and under the Coconut Development Authority, the Coconut Cultivation Board and the Coconut Research Board, were established. With effect from 1st January, 1980 the research functions of the Coconut Processing Board were transferred to this Institute. These functions are carried out by the institute's Division of Processing Research which became operative from 1st May, 1980. However, processing research was transferred to the Coconut Development Authority in 1989.

Effective January, 1988 the Coconut Research Institute has been given the responsibility of providing free technical advisory assistance to coconut estates of extent 50 acres and above.

The gazette notification which established the new Board specified the functions of the Coconut Research Board as follows:

- (1) The conducting and furthering of scientific research in respect of the growth and cultivation of coconut palms, the growing of other crops and the engagement in animal husbandry in coconut plantations and prevention and cure of diseases and
- (2) The establishment and maintenance of experimental stations and nurseries.
- (3) The conducting and furthering of scientific research in connection with the processing and utilization coconut products.
- (4) The establishment and maintenance of pilot plants for the processing of coconut products and the fabrication of experimental processing equipment.
- (5) The training of advisory and extension workers to assist the coconut industry; and
- (6) The guiding and advising of the coconut industry in all matters of a technical nature.

By the Gazette notification, the functions pertaining to advisory and extension services were transferred to the Coconut Cultivation Board established under the Coconut Development Act.

Laboratories and bungalows for scientific staff are located at the Central Research Station on Bandirippuwa Estate, Lunuwila, on 146 hectares of land (365 acres). There is a good library of books and periodicals, concerned with the coconut industry. The Institute issues four periodicals, COCOS and COCONUT BULLETIN in English and POL PUWATH on Sinhala and TENNAIT TAKAVAL in Tamil. The Annual Report and occasional Publications are also issued in English.

Visitors are welcome. There is a guest house for visitors. The Library is open daily on weekdays from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m. The Station is open to Visitors on Saturdays Sundays and Public Holidays. Tel. 253795, 031-55300. Fax 031-57391 Telegraphic Address: 'Cocos' Negombo.

The Institute has the following sub stations and farms for conduct of field experiments:

1. Ratmalagara Estate, Madampe (69 ha. established in 1938)
2. Pottukulama Research Station, Pallama (94 ha)
3. Walpita Estate (17 ha established in 1948)
4. Makandura seed garden (35 ha - established in 1983)

The Institute also owns the following seed gardens primarily for the supply of improved planting material for the national planting programme. A considerable amount of experiments on breeding is being carried out at the largest and the oldest of the seed gardens, the isolated Seed Garden, Ambakele, Rajakadalawa.

1. Isolated Seed Garden, Ambakele, Rajakadalawa (140 ha.; of coconut surrounded by 2974 ha. of jungle-established in 1955 for the production of CRIC 60 and CRIC 65)
2. Makandura Seed Garden, Gonawila (35 ha-established in 1983 for the production of improved tall cultivars).
3. Maduruoya Seed Garden, Bogaswewa (85 ha-established in 1986 for the production of improved tall cultivars)

The Debt Conciliation Board consists of five members appointed by the Minister of Justice, one of whom is Chairman. Three form a quorum for any Meeting. The Board was constituted under the Debt Conciliation Ordinance No. 39 of 1941 and commenced its activities in that year. It has been continuously functioning since then.

The primary function of the Board is to bring about settlements of debts due on Mortgage Bonds and other charges on properties, whether situated in town or in the country. A person who has a secured debt is entitled to seek relief in respect of unsecured debts as well in one application. The original Ordinance confined itself to Mortgages only, whereas the Amendment Act No. 5 of 1959 expanded the scope to include Conditional Transfers as well. However, when relief is sought on a conditional transfer, such application should be made before the expiry of the period within which the property may be redeemed. The Amendment Act also provided for the granting of relief in respect of charges on any immovable property although the original Ordinance restricted such relief to 'Agricultural Property'.

The Settlements arrived at are voluntary, the Board intervening only to clear and definitely set out its terms, and to use its persuasiveness in order to make them acceptable to the parties; the Board also attempts to reduce the rate of interest when it feels that the rate provided for in the Bond or Deed is excessive. In the event of these terms though fair and reasonable, being rejected by the creditor the Board is empowered to grant a Certificate to the debtor to this effect. The Certificate comes into play if the creditor thereafter institutes action for the recovery of the debt in question, and when produced in the proceedings has the effect of placing the plaintiff under certain disabilities and disadvantages. They are payments in instalments spread over a period of 10 years with interest at a very low rate; no costs of action.

When an application is pending before the Board no action on this cause of action can be instituted by the creditor in a Court of Law, and such an action cannot be instituted till the application before the Board is formally dismissed, a Certificate is issued, or default is made in terms of the Settlement entered into.

There are no stamp duties to be incurred and there is no provision for appeal. However, a creditor or a debtor who is dissatisfied with an Order made by the Board may within three months from the date of such Order move to have the Order reviewed. Services of Summons, Notices, etc., can be effected through a process server and obedience enforced by the issue of warrants and commitments to jail. In these matters the Board enjoys the same privileges as a Civil Court.

Finally, matters in issue between parties in action already instituted can, by mutual consent, be referred by the Court to the Board for adjudication, when a decree thereafter will be entered by such Court in terms of such findings.

The Office of the Board is at No.47, Temple Road, Colombo 10, staffed by a Secretary and other Officers. The sittings of the Board are held in the main Hall of the building.

SRI LANKA ESTATES

PART II ESTATES DIRECTORY

TEA, RUBBER AND COCONUT ESTATES WITH THE EXTENT OF COFFEE, COCOA, CARDAMOMS, CINNAMON, CINCHONA, CAMPHOR, TOBACCO, COTTON, FOOD CROPS AND OTHER PRODUCTS

FOLLOWED BY A COMPLETE INDEX

In arranging the list of estates we have made an attempt to preserve the names of the older Planting Districts as defined by a Committee of the Planters' Association in 1856. The development of the planting industry has been phenomenal in many respects.

All the estates that come within the limits of each district are listed together. Comprehensive details relating to these estates, their usual designations, the names of the proprietors or lessees, the agents, managers, superintendents and assistant superintendents have been included. In every case the extent of the estates is mentioned and particularised as the total in Hectares, the planted extent of each estate and the respective extent in each product. Information is also supplied regarding the names of Post towns, the distances of each estate from the railway station and the proximity of hospitals and dispensaries. The telephone numbers of the estates in those districts where there are telephones are also quoted. Wherever ascertainable we have indicated the approximate elevation of each district above sea-level as well as the elevation of each individual estate.

Attention has been paid to provide information regarding the situation of each estate of the distance in km. of each estate from the nearest railway station. The number of each estate in the Register for Labourers' Tin Tickets is also indicated in some cases.

In all cases where we have been informed of the existence of any appreciable extent of subsidiary products - cinchona, cardamoms, cotton, tobacco or any other cultivation on an estate - we have provided the particulars either in separate columns or with notes.

MEN'S ADDRESSES

THE ADDRESSES DIRECTORY has been corrected up to the end of August, 1998. In some cases an approaching change of address has been anticipated but allowance must be made for changes that have taken place while the pages were passing through the press.

Communications regarding errors, omissions, additions, &c., should be addressed to the Compiler, "Ferguson's Sri Lanka Directory", Lake House, P.O. Box 1195, Colombo.

N.B. In consulting the following list of names there are a few points which must be kept specially in view, in respect of certain names which for one reason or another, have come to acquire different forms of spelling. For instance, we have "Silva" and "Sylva" "Zilva" and "Zylva" with or without the prefix "de". It is impossible, therefore, to lay down any clear rule; accordingly although the vast majority are entered as "De Silva", yet there are some "Silvas" and one or two other forms. If the name sought for is not found under "De". "S" and "Z" must be tried. The same applies to several other Sri Lankan and other Asiatic names. One person will write "Peiris" or "Pieris", another "Peris" and "Pereira", another "Perera". So with "Alwis" and "Alvis" the former used often with the prefix "de" while "Goonewardene", "Gooneratne", "Goonesekera", and "Moonesinha" are written as "Gunawardana", "Gunaratne", "Gunasekera", and "Munasinha", respectively, according to spellings adopted, or even, perhaps, according to the taste and fancy of the speller. The letters C.G. and K. are often interchangeable. Keeping these hints in view, however, there ought not to be much difficulty in finding the names and addresses of Sri Lankans who have names which are spelt variously.
